

Why Go Stale?

WHY MUST college students go stale on their schools? Freshmen are too new to the campus, sophs are too busy, but by the time junior year rolls around, dissatisfaction begin to set in and only after graduation does the "always true to Alma Mater" feeling take hold.

TSCW seniors, or some at least, have the disease and an uncompleted two-day survey of A&M gives the same impression. The problem isn't a new one—it happens every year.

Could be three years of same profs, same food, same day in, day out.

Could be spending roughly eighty per cent of their young lives in a class room.

Could be any of these reasons or others. And it is to a degree, but there are other factors which complete the picture.

By the time the final sling begins, students are just plain tired and maybe a little scared. Tired of going to class. Tired of schedules. Tired of existing, but not really living for four years.

Scared of being completely independent for the first time and for the rest of a life time. Scared of marriage. Scared of going into the service.

The educational system is partly at fault. But the portion that can be more easily adjusted rests with the students.

Students should hurry through that last year and get out the quickest and easiest way possible . . . but the next time boredom crops up, it's ugly head can be cut off by exerting a little energy along personal lines and growing up to be men and women.

Churchill-Truman To Meet In Washington in January

Key West, Fla., Nov. 12—(AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain are going to meet in Washington in January.

The meeting was announced at a news conference yesterday by Presidential Secretary Joseph Short with a casualness associated with the Truman administration's handling of important events.

Short was telling reporters at a news conference of how the President got up early Sunday and walked outside the naval submarine station where he has his quarters, and of how he swam and sunbathed at the naval submarine station.

Suddenly, a reporter asked about a story, by John M. Hightower of the Associated Press, that Churchill is expected to visit Washington early in January for talks with the President.

"Quite probably, the Prime Minister will be in Washington some time in January," Short said.

State of Union

There was no indication whatsoever that the conference, certain to be delayed until after Mr. Truman has submitted his "State of the Union," budget and economic messages to Congress, will involve either the French or the Russians.

French President Auriol has suggested a meeting of President Truman and the British, Russian and French heads of state to help ease international tension.

Ever since the British election campaigns that sent Churchill back into control of the British government, it has been a generally known fact that Churchill would renew his old acquaintance with Mr. Truman if returned to power.

No matter what the two discuss, nothing will exceed in importance British need for financial aid.

Churchill, Short said, has had an exchange of messages with the President.

No Russian Premier He added that he knew of no plans to include Russian Premier Stalin or French Prime Minister Rene Plevin in the discussions.

There was speculation that Churchill might address a joint session of Congress.

The meeting of the two will bring two old friends face-to-face for the fourth time. Mr. Truman met with Churchill and Stalin in

Allied Negotiators Accuse Red China

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 12—(AP)—Allied truce negotiators in strong words today accused the Communists of insisting on a phoney cease-fire line merely to stall the armistice talks.

After the subcommittees had wrangled for four hours and 15 minutes, an Allied spokesman said they were no closer to an agreement on the thorny buffer zone issue. They will meet again in Panmunjon at 11 a.m. Tuesday (9 p.m. EST Monday)—their 20th session.

Maj. Gen. Henry I. Rodes, chairman of the two-member U.N. command subcommittee, minced no words in telling the Communist negotiators:

"You intend to establish a pre-sumptive demarcation line and demilitarization zone, which will release you of any necessity to settle the remaining items of the (armistice) agenda with speed and equity.

Spurious Line

"You want to establish a spurious line and zone which will provide you with the leisure and freedom to continue delaying the conference."

The Reds want to fix a cease-fire line before taking up any other item on the agenda. The U.N. command insists that the line follow the war front at the time all other armistice terms are agreed upon.

Hodes quoted Shakespeare in brushing off a Communist claim that their method of determining a cease-fire line is the only scientific one.

He told Red negotiators he thought this quotation from "Hamlet" applied:

"There is method in his madness."

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, the official U.N. command spokesman, said the Communists hinted "pretentiously" that after a cease-fire line was fixed, the next step would be withdrawal of all troops from the buffer zone.

Both sides have agreed the cease-fire line should follow the battle front with a buffer zone 2 1/2 miles wide. They also have agreed that a special committee should determine the exact location of the buffer zone, based on the line of battle contact, and that the full five-man truce delegations should move on to the next agenda item in the meantime.

The only point unsettled is the matter of timing—should the cease-fire line be set first, as the Communists propose, or established after armistice is reached?

The Communist Peiping radio Monday accused the Allies of trying to scrap the agenda adopted July at Kaesong and "pet by blackmail what is favorable to them alone."

An earlier broadcast charged that the Allies were "deliberately twisting" the Red buffer zone proposal offered during a subcommittee session Saturday. This would fix the cease-fire line roughly along the present battle line.

No Proposal

Vive Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. negotiator, made it clear in a statement Sunday that the Allies will accept no proposal which would make it impossible to maintain military pressure on Communist troops while the armistice talks continue.

Joy also indicated the U.N. command will insist on iron-clad arrangements to prevent a Red troop buildup after the armistice goes into effect.

The question of troop strength, including inspection behind the battle lines, will come up if and when the buffer zone issue is settled.

Other items on the agenda include the exchange of prisoners of war and recommendations to respective governments regarding the withdrawal of troops from Korea.

Royal Couple Head for Home

(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh said farewell today to North America, taking home what Britain's future queen described as "new strength and inspiration."

Winding up their five-week tour which crossed 15,000 miles in Canada and the United States, Elizabeth in her nationwide radio good-bye last night said Canada "has become a second home in every sense."

Her husband, in an earlier farewell address at Halifax, had said he was returning to Britain with the message that "Canada is a good investment."

A fleet of little fishing boats was readied to escort the couple from this old port to the Empress of Scotland, on which they sail early this afternoon for home.

Elizabeth and Philip arrived here yesterday from Nova Scotia aboard the epic and span cruiser Ontario, Canada's second largest warship. Despite clear weather, fog horns along the rugged Newfoundland coast mingled their welcome moans with the guns of the royal salute as the vessel moved into her berth.

Texas to Vote on Amendments In Special Election Tomorrow

By GEORGIA OLIVER

Five constitutional amendments will be considered tomorrow by voters in a special election throughout Texas.

These five proposed amendments have been passed by the Legislature and are now being brought to the people for either acceptance or rejection.

House Joint Resolution No. 37 (second amendment on the ballot) stands out in importance to both present and future college students. It provides for investment of 50 per cent of the Permanent University Fund in corporation stocks.

The Fund was originally composed of land gifts and has grown through profits derived from these lands. Income from it is divided two-thirds to the University of Texas and one-third to A&M.

Previously, the funds have been invested in municipal, national and state bonds. However, in the event the amendment is passed, up to one half of the Fund may be invested in corporation stocks which pay a higher rate of interest.

Certain restrictions would be placed on investments. One would be that not more than one per cent of the Fund could be in securities issued by any one corporation. Also, not more than five per cent of the voting stock of a corporation could be owned by the fund.

Such stocks would have to be in companies incorporated in the United States which have paid dividends for ten consecutive years or longer prior to the purchase date.

Any stocks purchased except bank and insurance stocks would have to be listed on an exchange registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The purchasing power would lie in the controlling boards of the institutions under advice of a financial group. Purchase of corporation stocks would ordinarily be for a long term with speculation in the stock market improbable.

Voting boxes for the election in College Station will be located at Consolidated High School and the Culpepper Building on the east side of Highway Six.

Other amendments to be voted on are a retirement plan for county appointive employees, tax increase for rural fire prevention districts, increasing veterans land bonds and raising the ceiling for old age assistance.

Description Of Weekend Concentrated In 'Great'

By RUTH TIPTON

Friends, Aggies, and fellow TSCW'ers could find only one word to describe the past weekend—great!

And judging by the many smiles that greeted yours truly while wandering through the Brazos

Bottom's own Memorial Student Center, that fact couldn't have been stated any plainer or with more feeling.

Couples scattered over the three floors didn't have too much to say to a lowly Batt eavesdropper, but the general opinion was, to state it briefly:

"... the game was fine, the Aggies were great, but we thought Kyle Rote graduated."

"The dance, in words of monosyllable, was hmmmhmmmm."

Few remarks were given to the press concerning various and sundry activities following the dance, but the certain lights were shining in a few dozen pair of eyes.

Hand-holding reigned supreme through said hallowed halls— whoops, scriptuous corridors. Practically every room was occupied with starry-eyed twosomes, trying to capture a few more moments of bliss before the whistle of the departure time shattered the air of romantic quietness.

Summing it up, we could give the "Ode to an Aggie weekend."

"... The weather was fine, the game was great, Aggies we did appreciate. But after all is said and done, we wish to heck the Ags had won."

And at the dance, Art Mooney style. We laughed and loved and sighed a while. Yet all good things must sometime end. And this is where we say Amen.

Poultry Judges Vie for Team

Seven A&M poultry judges are competing for slots on the four-man team that will participate in a two-day Intercollegiate Poultry Judging contest in Chicago Nov. 27 and 28.

They are J. D. Allison, Bill Boardman, Jim Dobblyn, Kenneth Grant, Charles Malloos, George Townsend and Pat Vaughn. E. D. Pannell is team coach.

About twenty-five other collegiate teams will enter the contest. Winners will be declared National Champion of Intercollegiate Poultry Judging.

The A&M team will practice judge at several points along the route to Chicago. First stop will be at Crockett where White Rocks will be judged. The team will then go to Fayetteville, Ark. for practice at the University of Arkansas and at Swansons Poultry Co.

Judging will also be done at University of Missouri, Henderson Produce Co. in Monroe City, Mo., Producers Produce Co. in Springfield and other poultry breeding farms.

At the contest, team members will take a conducted tour to points of interest in Chicago. Winners of the contest will be announced at a banquet Nov. 28.

Enroute home, the team will visit the Purina Experimental Farm and Laboratories in St. Louis.

Grant-in-Aid For Experiment Station

A grant-in-aid of $900 has been made available to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Dr. R. D. Lewis, director, said today.

The grant-in-aid is from the Moorman Manufacturing Company of Quincy, Illinois.
