

Parking Situation Here Not Serious

By CHARLES NEIGHBORS
Battalion Staff Writer

"We have the same automobile problem as a city of 20,000, but it is not really a big problem," said Fred Hickman, chief of Campus Security, yesterday.

Over 12,000 cars have been registered since license plates came into existence in 1947, however, only about one third of those cars are on the campus at present.

There are 2,500 student cars on the campus each week; naturally this number changes from time to time because of dances and other weekend events which cause an Aggie to "go home and get the car."

Including employee autos in the unofficial census of cars on the campus, the total number of cars per week is raised to over 3,000.

Parking Violations

Referring to parking violations, Hickman said most results from students driving to class and parking in restricted areas, either around the MSC or behind one of the class room buildings where the lot is reserved for faculty parking.

Our parking problem is not a large one, but building more lots would cost a large amount of money and would take up an equally large amount of space.

Parking rules are mainly for the minority of students who take advantage of situations in which they are not policed by rules, laws or regulations.

"On the whole," Hickman said, "the largest number of violators come from small towns where there is no parking problem; consequently, city-bred Aggies are better able to cope with the sometimes scarce parking space."

20-Mile Speed

Concerning speeding on campus, Hickman thought the 20-mile speed limit adequate for the protection of student pedestrians if the drivers would be careful, especially when classes had just been let out or when there was a large crowd at A&M.

The fact that quite a large amount of north-south traffic goes by the college on Highway 6, east of the campus, also contributes to our traffic problem to some extent.

In conclusion, courtesy should be the keynote of pedestrian and driver attitude, if it was then a good bit of our problem would be licked immediately, said Hickman.

Leipper Named As Research Consultant

Dr. Dale F. Leipper, head of Oceanography, A&M College was recently appointed expert consultant on the Panel on Oceanography, Research and Development Board, the Department of Defense. He attended a meeting Feb. 29 in Washington in connection with this work.

Functions of the panel include the review, evaluation, and guidance of expenditures of defense funds on projects in the field of oceanography. The panel usually meets three or four times a year and the next meeting will be at La Jolla, Calif. in June. This meeting will be held at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California.

The Panel on Oceanography is a part of the Committee on Geophysics and Geography. Its membership consists of representatives of the various branches of the military services and of several civilian organizations engaged in oceanographic work. Dr. Alfred C. Redfield of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Woods Hole, Mass., is chairman.

Kream Kow Klub Show Set April 26

The Dairy Show, sponsored annually by the Kream and Kow Klub, will be held in the New Dairy headquarters April 26.

"Participation is not limited to dairy husbandry majors," said Prof. A. L. Darnell, who has been in charge of the show since it originated in 1933. He said the experience gained from fitting and showing dairy stock would be invaluable to those planning a career in extension work or vocational agriculture.

Twenty-two dairy majors and one animal husbandry major are entered in the contest. These men have picked 48 heifers from the A&M herd, approximately half of these being Jerseys and half Holsteins. The animals will be shown in the following classes: Heifer Calves, Junior Heifer Calves, Junior Heifer Calves, and Sub-junior Heifer Calves.

Those who wish to participate, but do not have the time necessary to fit an animal for showing may take part in an extra event, Darnell said.

Proceeds from the Dairy Show will help to pay the expenses of the Dairy Judging Team.

Ag Council Plans JC Day Campus Tours, March 28-29

The Agricultural Council will sponsor the Junior College Day this year, to be held on March 28-29, said J. S. Newman, Agricultural Council reporter.

Students from nine junior colleges in Texas will tour the campus and its facilities on these two days. The visitors will be predominately agricultural majors and prospective students of A&M.

After assembling at noon Friday, the students will tour departments on the campus, see the Minnesota-A&M baseball game, and be the guests of the Agricultural Council for the Friday evening meal at Duncan Mess Hall. A program has been planned for the group Friday night in Guion Hall.

A short meeting will be held in Guion Hall Saturday morning to give the visitors an opportunity to ask questions about matters concerning A&M. Immediately following, they will go on a tour of the agricultural facilities across the railroad tracks and then dismiss.

The Agricultural Council will also sponsor a rotating plaque to be awarded to the club in the School of Agriculture having the best Mother's Day exhibit. This plaque will include a plate on which the name of the club and the year is awarded will be inscribed. The club winning the plaque three times will retain it permanently.

Qualifications for this award are based on the exhibit's originality, time spent in preparation, and how well it represents the department.
