Women's Fashions Styled In YMCA Show Wednesday

A glittering array of high-fashion separates, cocktail dresses, suits, coats, and casual dresses will take the spotlight in the YMCA Chapel at 8 p.m. Wednesday, when the Dames Club and the Architectural Wives Society co-sponsor a style show.

Narrator and supervisor of the fashion showing will be A&M student wife Da Lee Green, display director and advertising manager of Lester's Smart Shop to Bryan.

A 1950 graduate of TSCW, Da Lee has skillfully directed local fashion shows for the A&M Social Club in the MSC, and the Spring Show for all the merchants of Bryan in the Stephen F. Austin High School auditorium. In addition, petite Da Lee has arranged and directed a series of fashion feature hours sponsored and presented by Lesters. Local girls served as models for these shows.

Twenty A&M student wives will preview the latest fashions at Wednesday evening's program. All of the models are members of one of the two clubs sponsoring the show, and some of them have had professional modeling experience.

"Even though the style show will be directed and presented by student wives, faculty wives are also cordially invited to attend," said Marge Dolan, president of the Dames Club.

"The South Solarium will be opened following the show," announced AWS president Virgie Sellers. "It will be decorated with flowers arranged by Sydney Blake."

Hostesses from both clubs are arranging refreshments of Russian tea and cookies, which will be served after the show.

Hostesses for the Dames Club are Lucy Shelton, Margaret Mendel, Catherine Waddle, Carolyn Cathright, Bernice Bird, and Betty Vernon.

Architectural wives taking hostess duties are Sydney Blake, Sarah Kilmer, Marrian Morales, Millie Heltzel, and Betty Kyburz.

Joy Belamy, reporter for the AWS, revealed the names of the twenty aggie wives who will model the clothes.

Modeling for the Dames Club will be Peggy Maness, Kay Layman, Myra Burke, Ruth Moore, Eugenia Sorgnit, Isabel Guerrero, Eleanor Holland, Alice Thomas, Betty Sparger, Jo Worthington, and Virginia Matzen.

Visionary Art Work Explained by Artist

The group of unusual paintings on display in the MSC that have caused such a flurry of questioning and comment are the work of Forrest Bess, a former A&M student now living at Bay City, Texas.

Terming his work visionary painting, the artist explains that he is only the "conduit or means for the vision to come into being."

eral Hershey said. "We must, therefore, think in long-range terms, in developing plans to provide an adequate supply of highly skilled manpower.

Logical Deferment

"I believe the country is aware that it is logical, in deferring students in the national interest, to defer those with demonstrated ability, instead of gambling on those with lower capacity."

General Hershey explained that the intent of Congress was that these students should be deferred only until they have completed their college training. "Deferment" means that a registrant shall have his service delayed or postponed until he completes his education. It is by no means an outright exemption.

The 1951 Amendments to the Universal Military Training and Service Act provide that any registrant who was in a deferred classification on June 19, 1951, or who was thereafter placed in a deferred classification shall remain liable for training and service until he reaches the age of 35. Therefore, any registrant deferred now as a student will be required, if physically fit, to serve two years in the armed forces sometime before he becomes 35.

Deliberate, Naive

However, the second look shows a deliberate naivete—deliberate in the sense that the forms remain very simple unaffected statements. The statements are provocative and immediately the source is questioned.

Artist Bess has "discarded many values which he considered unimportant."

He explains: "Pretentiousness is bigger, there is no desire to do a 'bigger cartwheel' or 'be better' than anyone or anything.

"There is the absence of repetition in subject matter and technique of handling point. Each work seems to have dictated itself. The lack of pride in conscious creation is absent.

No Connection

"The Messiah complex is absent. There is no feeling of concoction either in the paintings or the titles. There is a feeling that one canvas is not 'better' than another."

Bess had his first New York one-man showing last winter at the Betty Parsons Gallery in that city.

He began exhibiting his work in Texas shows over 15 years ago and has had one-man exhibits in the museums at Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

Bess was a member of the class of '33 at A&M and majored in architecture while here.

Discipline

In summarizing the new order, Carlson said, "it is an extra device which the unit commander has in his own hands and may use at his discretion.

Colonel Joe Davis, commandant, suggested to Carlson several weeks ago that he, Carlson, appoint a committee to make a recommendation for a quick means of punishment. This report was prepared and submitted formally and was subject to the approval of the dean of men.

In regard to the use of the time, usually allotted to intramurals, Carlson said "Intramurals participation is a privilege. Second, if a man is needed, he can be assigned to duty on Tuesday's or Thursday's, instead of Monday's Wednesday's and Friday's, when intramurals are played.

The order was presented to the unit commanders at noon today by Carlson.
