

Leland Supervises A&M's BA (Largest) Department

The department with the biggest enrollment at A&M is in neither of the fields from which the college gets its name.

The Business Administration Department, although hatched in the School of Agriculture and contained therein for some 20 years, has been a part of the School of Arts and Sciences since 1946.

Heading the department and supervising the instruction of its 887 major students is T. W. Leland, whose reputation as a business educator is nationwide.

Leland joined the A&M staff in 1922 as an associate professor of accounting and statistics in the Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department.

In 1926, the Department of Accounting and Statistics was created within the School of Agriculture, and Leland became its head.

It remained in the School of Agriculture until 1946, when it was transferred to the School of Arts and Sciences as the Business and Accounting Department.

Change to BA
The name later was changed to the Business Administration Department.

Leland, a certified public accountant in Texas, has contributed leadership to several national organizations in his profession.

He served the National Association of Cost Accountants as a member of the research committee for several years.

Formerly chairman of the American Institute of Accountants' committee on refresher courses, he was recently elected to its board of examiners.

He is past president of the American Accounting Association and is a member of the American Economic Association, the American Statistical Association and the Texas Association of University Instructors in Accounting.

Leland has served as editor of The Texas Accountant and Contemporary Accounting, and of the students department of the Journal of Accountancy.

While the Business Administration Department has the largest number of major students of any department of the college, a large part of its work consists of instructing students majoring in other fields who need training in various phases of business such as business law.

According to Leland, this ranges from 30 to 80 per cent of the teaching load.

Four-year courses are offered in accounting, finance, statistics, insurance, general business, marketing, building products marketing and personnel administration.

The expanding department moved last spring from its quarters in a temporary wooden structure on the campus into the new $115,000 addition to Francis Hall. This new wing contains seven offices and seven classrooms, which are equipped with up-to-date business office equipment for instructional purposes.

Injuries Hurt Ags

for the rest of the season. Walter Hill, end, is out with an injured knee.

Defensive halfback Augie Saxe has a fractured left forearm and offensive right guard W. T. Rush bruised his hip and will be out for several weeks.

Most recent injuries to the Razorbacks are end Bill Jurney, out with a spleen operation, and halfback Dean Pryor, out with a broken jaw. Rinehart, quarter and fullback, is recovering from an appendix operation.

Hog Memory Bitter

Fresh in the memory of Arkansas fans and their team is last year's one-sided victory, 42-13, received at the hands of the Farmers from College Station.

Spark of the Aggie offense will be Glenn Lippman, leading ball carrier in the Southwest Conference. Glenn has carried the ball 67 times for 416 yards and two touchdowns.

Gallop! Glenn is supported by Billy Tidwell and Bob Smith. Halfback Tidwell has carried the ball 41 times for 232 yards and two touchdowns and looked exceptionally good against Baylor.

Smith has handled the ball 62 times for 259 yards and one touchdown. Smith has also turned into a pass catcher by snagging five tosses for 103 yards and another score.

The rest of the Cadet offensive team will probably look something like this. Eric Miller and Charlie Hodge will hold down the end posts with Sam Moses and Jack Little drawing the starting tackle assignments.

Hugh Meyer, co-captain center, and Alvin Langford and Elo Novahavitz checking in at the guard spots, finish the first eleven.

The defensive team will have Yale Lary, Charlie McDonald, Bill Ballard and James Fowler in the backfield.

The Aggies will fly to Fort Smith, Ark. today and stay overnight there in the Ward Hotel. They will go to Fayetteville by bus the next day for the big game with Arkansas scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

P. D. Hanna Retires From System Today

Parker D. Hanna, an employee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service since March 1925, will retire today. Hanna is a native of Galveston; a graduate of Ball High School of that City and holds a B. S. degree in animal husbandry from A&M.

Before joining the Extension Service, Hanna operated a ranch in Randall County and for 15 years was a breeder of registered Hereford cattle. He served as a county commissioner for six years in Randall County.

County Agent In 1925

In March 1925, he was named county agricultural agent for Hempstead County and served in that capacity until September 1934 when he transferred to the position of district extension agent for the Panhandle district. The district at that time included 28 northwest Texas counties and extended from Wichita Falls to Dalhart.

In 1935, the late C. W. Warburton, director of the federal extension service, appointed Hanna to membership on the Southern Great Plains Council. This council was organized to cope with the problems that were created by wind erosion in the region.

Hanna was elected chairman of the council in 1941 and served until February 1942 when he transferred to another district. He was in charge of the Emergency Wind Erosion Program in Texas from 1936-1940.

From 1942 to 1947 he served as district agent in extension district 7. In 1947, he became reports analyst and has served until the present.

4-H Club Supporter

Hanna has always been a supporter of 4-H club work and county agents working under his supervision developed many outstanding junior demonstration programs and individual 4-H members. He believes in the demonstration method of teaching and used it to advantage during the "dust bowl" days in the Panhandle to accentuate farming practices aided in controlling wind erosion.

"He has done an outstanding job," says Extension Director Gibson, "in handling the tabulations and compiling facts and figures for extension service reports since becoming reports analyst."

Lt. Gabbard and the former Miss Alice Jean Findley of Topeka, Kan. were married Sept. 13 in the First Methodist Church of Topeka.

The son of Dr. and Mrs. L. P. Gabbard, head of the Ag Eco and Sociology department, Gabbard was the assistant resident surgeon of Barnes Hospital in St. Louis prior to his induction.

Commie Intentions

be weighed against Communist intentions. And what they are we don't know. It has seemed all along that Russia proposed the truce talks because the Communists found they had gotten in deeper than expected in their effort to take over South Korea. China was in position to demand help that Russia was not prepared to give as it increased the danger of a general war.

The atmosphere has been such, however, that the allies have been forced to operate on the awareness that the negotiations might merely be a screen for an enemy buildup. There are also indications that Russia might be trying to pin down allied strength with a half war to prevent its concentration in Europe.

Instead of being ready for a truce now, the Communists may have decided merely to pass on to another phase of making difficulty about a truce. Even if a buffer zone is agreed upon, there still will remain the question of policing it. One of the fundamental allied demands at the start of the conferences was that armistice patrols would have to be established to police the neutral territory against violation, and to see that neither side was preparing to renew the fighting.

Considering the customary Communist opposition to anything which gives non-Communists a look at their operations, this has always seemed to me as likely to offer one of the greatest stumbling blocks of all.

This might carry the talking through the winter, just as the technical arguments about how and where to talk, and about the buffer zone, have carried them through summer and fall.

All of these are arguments against over-optimism. General Collins' recent statement about the troops having to stay in Korea even if there is a truce may have been designed to prevent increased public pressure for concessions to obtain a cease-fire as it appeared more and more probable.

Yet the overwhelming impression remains that the Communists need not have started truce talks at all, need have made no concessions at all, unless they really wanted something to come of it.

WHICH HAND will You choose?

This is the hand of Justice. It reproves those people who have strayed from the path of truth and good living.

Honest men and righteous men have chosen another hand; one which is not pictured here. They never need the reproof of Justice, for they have chosen the Hand of God.

Each man is free to decide which hand will lead him. Some never see the Hand of God, and their way through life is barren and pointless.

But with the help of the Church, you can find the right path. By attending its services and joining in its work, your way through life can be made straight and happy. Take the Hand of God, and you need never fear stern Justice.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
