

Oceanography Fellowships Available for 1952-53

Fellowships in engineering and physical oceanography, available for the first time, are open to graduate students for the academic year 1952-53, said Dale Leipper of the department of oceanography.

Also available, said Leipper, are 20 research assistantships, paying from $100 to 125 a month. These involve half time work on investigations conducted for the A&M Research Foundation and are sponsored by various government agencies and by industry.

United Gas Fellowship

The United Gas Fellowship in Engineering Oceanography, sponsored by the United Gas Pipe Line company of Shreveport, La., has a stipend of $2,400 for 12 months plus $600 for equipment, travel, fees.

Applicants must have the BS degree or equivalent in engineering and must indicate interest in oceanographic training. Candidates will be required to take the standard academic curricula leading to the MS in oceanography and may also pursue special studies in geology, biology, chemistry in order to satisfy all prerequisites for graduate study in the department of oceanography, Leipper.

The A&M Research Foundation Fellowship in Physical Ocean-

graphy carries a stipend of $1,500 for twelve months. Applicants should have the BS degree or equivalent in physics or meteorology and have a definite interest in natural science. For graduate study in physical oceanography, the student must follow the same rules which pertain to graduate work in oceanography engineering.

Offers Opportunities

In addition to offering opportunities leading to the MS or PhD degree in physical oceanography, this fellowship presents an excellent method of gaining experience at sea, Leipper added.

Publishers to Discuss Shop Problems Here

Over 100 Texas newspaper publishers and their employees will meet in the MSC Saturday to discuss the mechanical problems of putting out a newspaper.

The purpose of the Third Annual Texas Newspaper Clinic, jointly sponsored by the department of journalism and the Texas Press Association, is to discuss how profits can be increased and costs cut by more efficient pressroom operation.

The delegates will present their difficulties to a panel of experts who will discuss the best possible solution to each problem.

Dr. M. T. Harrington, president of the college, will welcome the group to A&M during the noon lunch hour. The response will be by Brad Smith, president of the Texas Press Association.

MSC Camera Club To Conduct Classes

The MSC camera club will conduct a series of elementary classes in photography, announced Henry Cole, president.

The classes will meet in the third floor darkrooms of the MSC every Thursday afternoon from 5 to 6.

Any interested camera fan is invited, said Robin Ransome, publicity chairman of the club.

sored by the Dow Chemical company, Freeport, is available each year to an outstanding chemistry student. The stipend is $1,500 for twelve months plus $500 for travel and expenses.

Applicants must have the BS degree or equivalent in chemistry or biochemistry and must indicate a definite interest in the chemistry of the oceanic environment.

Candidates are required to take the standard academic curricula leading to the MS or PhD degree in chemical oceanography and such prerequisite courses as are essential to graduate study in chemical oceanography. All candidates should be interested in spending some time at sea, Leipper said.

Cliff Harris

Harris to Lead Baptist Student Work at A&M

Cliff Harris, Class of '47, is the new director of Baptist student work at A&M. His appointment was announced by W. F. Howard of Dallas, director of the department of student work, Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Harris, who received a degree in chemical engineering from A&M in 1948, has been engaged in sales engineering in Dallas. During World War II he was in the United States Navy.

At A&M he was the first chaplain of the Corps of Cadets, filling that position during the 1947-48 school year. In that capacity he was able to institute many religious practices which are still in use on the campus.

Active Student

An active Baptist student throughout his college career, Harris served on the BSU Council in several different positions, including president. In 1947 he was elected devotional vice-president on the Baptist Student Union Council for the state of Texas. During his student days he was ordained as a Baptist deacon.

Harris' work at A&M will include direction of the Baptist Student Center and all phases of the BSU program on the campus. Professor Arthur Smith of the Baptist Chair of Bible is his co-worker.

Baptist student work at A&M, under the direction of the Baptists of Texas, is a locally coordinated program. Dr. W. H. Andrew, pastor of First Baptist Church, Bryan, serves as chairman of an advisory committee which consists of the pastors and elected laymen from the four Baptist churches in Bryan, College Avenue, Emanuel, Calvary and First, and the First Baptist Church, College Station.

Conference moderator will be Leroy Brewington, nationally recognized graphic arts authority and director of printing at Kansas State College, Pittsburg, Kansas.

Panels will be held on pressroom operations and linecasting machines Jack Gale, United Press specialist on news transmission will discuss "The Pros and Cons of Teletypetting" during the afternoon lunch hour.

After answering the publishers questions in the morning sessions, the panel members will demonstrate their solutions on the A&M College press in the afternoon.

quale" by Donizetti. Miss Cooner and Mr. Pearce then joined their voices in a duet from "Lucia", also by Donizetti.

Jascha Heifetz plays the "Prelude" to the "Partita in E major" by Bach, "The Girl With the Flaxen Hair" by Debussy the "Scherzo Tarantelle" by Weinivski and the "24th Caprice" by Paganini. The four numbers are played either on his famous Stradivarius violin, built in 1731, or the equally famous "David" Guarnerius, built in 1742.

Concluding the program is a section featuring the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra in rehearsal under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos. The work heard is the third movement of Liszt's "A Faust Symphony."

On the same program, an adaptation of Leo Tolstoy's "The Guest" is featured. This picture is the first of a series of films using religious subjects in a simple unpretentious manner.

Miss Vaden, Mrs. Blanchard Honorees at Coffees, Teas

Miss Mary Eleanor Vaden, bride-elect of Fred Wemeyer, and Mrs. Robert Glenn Blanchard, the former Miss Betty Napier, were honored at several pre-nuptial parties recently.

Mrs. Armstrong Price entertained at an informal coffee honoring Miss Vaden this morning at 9:30 in the Price home at 900 Park Place.

Mrs. Price and Mrs. F. L. Thomas presented the bride-to-be with silver.

Spring floral arrangements were used throughout the house.

Mrs. H. W. Barlow and Mrs. John P. Abbott were co-hostesses for an informal Valentine tea honoring Mrs. Blanchard Thursday at the Barlow home.

A red and white floral arrangement was the centerpiece of the tea table. The cakes were decorated with red hearts. Spring flowers were used in the house.

Mesdames Shelly P. Meyers, Joe Davis, M. T. Harrington, and C. C. French served.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. O. Elliott, San Antonio and Miss Nancy O'Byrne, Dallas.

Mrs. Joe E. Davis entertained with a formal tea honoring Miss Vaden and Mrs. Blanchard in the Davis home recently.

Mesdames M. D. Welty, E. F. Saur, C. C. Todd, and C. L. Thomas received the 125 guests at the door.

The house party included Mesdames Taylor Wilkins, John P. Abbott, Bennie Zinn, Howard W. Barlow, Fred Hickman, Shelly P. Meyers, W. G. Breazeale, W. L. Penberthy, and Ray George. Mrs. Irene Cleghorn registered the guests.

A white gladioli, daisies, and candytuft arrangement was used for the centerpiece. White satin streamers extended from the bouquet across the table to an auburn haired bride doll representing Miss Vaden and to a brown haired bride doll representing Mrs. Blanchard.

Mesdames M. T. Harrington, C. French, Frank Vaden, Jr., E. W. Napier, and Gibb Gilchrist served.

The hostess presented the honorees a gift of silver.

Local DAR's Make Contest Scrapbook

The La Villita Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are completing the 1952 State DAR Scrapbook. This is the third and final year the local chapter will compile the book.

The white and gold bound book includes clippings about the 82 DAR chapters in Texas, the 1951 State DAR Conference, and the 1951 Continental Congress of the National Society DAR. The English style lettering is blue and gold, the organization's colors.

Mrs. F. B. Brown compiled the book and Mrs. R. E. Callender did the lettering, working in conjunction with Mrs. Emmette Wallace of Bryan, chairman of the Texas Press Relations Committee.

Last year's scrapbook placed second at the Continental Congress in Washington, D. C.
