

'Hometown' Pictures Set For Aggieland

Reservations are now being taken for hometown club pictures in the Aggieland '52, at the office of Student Activities in room 209 Goodwin Hall, announced Bibb Underwood, Aggieland co-editor.

Deadline for turning in reservations is Feb. 15. The editors have advised clubs to turn in reservations early in order to be sure that each club has its picture in the annual.

Cost of the pictures will be the same as last year, $55 for a whole page and $35 for a half page. A $15 deposit is required before the day the picture is made.

This deposit will cover all the expenses of photography, Underwood said.

Presidents of hometown clubs which have a Mothers' Club should leave the names and addresses of the officers of these clubs with the office of Student Activities, the co-editor added.

Caudill Conducts Emergency Meet

An emergency meeting of the American Institute of Architects Committee on School Buildings will be conducted in Washington by W. D. Caudill, chairman of the group, who left Sunday.

Caudill, research engineer Texas Engineering Experiment Station, explained that the group is meeting for a twofold purpose.

"First, to see what the architectural profession can do to help alleviate the school building crisis which confronts the nation today. Second, to develop a long range plan of research which will lead to better design and construction of school buildings," Mr. Caudill said.

sion period might cause defaults in payments on the notes, leaving the state burdened with the problem of paying off the bonds from other sources.

Probably the hottest amendment being submitted is one to let the State increase public welfare spending from 35 to 42 million dollars per year. It's the last proposal on the ballot.

Backers of the amendment say it will help old age pensioners keep the wolf from the door. The proposal has been attacked on the ground that it removes the citizenship requirement from the Constitution and might permit so many people to receive state aid that pension checks would be smaller instead of larger.

feeling of satisfaction as high a degree as possible," the commandant said. "No man gets in trouble because he thinks before hand," Davis asserted, "when you get ready to do something, think it out and ask yourself, will it be best for myself, A&M, and the corps of cadets?"

Davis went on to explain that the men who have left A&M over the years now realize that the board does not develop leadership training. Psychology of fear is not the way for leadership, he said, a leader demands and gets respect of his subordinates by setting a good example.

Col. Shelly P. Meyers, PMS&T, explained contract procedures and answered questions concerning contracts for the sophomores. He also explained the new Universal Military Training law.

Fashion Authority Okeys Mink Coats

By Pat Morley

A recent news release from a New York fashion director advises us that Mrs. Vincent Impelliteri, wife of New York's mayor, arrived amid cheers at the 63rd National Horse Show in her silver blue mink furs. Newspaper columnist and television star Dorothy Kilgallen, "stole the show," wearing white mink over her blue tulle gown.

We wish to hastily pass a reassuring note on to all A&M student wives . . . our informant added that brown mink is "as good as ever."

Knowing that you are as relieved as we are over this fascinating little item, we'll move on to fashion notes a little closer to home.

Lesters Smart Shop's style show at the YMCA Chapel Wednesday evening featured voluminous skirts over a multitude of crinoline petticoats. The show-stopper, a foast-colored nylon net cocktail dress, modeled by beautiful Virginia Lemmons, featured a molded bodice of lace shot with gold.

The slim line, far from forgotten, was displayed beautifully on Dames Club secretary, Myra Burke. She wore a pleated black skirt, topped with a russet velvet blouse.

The twenty models for the show were student wives, all members of either the Dames Club or the Architectural Wives Society. Approximately 175 attended the program, which was successful in showing clothes which were not only beautiful, but moderately priced, as well.

Da Lee Green, student wife narrator of the show, displayed rare showmanship and poise, which kept the program lively and entertaining. In addition, diminutive Da Lee looks like a fashion model, herself!

At the show, she was chic in a slim blue gabardine caped suit, blue shoes and bag, and a white hat sporting two white feathers which topped Da Lee by about fourteen inches!

The Newcomers Club's first party of the year which included husbands of members on the guest list, was brightened by renditions of the Singing Cadets.

The chorus selections were followed by refreshments, which were served by club sponsors Mrs. Howard Barlow and Mrs. Frank Anderson.

Col. E. F. Sauer won high score in the bridge game following, and Dean Howard Barlow took the booby prize. Mrs. A. B. Currie led the field in Canasta. William Herdner won the door prize.

The forty couples attending the affair pronounced it a "big success—from start to finish."

A novel birthday party kept fourteen youngsters happily bouncing upon a load of hay recently.

Andrea Bryant's sixth birthday, Nov. 6, was celebrated in fine style, when her parents, Dot and Dee Bryant of B-10-D College View, arranged for a wagon, mules, and a load of hay to provide a hay ride for "Oogie," and thirteen of her friends.

At the end of the ride to Hensell Park, Dot produced a birthday cake (baked and decorated by herself) which had cowboys and Indians dancing around a bonfire of six candles! Orange soda pop and toast marshmallows completed the feast, and fourteen tired but happy kids were jogged home.

"Thur will be glad when I quit this lithping!" exclaimed Carrie Lee Young after having two teeth extracted Thursday. (Note: Carrie Lee is fully recovered, now.)

Ruth Lawley is the new president of the Veterans Wives Bridge Club. Jewell Marshall, former president, has added duties at the MSC Craft Shop each Thursday evening, which forced her to resign as president. New vice president is Ruby Nell Seale.

with Angela too attractive. Eastman decides to kill Alice and for the crime is sentenced to die.

"A Place In The Sun" is adult entertainment of the highest type. Script writers Michael Wilson and Harry Brown have retained all of the beauty of the original Dreiser work while disposing of the many details that encumbered it.

This picture marks one of the first successful attempts on the part of the movie makers to include a social commentary in a film. Eastman is doomed by the social conditions in which he is born. His affair with the factory girl ends all hopes of social advancement.

The film makes use of some entirely new photographic techniques which will find a place in many of the Film Capital's future productions. Its technical beauty is matched only by the high quality of its acting.

Time magazine has called it the picture to beat for the Academy Award; many who see the picture will no doubt agree.

Flower Show Exhibitors

Mrs. Marion Pugh, left, chairman of the fall flower show of the College Station Garden Club, outlines plans for tomorrow's show with Mrs. Tom Taylor, co-chairman. The artistic arrangement was made by Mrs. Al B. Nelsan, by invitation, for the State Garden Club show in Fort Worth.

Each member of the A&M Garden Club is requested to make at least one entry. All entries must be brought to the MSC and placed between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, after
