

Storage Plans Outlined For Summer Term

Students who wish to store trunks, lamps and other personal belongings during the summer term may do so according to a plan announced by the Dean of Men's Office.

Cadets living in Dormitories 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, and 11 may store all items except lamps in the Gun Room of Dormitories 5 and 7, May 25 from 3-5 p. m. and May 29 and 31 from 2 to 5 p. m.

Students living in Dormitories 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and Hart may store all items except lamps in the Gun Rooms of Dormitories 4 and 6 the same days.

Non-military students and cadets in the Basic Division dormitories may store all items (including lamps) in the Gun Room of Dormitory 15 at the same hours.

New area cadets may store lamps in the Gun Room of Dormitory 2 May 25, 29, and June 1 from 3 to 5 p. m.

All students who wish to attend the second summer semester but not the first may store all items in the Gun Room of Dormitory 16.

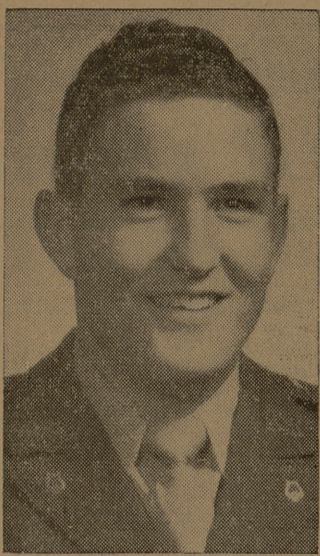

Bennie A. Zinn, assistant dean of men, said that all baggage will be stored at student's own risk, but all possible precautions will be taken to safeguard it.

Charges for storage are as follows: lamps, 40 cents; baggage, 40 cents per piece; and bicycles, $1.

The Agronomy society will handle the storage, Zinn said, with all revenues going to the treasury of that organization.

All items not picked up from storage rooms prior to Oct. 1 will be disposed of in order to clear the rooms, Zinn added.

Ring Pictures

ior Ring and had their pictures snapped.

It was all over.

Next Friday, June 1 at 10 a. m. in the Commentator Office, second floor of Goodwin Hall, Whitehouse and his assistants will use a similar technique in distributing the pictures. The photographs will be on file when the doors open at 10. From then until 5 p. m. with an hour off for lunch, somebody will be behind the desk to distribute the pictures. On Saturday from 9 a. m. until noon the same technique will be used.

Whitehouse said that every person must pick up his own picture, or give his signed ring receipt to the person who is to pick it up for him.

Some Things Considered

Each and every student will be an individual with hopes and dreams, capabilities and potentialities, and he will be treated as such. Every man will not be fed the same "dose," as if what is offered here is a cure-for-all. He will get what he needs, tempered with what he wants.

If he is an engineer, he will be able to take History 999 or English 777 as electives with approval and encouragement of his department and dean. Every student will be an individual, learning to live, not a human vacuum machine sucking up facts.

And in this same era will come abolition of the true-false and matching-question quiz. Exams will be designed to stimulate thinking, not drag from the student a series of supposedly important facts which he painfully memorized. Profs will not be too lazy to grade such quizzes, and students will not fear or hate to take them.

Peace may be with us then. Military will be secondary and scholarship and citizenship will be first and foremost.

These things may all seem far away from "proper" closing remarks on my Battalion experiences, but they are the things which have been most in my mind as reporter and editor.

I believe in all sincerity that these things will one day be reality at A&M. I hope that I shall not discontinue to fight for them, wherever I may go from here.

Looking back over The Battalion these four years, I see a tremendous amount of building, a great amount of progress. Thanks is due to many for the strength and prestige of our present structure.

The contributions can hardly be measured of all those students who have given faithfully of their time and energy to build The Battalion to what it is today. Neither can the tremendous contribution of Roland Bing, manager of student publications, and silent but guiding hand of all its progress these past several years.

Others have contributed freely, willingly, understandingly. Profs have been more than considerate, on more than one occasion. Understanding our problems, our desire to do the best possible job, and knowing too well the inevitable conflict of trying to do two jobs at once, they have seen fit to be lenient.

I wish to express my appreciation, independently, and that of The Battalion staff, for the help and guidance we have received. We hope our work—our contribution—has justified their faith and tolerance.

Of course, it goes without saying that the major accomplishments of The Battalion, for which Dave and I have received virtually all the credit, could not have been done without those faithful staff members who have supported us.

Many of them know and understand our sincere feeling of appreciation. Some do not. But I hope that most of them can feel as I do that none of our work has been in vain, however wasted it may have appeared from time to time.

This year we added much to The Battalion, all by way of building on the foundation constructed by those who preceded us.

We have managed to remain daily by shifting some of our emphasis to community coverage, thereby holding on to precious local advertising. This has given the student reader a little less for his money each day, but he gets more than he would in a two-or-three-times-a-week paper.

Improvement of Battalion engraving facilities to the point that pictures of events may be published the day following their happening, we do not hold as one of the least of our accomplishments.

Nor do we look with shame on office and management improvements we have been successful in establishing. Keeping up with, or besting, larger and wealthier rivals in the college newspaper field has brought A&M recognition which we feel is valuable.

Those are a few of the things we have done. I am proud of them and I know I echo the feelings of others on the staff. We all hope that these improvements have benefited you, our readers, whether you were conscious of them or not.

I could go on reminiscing to you at great length, but I feel that these few reflections are enough to give you some indication that I leave my office with sincere gratitude for the opportunity to report the news for you, to submit my thinking to you through editorials, and more important, to grow and learn as I worked.
