Yeager, Topperwine Star

A Quartermaster Wins Championship

By JOE BLANCHETTE
Battalion Intramurals Writer

With able assistance from Dale Topperwine, Bud Yeager was the whole show yesterday afternoon as the footballers of A QMC squelched A Infantry in the finals of Intramural Football, 19-0.

Infantry Passes

A Infantry took the opening kickoff from the supplymen and returned it to their own 30, Don Morris, Infantry signal caller, immediately called for the spread formation and opened up with the vaunted passing attack the Infantry has utilized in reaching the finals. His first aerial sailed incomplete but the second passing attempt was intercepted by Mitchell of the QMC.

On the first QMC play of the afternoon June Clark sent Topperwine up the middle to the Infantry 25. Again Topperwine took the pigskin and drove to the 10. On the third play, Topperwine knifed off tackle to the seven.

On the following play the supplymen racked up their first TD as Yeager circled right end. The identical play also netted the eventual winners the extra point.

As the half approached and the QMC owned the ball on the Infantry 20 Yeager banged over the center of the Infantry line and raced the distance to the goal line. The point try failed on an attempted pichout and at the half the QMC led, 13-0.

Midway of the final half, Yeager drove over the line and broke into the clear for a 25 yard touchdown run after Clark had piloted the supplymen to the TD from the QMC.

The passing combination of Don Morris to Hud Hudspeth never generated much steam as Morris was repeatedly smothered in his own backfield by the fast charging QMC line spearheaded by Harvey Helms and Dwight King.

Horseshoe Champion

B Athletics became the winners of the Corps Horseshoe Championship yesterday as they topped L AF in two consecutive matches.

Ralph Ellis and Sam Rowland won the first match and Miller Barber and Malcolm Douglas coped the final decision.

Freshmen Basketballers

Prior to the varsity tilt tonight, the Aggie Fish will clash with the Baylor Cubs. Game time is scheduled for 6 p. m. Standing in the back row are Cecil Neely (17), Dale Fisher (11), Robert Johnson (16), and kneeling in front are Don Moon (10), and Rodney Pirtle (7).

Top Aggie Guard

McDowell To Play Last Aggie Game

By ED HOLDER
Battalion Sports Writer

Jewell McDowell, one of A&M's greatest guards, will play his last game for the Texas Aggies tonight.

A more colorful career than Jewell has enjoyed would be hard to find. He is one of the last four-year varsity basketballers to graduate. As a sophomore, junior, and again last year, he made All-SWC guard. Jewell was most valuable player for the 1950 Aggie squad, and was named honorary captain last year when the Aggies broke into the title for the first time since 1923.

For the past four years, he has worried the top scorers of the opponents. Last year when Coach Floyd stepped into the coaching spot for the Cadets, Jewell was number one man in the new mentor's type of play. Floyd played defensive ball, and if ever there was a defensive man who could put the skids under big name boys, he was Jewell.

Some games last year hinged on the sure-shot eye of Jewell in the last few minutes of play. Several times he would freeze the ball, dribbling in and out of the other team, and just before the time ran out, sink one from near mid-court to beat the other squad one or two points. He has also worried many a fan by seeming not to know how little time was left, and then just before the horn blew, stepping away from his would-be-guard with the greatest of ease, and firing the final game-winning point.

Holder

Here is one athlete who didn't leave A&M for another school. In fact, Jewell turned down an offer from the University of Texas and came to play for the Aggies. He played basketball for Amarillo till the 1947 season ended. He then went to Austin and enrolled in Stephen F. Austin High School. To the astonishment of several University coaches Jewell left the capital and moved to Bryan to finish his high school training. And shortly thereafter he enrolled in A&M.

Head Basketball coach in 1949 when Jewell began his career was Marty Karow. Jewell didn't play on any freshman team. Instead Karow put him on the varsity his first year at Aggieland. The flashy little guard played in six varsity games that year, and scored a total of 62 points with such experienced men as Slater Martin of Texas and Bill DeWitt of Baylor guarding him.

One of these men, Martin, found McDowell to be more than a match for him. Jewell and Martin clashed twice, both times putting on a show of defensive prowess for the fans. In the two men's first game, they each scored nine points. And in the second, Martin edged Jewell with only a three point margin. Both these scores were well under Martin's average.

Jewell ranks Martin as one of the best players he has come up against. In fact, he has modeled much of his playing style after that of the University star.

The Aggie number one guard has played 75 games for the Cadets. Out of these 75 games, he has fouled out only three times. Two of these times were in 1950, and one was against Oklahoma University this year. And there is a boy down at Texas who should feel very honored. Frank Womack is the only man in Jewell's many games of basketball who has held him scoreless. It happened in the final game of the 1950-51 season (See JEWELL, Page 4)

Coaches Resign From Giant Staff

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Giants announced simultaneously the resigning of their three coaches, an item of news about as startling as a revelation that the Yankees again would compete in the American League. And in the world series, for that matter.

In fact, the only real news would have been if one of them had not been resigned, as manager Leo Durocher probably would have paid their salaries out of his own pocket if necessary to keep them.

Superstitious

The Giant skipper is a superstitious guy, as anyone who has watched his mannerisms on the field readily will realize. You can make book that when he takes over the third-base coaching role at the start of a game he will first pick up a glove, walk over and kick the bag, then methodically erase with his toe every vestige of the whitewash marking the box. That would break up a winning combination is unthinkable.

Here was a team, highly touted in pre-season calculations, which opened with a prolonged losing streak which ordinarily would have killed the pennant chances of any team.

Then it pulled itself together, bolstered by the steady and, strangely, quiet faith of Durocher and began a faltering, stumbling advance.

Through May, June and July the team fought doggedly, but it wasn't able to gain much ground, and entering August you could have got almost any price that the little band of polo grounders wouldn't be within waving distance when the pennant was clinched. By the Dodgers, of course.
