Allen Speaks To Accounting Society Meeting

Robert Allen, accountant and recent graduate of A&M, was guest speaker Tuesday night at a meeting of the Accounting Society.

Allen gave an informal talk on "The Trials and Tribulations of a Junior Accountant."

Having been associated with a Houston accounting firm since his graduation in August of this year, Allen told of his first few months' experience in public accounting. He mentioned the benefits of the association of a junior accountant with a small accounting firm. A few of his points were:

- The junior accountant associated with a small firm has the advantage of working over the entire accounting field rather than specializing in one particular phase of accounting, thus getting a general experience in accounting.
- There is a better opportunity for advancement in a small firm where your work can easily be recognized than in a larger firm where an accountant is not so likely to be noticed.

Following Allen's talk, president of the society Jack Egloff, told of plans for a banquet to be held Dec. 12.

The Last Word

Floor Retiling Gives Housewives Headache

By Pat Morley

Because we live on A Row, College View, we at present must squeeze around the stove (which was thoughtfully set in the bedroom door) in order to get to the canister of sugar for our morning coffee.

(Let's see—the canister is either on the clothes hamper which is on the desk, which is on the wardrobe, or else it's under the bed in back of the magazine rack—or is it?)

In the midst of the confusion our weary eye falls upon couples living in the front rows of College View, as they sit in their tile-floored living rooms. Since misery loves company, we wish to inform those lofty residents that they, too, will again have to go through the experience of getting floors tiled, since College View bedrooms are next on the agenda for "fixing up."

Atom bombs are tested, leaders are assassinated, Southwest Conference football "upsets" right and left—but the Veterans' Wives Bridge Club goes on and on.

Winners with high score last Thursday evening were Doris Crossland and Sybil Leeper. Mrs. D. W. Williams and Mrs. E. E. McQuillan coached the beginners.

Meeting tonight at 7:30 in Room 2A and 2B of the MSC, the hostesses, Yvonne Vaughn and Ella Frances Spears, expect the usual ten tables of players.

Building Ready By New Term Says Official

The $111,000 building program of the A&M Consolidated School District will provide badly needed classroom space in the Lincoln School.

The building program is approximately 25 percent complete according to Les Richardson, superintendent of schools. The contract calls for construction to be completed by Jan. 28.

A&M Consolidated School District is short two classrooms at the present time and the new construction is expected to relieve the crowded conditions. Five classrooms and a cafeteria are being constructed at A&M Consolidated High School.

Additions at the Lincoln School include a shop and a science laboratory.

Richardson said that plans call for the building's use beginning with the new semester.

Mahan Receives Nicholson Award

James L. Mahan has been awarded the Robert Nicholson Memorial Fellowship for 1951-52. The Fellowship honors the late R. N. Nicholson of Dallas.

It is awarded annually to a graduate student in plant and seed breeding and was established in 1948.

Mahan has just spent eight months in the Texas Extension Service as assistant county agent stationed at Pampa and Grapevine. He is a graduate of Oklahoma A&M, and a native of Indianola, Okla.

Early Morning Fire Damages Car Interior

An automobile fire early Wednesday morning resulted in extensive damage to the interior of the car. The College Station Fire Department answered the call to 101 Ashburn at 12:25 a. m., according to Curtis E. Bullock.

The auto was the property of a sergeant at Bryan Air Force Base.
