"Juvenile Delinquency" was the subject of a talk given by "Rip" Collins, Bryan chief of police, at a meeting of the College Station Lions Club yesterday.

200 New Freshmen Get Opportunity Awards

Over 200 students enrolling in A&M this fall received financial aid through the Opportunity Award Scholarship program which for the past five years has been helping needy students attain a college education.

Of the Opportunity Award students, 62 are entering freshmen, receiving aid through their scholarships for the first time this semester. E. E. McQuillen, director of the development fund and overseer of the scholastic program, said.

Ten of the 62 new award scholarships are being provided by the Association of Former Students, the awards having been the objective of the 1950 Development Fund.

The Association will provide 10 scholarships to new students each year until 1955 to complete the 1950 scholarship fund.

Other scholarships are provided by outside sources interested in aiding students who otherwise be unable to attend college because of financial reasons. Students with

Winning Touchdown

Charlie Hodge stands in the end zone as he snags the winning touchdown pass from Dick Gardemal to give the Aggies their 21-14 win over the UCLA Bruins Friday. The Cadets unleashed an unheard of passing attack to beat the Los Angeles school.

All College Freshmen Get Automatic Draft Deferment

The freshman college student gets a break this Fall if he receives an order to report for induction from his draft board, says Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, said, "he automatically gets a deferment for a full academic year."

Break for Freshmen

"Congress has given the first-year man a break," the state draft director continued. "He doesn't have to satisfy board members or meet any test or scholastic requirements. He only has to pursue a full-time course of instruction to the satisfaction of college authorities."

Gen. Wakefield advised freshmen they "had better study hard this fall and next winter and spring," as they will likely have to satisfy minimum draft board standards for deferment in the second scholastic year.

"One of these standards is their first-year class standing," he pointed out. "So it would be a good idea for a freshman to start applying himself from the beginning."

Show His Ability

"Apparently, Congress decided that every young man who goes to school would get the same chance the first college year," he continued. "After that he has to prove on the basis of his own merit that he is due further deferment to study."

Corps Discipline Set; Seniors Hear Carlson

By BILL STREICH
BATTALION NEWS EDITOR

Approximately 175 members of the Class of 1952 last night listened to a first hand account from Eric Carlson, corps commander, on methods to be taken in the future regarding disciplinary action to Cadets charged with violations of the Articles of the Cadet Corps. Carlson's talk was made at the first meeting of the Senior class in the Chemistry lecture room.

Carlson said he talked to military authorities Monday afternoon about the case involving two sophomores who were dismissed from the Corps for hazing a freshman.

Eddie Sick, commander of the organization of which the two were members, explained that the sophomores were correcting a freshman who was walking down a street without his cap.

One of the college officials saw the incident and reported it to the commandant's office, Sick said. The two, along with Sick were called in for questioning. Following the queries, the sophomores were dismissed from the Corps.

However, Carlson said, the men will be reinstated in the Corps at Thanksgiving if their disciplinary record is satisfactory.

"I have talked to the military authorities and they agreed in the future to let any disciplinary action be taken by the commanding officer of the unit in which the cadet is a member," Carlson said.

Also, from now on, Carlson commented, no demerits will be given by military officers. Instead, the cadet commanding officer will be notified and it will up to him to decide what action should be taken.

"This attitude of the personnel in Ross Hall definitely places us, the members of the Senior class, on our own," Carlson explained. "It's now a case of—we run things, or the military runs them."

Carlson also told the class that a new directive is being worked on by several members of the class. This directive, when approved will specifically outline what underclassmen can and cannot do. It will explain clearly what constitutes correcting a freshman and hazing him.

Before Carlson's talk, several business matters were discussed. J. W. Doggy Dalston, president, opened the meeting by complimenting the class on the large attendance.

He then introduced Ted Stephens, treasurer, who read the class financial report.

Good Shape Financially

"At present, we have a total of $1,723.79 in our class treasury," Stephens said. "We are in the best shape financially of any senior class in many years."

Social Secretary C. L. Ray then introduced C. G. (Spike) White, assistant dean of men for student activities, who explained the Ring Dance, and how much money the class would have to pay for various orchestras.

After a lengthy discussion, the group passed a motion calling for a change of $5 per couple for the dance. The social chairman was instructed to work with Student Activities to secure the best available band for the dance which is scheduled May 17.

However, if an orchestra is secured which does not charge the maximum price which class members agreed to pay, a refund will be made.

Eight Class Committees

After discussion of the dance was concluded, Dalston introduced other class officers, and Bobby Dunn, vice-president explained new class organization procedures.

The new plan, Dunn said, creates eight Senior class committees, each with a specific function.

These committees are: Tradition, headed by Bob Langford; Election, headed by Bobby Dobbins; Campus Beautification, headed by Dick Jamison and Social, headed by C. L. Ray.

Van Vandenberg will be chairman of the Calendar committee and A. C. Burkhalter will head the (See SENIORS, Page 1)

Reds Quit Kaesong Meet

Tokyo, Sept. 25—(AP)—Communist liaison officers abruptly walked out of a meeting today at Kaesong called to discuss conditions for resuming Korean truce talks.

But an allied officer left the United Nations command advance camp near Munsan with a message to the chief Communist liaison officer.

The nature of the allied note was not disclosed. But there was a strong probability that it contained some suggestion for uninterrupted talks by the negotiators.

Chinese Red Col. Chang Chun-San flatly rejected the suggestion, said the meeting was ended, and headed for the door.

The belief prevailed at Allied headquarters that the Communist walkout did not signal a complete breakdown of the stalled truce talks.

A source pointed out that a final breakdown could be called only by the highest levels of the Red or Allied commands—not by liaison.

The Reds broke off the higher level cease-fire talks Aug. 23 after charging that an Allied plane bombed the Kaesong neutral zone the night before. The Allies investigated and denied the charge.

Reds Try In Vain

The Red high command had tried in vain to resume Tuesday the full dress armistice discussions instead of the liaison talks.

But the move was saddled with a provision that the first session set up machinery to deal with a long list of Red charges, already denied by the Allies.

Ignoring the Red offer, the Allies sent Kinney, Marine Col. James C. Murray and South Korean Lt. Col. Lee Soo Young to Kaesong by helicopter to bring up the subject of conditions.

The Ross Volunteers will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 in room 3b of the MSC.

Dick Ingles, commander of the Ross Volunteers, requests that all senior members be present for a discussion on RV policy. He suggested that members check the bulletin board in the MSC in case of changes.

Juniors may get applications to join the Ross Volunteers in their Military Science class this week, Ingles said. If a junior does not obtain an application here, he may pick one up in Dormitory 9, room 228.

Summarizing how the city operates, Langford explained to the group the two kinds of city government—general law and home rule.

Taking College Station as an example of a general law city, the mayor listed the various officers. The law requires that a mayor and city judge to be elected on the first Tuesday in April of each even numbered year.

Councilmen from the wards serve two year terms which are staggered so that three new councilmen are elected each year.

Langford explained the present plan to make College Station a home rule city. He said under this program the city would draft its own charter. A copy of the final draft will be placed in the hands of every qualified voter in the city, and an election will follow.

While well-wishers prayed and hoped for him beyond Buckingham Palace's walls, the haggard monarch fought his recovery battle through the night watched only by a few of the nurses and doctors who helped operate on his ailing lung Sunday.

Medical circles believe dawn today marked the end of the first—and most crucial—post-operative phase.

"There are hazards and anxieties still ahead," one doctor observed, "but they are not as great or as grave as those of the operation itself and the (first) 48 hours which have now passed."

In the first crisis after the surgeon's knife finishes its work, the great danger is post-operative collapse.

Last night's bulletin No. 4—saying "the king has gained strength during the day"—reduced fears of such a collapse.

But the 55-year-old king is not yet on the straight and smooth road. Medical experts claim the next danger period starts approximately next Saturday and will last a day or two.

At that period, the risk of late complications—especially infection and what is called "secondary hemorrhage"—will once again make the going critical for George.

The guarded bulletins from the sickroom—they haven't yet indicated what disease attacked the monarch's lung—shed little light on his ailment. But their progressively encouraging tone has cut down the fears of the British people. For the first time since the operation, the Palace yard was silent early today except for the tread of sentries.

The king's immediate relatives—including the Duke of Windsor—are nearby. The Duke arrived in London from Paris without his Duchess. The trip had been arranged earlier by the man who abdicated in favor of his brother in 1936. The Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, has never been received by the Royal family. She stayed in Paris.

Visitors at the bedside last night included Queen Mother Mary and Princess Elizabeth, the 25-year-old heiress presumptive, with her Duke of Edinburgh. Queen Elizabeth is staying with the king.

Two day meeting of the Texas Beekeepers Association ends today at 4 p. m.

Approximately 125 beekeepers meeting alternately at the MSC Assembly room and the Entomology Research Laboratory attended the assembly sponsored jointly by the Texas Beekeepers Association and the Department of Entomology at A&M College.

Chairman of the meeting was Dr. F. L. Thomas of the A&M Entomology Department.
