

Red Sox Win, 20-2

Little League Gets Initial Beginning in Brazos County

Little League baseball got its initial start in Brazos County Saturday when, after a mammoth parade in downtown Bryan, two games were played at the Little League Park.

Bryan Chief of Police Rip Collins, director of the Spring training program, threw out the first ball of the 1951 season and the American League Southside Food Market Red Sox took it from there. The Sox blasted out a 20-2 victory over the Seven-Up Tigers in the days' most lop-sided scoring contest.

The players wear a regulation rubber cleated shoe, instead of the regular iron cleats, and batter's helmets to prevent an occasional bean-ball from injuring the players. The team members are also insured by the League against injury.

2000 Teams Across Nation

From the small beginning in Williamsport, the Little League has grown to a nation-wide organization with more than 600 leagues and over 2,000 teams governed by a nation non-profit organization, Little League, Inc. The corporation makes all official rules for the teams and is operated by Stotz who is now the national commissioner.

The games are so closely modeled after the majors that players can be ejected from the game for using improper language when questioning the decisions of the umpire. The same rule applies to spectators who dispute decisions.

There are 144 games scheduled this year with each team playing 18 games. After the regular season, an all-star team will be chosen to represent the area in district competition. Should the team win out there, it will advance to the regional meet and get a crack at the Little League World Series title.

Two Counties Added to ORC Jurisdiction

Robertson and Milam Counties will be added to the area controlled by the Bryan-College Station ORC Unit. Instructor's Office, effective June 1, said Capt. M. B. Findlay, local ORC instructor.

"This addition to the local area is being made to consolidate and centralize control of increased Organized Reserve activities.

With the addition of these two counties, it brings the number of counties under the local office's control to a total of eight, with active units located in Bryan, College Station, Caldwell and Huntsville.

Capt. Findlay said that his office plans to locate additional units in Hearne, Cameron and Madisonville during the next three months. He also said that vacancies exist for enlisted reservists in the Aviation Engineers, Armored Infantry, and Armored Field Artillery.

Both veterans and non-veterans may enlist in these units, which hold 24 paid training assemblies annually.

Those interested in such units should apply to the ORC Unit Instructor's office, box 119, College Station, Texas.

Langford Elected To Top ACSA Job

Ernest Langford, mayor of College Station and head of the Architecture Department, has been elected a director of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture.

He attended the annual meeting of the Association in Chicago May 6-7.

The Association is made up of some 50 schools or departments of architecture scattered throughout the United States and Canada.

Attending the meeting also were twelve students and professor John M. Rowlett. Rowlett participated in a panel discussion on methods of teaching architectural design. The students were in Chicago on the annual inspection trip for fifth year students in architecture.

Prof. Dan Davis Wins Fellowship

Dan R. Davis, associate professor of sociology, has been awarded a fellowship in the college-business exchange program sponsored by the Foundation for Economic Education, Inc. of New York.

Professor Davis will analyze and evaluate the public relations and personnel programs of the Business Mens Assurance Company of America at Kansas City, Missouri.

In addition, he will act as consultant to the company's in-service training program for the six-week Summer period.

"This is the third fellowship Davis has been awarded since his graduation here in 1932.

From Blurs to Smiles

J. W. "Doggie" Dalston Bobby Dunn

Pictures of these two smiling and highly successful campus politicians ran on the front page of The Battalion Friday, but no one, not even the editors could tell who they were. Reason for the three-column "blur" was a case of defective engraving that was not discovered until the paper was on the presses. The engravings published here today were made from the same pictures, but this time with no mistakes. Our apologies to "Doggie" and Bobby. These pictures should be something a little more recognizable to send home to the folks.

Washington Texans Want Rayburn for Speaker in '52

By TEX EASLEY

Washington, May 21—(AP)—The dogwood is in full bloom in these parts, which may account for the fact that Texans in the capital are talking a lot of politics.

The flowering tree which traditionally signals the opening of political campaigns in East Texas blooms here a month or so later than in the Lone Star State.

Most of the talk here centers around the presidential and senatorial races. Speculation on the House seats is held in check awaiting the outcome of redistricting legislation in the state legislature.

Lyle for Rayburn

As for the Democratic national ticket in 1952, Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, who has been an administration supporter, comes up with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham for president and W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board who has been named to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, for vice-president.

"Some people mention Mr. Rayburn's age as a handicap," Lyle added. "He is just 69, only two years older than President Truman."

"He is certainly respected by party leaders in all parts of the country. I know some influential Southern congressmen who would endorse him but certainly would oppose Truman's reelection."

Symington Mentioned

Symington, who calls St. Louis home, is well known to many Texans and is a close personal friend of many of them here in Washington.

Sears Establishes Ten Ag Awards

Ten of the most promising 1951 graduates of Texas high schools will get their chance to study Agriculture at A&M next year as the result of a gift to the college from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation of Chicago.

A check for $2,000, representing the first of such annual gifts to be made on a continuing basis, was presented to the college scholarship funds by C. B. Roberts, Dallas, vice-president for the southwestern territory of Sears-Roebuck and Company.

Aid to Graduates

The funds were given to enable A&M to offer financial aid to outstanding Texas high school graduates who wish to study Agriculture and do not have sufficient money to enter college.

Details of the awards are being worked out by college officials, along the lines of their established program of Opportunity Awards.

Three A&M students who have made outstanding records at the College have largely financed their educations through 4-H club projects which started in the state-wide Sears-Roebuck pig and poultry programs.

Three Receive Aid

Duane Boenig, who is a junior in the school of Agriculture, owns 177 acres of rich farmland near San Antonio which grew out of his successful 4-H club projects. He started with a sow pig in 1941 and exhibited consistent winners at Houston, Dallas, San Angelo and Fort Worth stock shows to build up his earnings.

He won the Thomas E. Wilson regional scholarship award in 1946.

Chancellor Cites Company

In accepting the first of the company's annual scholarship contributions, Chancellor Gibb Gilchrist paid tribute to Sears-Roebuck & Company for other major contributions to Texas agriculture which they are making through A&M.

These include a $25,000 loan fund for A&M students established in 1925, fellowships under which seven promising members of the Agricultural Extension Service staff have already received advanced training.

The company has also sponsored for the past 13 years statewide 4-H club programs with swine, dairy cattle, poultry and sheep at a total cost of more than $90,000 a year, distributed among some 2,000 Texas youngsters.

Sears Representatives

Representatives of the donors who came to College Station for the presentation luncheon included E. J. Condon, Chicago, assistant to the president of Sears-Roebuck & Company and director of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation; L. W. Sagers, Chicago, editor of the Sears News-Graphic; R. C. Peabody, Chicago, director of public relations for the Midwestern territory; A. L. Jones, New York, director of public relations for the Eastern territory; Also S. W. Pettigrew, Los Angeles, public relations director for the Pacific Coast; Robert M. LaFollette, Chicago, director of the foundation; G. B. Vidal, Chicago, publicity director; R. V. Mullin, Chicago, public relations; N. H. Davis, Kansas City, Midwestern public relations; J. C. Haynes, Atlanta, Southern public relations; C. Greenway, Atlanta, public relations; E. R. Cameron, Seattle, Pacific Coast public relations; C. B. Roberts and C. T. Johnson, Southwestern territory public relations director from Dallas.
