

AAU Meet Draws Top SWC Stars

Walter "Buddy" Davis, Darrow Hooper, and Bill Stalter will lead 23 members of the undefeated A&M varsity and freshman track teams into the South Texas AAU meet at San Antonio, June 8. The Cadet aggregation will be the largest entered in the meet.

Davis, who won the conference high jump event this year and unofficially broke the record when he jumped 6'9" at the Texas Relays, is the winner of the recent Coliseum Relays on the West Coast. The 2 3/4" Aggie holds the second best high jump height in the nation for the year with his performance at the Texas Relays.

Placing fourth in the Coliseum Relays, and having won the double crown of shot put and discus champion in numerous meets during the year, SWC shot put record holder Hooper will be leading the top weight men expected at the AAU. Hooper's record toss of 54' 7 1/2" is the second best toss in college competition this year.

Stalter—100, 200 Meters
Stalter scored 12 1/2 points in the conference meet to take high honors. He will compete in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Bob Hall, SWC record holder in the 220-yard low hurdles with 22.8 and the top collegiate performer in the same event last year, will also enter the meet. He will run the 200 meter lows, as will Bill Bless, SWC champ and the Nation's No. 2 low hurdler.

Conference champion pole vaulter Jack Simpson will be competing in this event at the AAU as will Don Graves, the 1950 SWC pole vault champ. Graves will also enter the high jump contest.

Also to Run

Other Aggies who have entered the meet and the events they will run include Charles Gabriel, 5000 meter run; Bernard Place, 400 meter dash; James Baker 100 and 200 meter dashes; Bill Henry, broad jump and the hop-skip-and-jump; Glenn Spradin, pole vault; Bobby Ragsdale, broad jump and the hop-skip-and-jump.

John Garmany, 1500 meter run; Bob Mays, 400 meter dash; Don Mitchell, 400 meter dash; Jim Dimmitt, high jump; Dan Pratt, shot put and discus; Joseph Zern, 1500 meter run; Richard Hampton, high jump; Jim Blaine, 800 meter run; Jerry Stull, 400 meter dash; and John Henry, broad jump.

Guy Wallace
All-SWC Shortstop

... received the captain's medal for having headed the Cadet baseballers during the year. Hitting at a .348 clip, Wallace is demonstrating in every game why he was a unanimous All-Conference choice for three consecutive seasons.

Cadet Baseballers Receive Awards

Members of the championship Aggie baseball team were honored Wednesday, when they received awards and gold baseball and T's were given the team.

Guy Wallace, captain and shortstop, won the captain's medal and Pat Hubert, pitcher, was awarded the most valuable player award. The selections were made by the coach and players, and were given by S. A. Lipscomb and Flop Colson, area businessmen.

Pitcher Hubert also received the Ted Mobile award. Members of the team in conjunction with the coach and athletic department, named the winner.

Gold baseball, emblematic of the championship and T's were also awarded at brief ceremonies at noon Wednesday.

Aggie Nine Strong Enough To Score Again For SWC

By 'KNARF' SAZTINAM

In 1947, the National Collegiate Athletic Association sanctioned its first national baseball tournament, and in the past four years, a Southwest Conference baseball team has won the title twice.

The Texas Longhorns captured the title in 1949 and 1950, Southern California having won the crown in 1948.

Again being played in Omaha, Nebraska, the NCAA Tourney will be minus a defending champion, although the Texas Aggies are apt to prove that they have more than enough strength to bring the title back again to the Southwest Conference. With the Aggies winning, it would be the third year in succession the Conference has won the title.

College baseball has come a long way since it was born in 1885 at Pittsfield, Massachusetts. At that time, Amherst College met Williams College with 13 men to a side.

Chief credit for the growth of college baseball belongs to the pioneers Eppie Barnes and Joe Bednek. These two while directing the athletics of Colgate and Penn State in 1944, got together with 20 other coaches to form the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

NCAA Sponsors "College World Series"

The program pushed forward by this group has been so successful, that the NCAA jumped in to sponsor what is now called the "College World Series" which includes teams from eight districts stretching across the United States.

Across the nation, sports columnists are already "suggesting" Maroon and White Coach Beau Bell as "Baseball Coach of the Year," and Pat Hubert as the top collegiate pitcher.

Other Aggies who can easily place their names on the All-America squad this year include Shortstop Guy Wallace, who has been hitting at a .348 clip; Second Baseman Joe Ecrette, hitting at .306; Left Fielder Yale Lary, batting .307; Al Ogletree, catcher, hitting .313; and Shug McPherson, right fielder, slamming the sphere at .300.

Last year's All-America nine included only one member from the Southwest Conference, Murray Wall, pitcher of Texas.

Making up the mythical team included first base, Fred Taylor, Ohio State; second base, Charles Teague, Wake Forest; third base, Bill Killinger, Lafayette; shortstop, John Hasrch, Ohio University; outfield, Jay Roundy, Southern California; Ray Van Cleef, Rutgers, and Bob Cerv, Nebraska; catcher, Bob Murray, Arizona; and pitchers, Wall of Texas and Tom Casey of New York University.

Oklahoma, U of H In NCAA Playoff

Norman, Okla., May 31—(AP)—The University of Oklahoma baseball team leaves today for Houston in the NCAA district play-offs.

Coach Jack Beer's Sooners are the Big Seven champs, while the Cougars are kingpins in the Missouri Valley loop.

The two nines will battle Friday in the first game of a best-of-3 series. A second game is set for Saturday night, with a double-header if necessary.

The winner will meet the Big Ten champion in the first round of the NCAA tournament at Omaha, Neb.

Plugging for PREPAREDNESS

In these critical times, national defense is calling for the wires. The telephone needs of our Armed Forces, defense industries and government are increasing daily.

In addition, increasing amounts of the materials used in the telephone business—such as copper, nickel, rubber, cobalt, aluminum and zinc—are going into equipment for national defense. They are being used to build tanks, guns, planes and other equipment for our fighting men.

All this means that national welfare rather than personal needs must get first call on the telephone facilities we now have available and on the limited amount of new equipment we will be able to install in the foreseeable future.

Your telephone company will continue to do its level best to take care of civilian needs but sometimes it may be unable to provide service when and where it is desired. If your application for service should be delayed, we're sure you'll understand the reason why.
