South Pacific Agricultural Aspects Told By Williams

D. W. Williams, vice-chancellor of Agriculture for the A&M System recently told the A. H. 428 Seminar class and several animal husbandry majors about the major aspects of agriculture in Australia and New Zealand.

Williams was head of the animal husbandry department for several years.

Williams explained that most of us have the wrong impression of the two countries. These countries are at least 1200 miles apart and are entirely different in agricultural aspects.

Australia and U. S.

Australia is about the same size as the United States, and has approximately the population of Texas. With such a dense population and relatively large area of low rainfall, agriculture, especially livestock production, is the major enterprise.

Because of the rolling, hilly nature of the terrain, sheep, especially Merino, thrive better than the other classes of livestock.

Williams stressed the type of wool marketing done in Australia, and emphasized that this was the standard method of marketing.

New Zealand Small

New Zealand, on the other hand, is a small country, but their ideas on the improvement and development of new agricultural methods are numerous. The main improvement plan now going on in New Zealand deals with grass agriculture.

By planting grass in rows like grain sorghums, cotton, wheat, and other crops, better seed can be developed for planting. This experiment consists of planting certain species in rows and then culling out the unthrifty, dwarf species. After several culling tests, a vigorous, healthy, early maturing plant will result, the speaker added.

Local Chapter FHA Plans Easter Parade

The A&M Consolidated Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America will present an Easter Parade in the Assembly Room of the MSC tomorrow night at 7:30.

All the girls in the club will model in the style show. Mrs. Marjorie Selleck, recently seen in an Aggie Player's production, will be the commentator.

Special features will be presented between each section. Miss Linda Potts, harpist, Miss Shirley Mofett, pianist, and Robert Boon, vocalist, will present musical numbers. Patsy Byrd, daughter of the FHA sponsor, will give a reading.

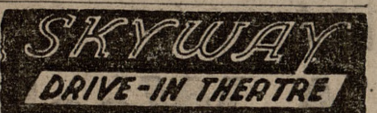

The style show will be divided into three sections—sports, dressy, and evening.

Misses Louise Street, Carolyn Landiss, Sandra Couch, and Marian Gaddis will model for Beverly Braley. Misses Ann Williams, Polly Carney, and Celeste Curran are models for the Collegiate Shop.

Other shops and models are: Lester's Shop, Miss Martha Ergle and Miss Maxie Wilson; Edge's line for entering nominations is March 29, at 12 noon.

Candidates have been nominated by husbands, Bryan and College Station residents, Aggie wives, single students, and friends.

Fill Out Questionnaire

All candidates will be sent a questionnaire that is to be filled out and returned to Mrs. Ruby Nell Seale, chairman of the judging committee, at the Social Office of the MSC by 5 p. m. April 4. The judging committee will select the finalists from the questionnaires.

Mrs. Texas A&M will be selected and presented from the finalists at an all-college dance April 18 in the MSC Ballroom after the judging committee has met the finalists.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Ann Hilliard, MSC representative, Joel Austin, Battalion representative, Dick Frey, single student representative, Mrs.

Marilyn Jaccard, student wife representative, and James C. Mullins, married student representative.

Architect's Wives Recently Organize

By PEGGY MADDOX
Battalion Women's Editor

One of the youngest student wives' clubs is the Architectural Wives Society, which was organized in January, 1950 by 15 interested wives of architectural students. There are two charter members in the organization today, Mrs. Sidney Blake and Mrs. Charlotte Towell.

Mrs. Peggy Williams and Mrs. Bess Denham worked for several months organizing plans to begin the club. At this meeting the 15 wives met with the wives of the instructors in the architecture department and elected officers.

FHA Plans Meet Here, March 29

About 1500 girls and advisors, representing 79 Future Homemakers of America chapters, are expected at A&M for an open meeting March 29 with the Bryan and College Station FHA chapters as hosts.

The general meeting will be in Guion Hall and is being planned by the College Station chapter. The Bryan chapter is in charge of registration which will be in the MSC.

Installation of area officers and the awarding of the chapter degrees will highlight the meeting. Miss Patsy Ross, A&M Consolidated junior, will be installed as Area reporter.

Miss Josephine Pazral, state FHA advisor, is scheduled to hold a panel. Miss Billie Williamson, area supervisor, is in charge of the entire meeting.

Plans are also being made for a corps review for the girls. Later the girls will be escorted by cadet guides on a tour of the campus, said Mrs. Mildred Byrd, local advisor.

look forward, is the dinner dance honoring the graduating students and their wives at the end of each semester. The Architectural Wives Society plan and give the party.

The society meets twice each month, the second and fourth Wednesdays. One meeting is strictly social while the other is a literary meeting. The latter is to inform the wives of subjects related to the field of architecture. A business meeting precedes each meeting. Refreshments are always served following the program or games.

40 Members

Approximately 40 wives belong to the club now. Wives of the faculty members of the architectural department serve as sponsors and advisors.

Mrs. Mildred (Millie) Heltzel is the president of the society this semester. She is an energetic, slender brunette who calls A&M home. She and her husband, John, came to Aggieland in 1948. Since their arrival here, two year old Nina Jean has been added to the family. Millie is employed as a stenographer at PMA and keeps house, too.

Other officers are Mrs. Janet Newman, vice-president; Mrs. Marilyn Jaccard, secretary; Mrs. Gail Goodrum, treasurer; Mrs. Marguerite Phipps, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jeannine George, reporter; Mrs. Virgie Sellars, program chairman; Mrs. Ella Lareau, social chairman; and Mrs. Lillian Nixon, refreshment chairman.

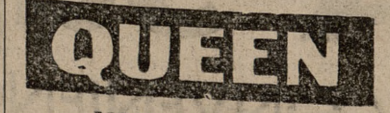

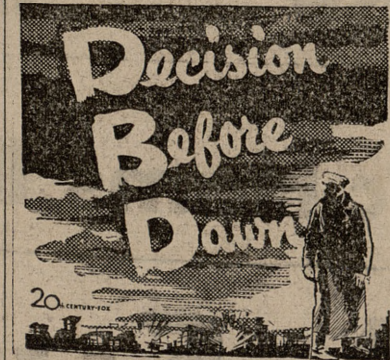

The president says the society enables the wives to meet other architectural wives on the campus, and plan social activities with them.
