

Old Pfeuffer Hall, built in 1887, stands as a watchdog as its younger brother Foster (built in 1899) is torn down across the Academic Building grounds. The aged building, which has been condemned for general occupancy, is now being used for storage. It is the oldest building now standing on the campus.

Shipwreck Dance Is 'Rip-Roaring' Success Friday

By PAT MORLEY
Battalion Women's Editor

THE "Shipwreck Dance," final spectacle of the Summer at The Grove, was a "rip-roaring" success. This was the unanimous opinion of the crowd of from 200 to 250 which attended the gala affair Friday evening.

After weeks of burning sun and no rain, one and one-half hours before the biggest outdoor dance of the season, clouds opened up and poured rain on the concrete dance floor.

Lightning struck and broke the telephone wire at the Southern Pacific Railway Station across the street from The Grove, and sparks shot out of the switch box controlling the lights at The Grove platform.

As rain continued to pour, Pete Carson, dance decoration committee chairman, remarked cynically, "Looks like we may be glad we brought that boat!"

When the rain slacked at 7:30 p. m., Carson and his committee, composed of Allen Pengelly, Darwin Hodges, Marcus Kerr, Bill Block, Don Martin and Bill Morley quickly converted the rain-drenched stage into a pirates' cove, complete with a moss-covered boat, yards of rope "rigging" and colored banners.

Benches were hurriedly pushed back, and the committee manned brooms, pushing water off the slab, allowing it to dry.

At 8 p. m. C. G. "Spike" White, dressed as a cast-away, joined the industrious crew. He added dancers' wax to the concrete, and with members of the Aggieband-Combo, greeted the largest crowd of the season at The Grove.

Raymond and Jo Ann Hampton, A-7-D College View, were early arrivals. Raymond, a tall, lean, sophomore CE major, dressed as a tall, lean sailor in a uniform which appeared to have come through at least three wars. Jo Ann was attired in a ritged skirt and blouse, the mode of the evening.

Double-dating with the Hamptons were Bob and Yvonne Vaughn of C-7-Z College View; Yvonne in a man's pajama top, and Bob, wearing a white shirt, hat and a tie—and red and white striped shorts! Rom and Peggie Young attended the dance as a badly-tattered beach-comber and a sarong-wrapped island maiden. Rom is a senior Ag Ed major and Peggie was a finalist in the "Mrs. Texas A&M Contest."

Frank Manitzas, waterfront thug, emceed the costume contest. Between laughs, the judges, Mrs. Donald Burchard, Mrs. Ann Hilliard, Tom Rountree, Dean C. C. French, and President M. T. Harrington undertook the difficult task of choosing among the well-costumed guests for winners.

After careful deliberation, Laverna and Jim Griffith were chosen best-dressed couple. Jim, wearing a white stiff-front shirt and string tie, and no (pardon the expression) pants, and his petite wife, in a hoop-skirted nylon petticoat (shades of "Gone With the Wind!") were adjudged the winners. Cresta Daniels, caught in the

A photographer got this close up view of damage done to the military property custodian's office building and warehouse by a fire Friday night which completely gutted the tin frame structure. Rifles, artillery pieces and other equipment were saved, although records of the custodian were either completely or partially damaged.

Prizes were two decks of playing cards and a "sit-anywhere" ash-tray for the Griffiths, Aggie belt buckle for Bill, and a heart-shaped compact for Cresta.

A mild sensation of the evening was a towel-draped lass from Lamar High School in Houston. Aggie, her name is Barbara Potter, but George Johnston, senior at Consolidated High School, saw her first. A gay foursome at the dance was composed of Barbara and George, both attired in towels, and Sara Puddy and Jerry Layton, who wore miped-up pairs of men's pajamas. Sara, Jerry, and George are seniors at Consolidated. Barbara was Sara's house guest.

The Grove, under a clear, star-filled sky, fanned by a breeze freshened by rain, was filled with music and laughter until 11 p. m. Pictures made at the entertainment by Henry Cole, assisted by Tom Parrish, can be picked up at the Battalion office.
