Aggieland To Play For Air Force Ball

Featuring the selection of an Air Force sweetheart and the music of the Aggieband Orchestra, the two Air Force Wings will hold their annual Air Force Ball Oct. 5 in Sblsa Hall.

Selection of the Air Force Sweetheart for 1951-52 will be made during the second intermission of the dance. The winner will be named at that time from six selected finalists who will be introduced before judges.

Providing music for the first formal dance of the fall semester, the Aggieband Orchestra, under the direction of Bill Turner, will play from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. Tommy Butler will be featured vocalist for the orchestra.

Pictures of sweetheart nominees are now being accepted at the Student Activities Office, according to A. C. Burkhalter, chairman of the sweetheart selection committee. Deadline for submitting nominee pictures has been set for noon, Oct. 1, he said.

To enter a girl as sweetheart nominee, Burkhalter said, two pictures will be needed. One picture must be a portrait, preferably 8 x 10 in size, and another a snapshot of the nominee in sports attire.

The submitted pictures will be judged by a selection committee on Oct. 1, and the six finalists will be announced then. The finalists will be notified of their selection, and will be required to be present at the dance, Burkhalter said.

During the second intermission, the six finalists will be called to the orchestra platform and will be presented a gift. The queen will be named through a decision of the judges and presented the traditional bouquet of flowers and kiss.

According to Burkhalter, final judging for the sweetheart selection will be made by several college officials who will be selected during the dance. The judges will include an administrative officer and three members of the military department.

Wing Commanders John Wright and Harold Chandler are co-chairmen for all arrangements being made for the dance. Tickets of $2.50 are now on sale at the Office of Student Activities and in the dorm areas by ticket representatives.

Wayne Stark Works, Builds For Better Student Center

" . . . for his consistently conscientious work and visionary planning on the Memorial Student Center. . . ."

So read the 1950 Battalion Award presented to J. Wayne Stark, director of the Memorial Student Center since October of 1947 when the building was but a dream.

Working with the A&M System Architect Carleton Adams, Stark set out immediately to start making the coming project a reality. Along with the need of the right type of building the business and social departments of the Center had to be developed.

To negotiate the start of the business development of such a project, Stark purchased for the school the equipment of the Cave and the Campus Corner in December of 1947. During the Christmas recess, both establishments underwent a renovation and were opened at the start of the year under the management of the Memorial Student Center.

The purpose of these two fountain rooms was to be in the form of a "pilot plant" so the needs and wants of the students could be studied adequately before the building of the now present Center.

Also along this line was the hiring of various personnel to be fit in managerial positions for the future Center, and establish bookkeeping and accounting procedure, purchasing channels and selling policies, and at the same time gain the necessary knowledge in running a student center.

All this came under Stark's direction. To help him along, he visited different student centers across the nation in an effort to gain a good cross section of what is needed on the campus. On some trips, he covered as many as seven states making this comprehensive study that was to help in the running and development of the center.

Between trips, consultation visits with the architects brought about changes which proved beneficial. And to this date, plans are always underway in improving the Center when the opportunity arrives.

In 1939, Stark was graduated from A&M with a liberal arts degree. His birth place was Lamesa, although he had attended public schools and graduated from high school in Winters. While at A&M, Stark was engaged in numerous extracurricular activities. For two years he was associate editor of The Battalion, and served as club editor of the

J. Wayne Stark

Director of the Memorial Student Center, Stark is continuously working toward a bigger and better center for A&M students. A member of the Class of '39, Stark is married and has two children, John and Sallie.

"Longhorn," and president of both the Singing Cadets and biology club.

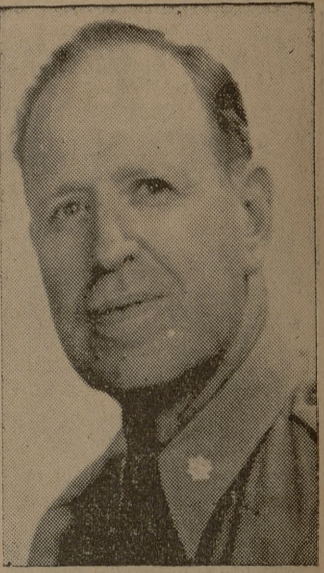

Following graduation from A&M, Stark entered the University of Texas Law School where he remained for two years before being inducted into the Army. While attending the University, he became the only Aggie to edit the schools' yearbook, "The Cactus", and was also the only non-fraternity man to hold the position in 21 years.

In June of 1941, he entered the service and served for three years with an aircraft unit. He spent the next two and a half years as assistant G-3 of the VII Corps which made plans for and landed with the assault troops in Normandy. While in Normandy, he served under General "Lightnin' Joe" Collins, now present chief of staff.

Stark was released from active duty with the rank of major but presently holds the rank of Lt. Colonel in the reserve officers corps.

After leaving the service, he took employment with the Gulf Atlantic Warehouse Company, subsidiary of Anderson, Clayton, and Company of Houston until returning to A&M.

During his tour of duty with the army, Stark met and married the former Miss Jean Stinson of Conroe, Texas. They were married in 1942 at Hartford, Conn. The Starks have two children, John and Sallie.

Andrew Leads AFB Services

Dr. William H. Andrew, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bryan for 19 years and leader of religious activities at A&M, will conduct a Protestant preaching mission at Randolph AFB Sept. 30-Oct. 5.

The preaching mission is being held to coincide with other church observances. Oct. 7 is Air Force-wide "Go To Church Sunday", and is also world-wide Protestant Communion Sunday.

Dr. Andrew served at Randolph as Chaplain (Lt. Col.) from July, 1949 to May 1951 as a reservist wing chaplain mobilization assignee.
