

Cotton Groups Slate Meeting Here Thursday

National Cotton and Cottonseed Advisory Committee to the Agriculture Department will meet here Sept. 25-26, Col. Burris C. Jackson said today.

Jackson is chairman of the State-wide Cotton Committee of Texas and a member of the national advisory group. He said the meeting would be attended by some of the best known research leaders in cotton and cottonseed.

He added that the technical subcommittee, which advises the main advisory body, also will meet in College Station for the two-day period.

The Hillsboro cotton man said the meeting's agenda included a full discussion of various projects being conducted in cotton research by both government and private enterprise.

RoundUp Plans Made By MSC Directorate

The MSC Directorate held its first meeting Monday night in the Senate Chambers of the MSC.

Included on the agenda of the two-hour-long meeting, was a discussion of the directorate's plans for their annual Round-Up, to be held Tuesday, Sept. 30, after yell practice.

Round-Up is an affair held twice every year to acquaint students with the operation of various committees included in the MSC Directorate. With speeches and exhibits, members of the committees seek to interest students into joining their group.

Following a discussion of the Round-Up, Directorate President Lamar McNew brought up the question of a joint directorate-rouncil meeting.

A committee composed of Rodney Heath of the directorate and Carroll Phillips of the council was appointed to investigate the possibility of a joint meeting of the two groups.

Final action on the directorate's 1952-53 budget was withheld until the executive committee of the council approves the committee budgets.

Boy to Receive Safety Award

John Henry Young, local Negro boy, will be presented an award from the Texas Safety Association during the noon meeting of the College Station Kiwanis Club today in the MSC.

Young is receiving the award for saving four brothers and sisters from death when their house caught on fire approximately one year ago.

John Hill, in charge of Workmen Compensation for the A&M System, represented the Texas Safety Association as a member of its School and College Committee in presenting the award.

The award was conferred by W. Carlos Morris, Jr., president of the Texas Safety Association.

Dr. Isaac I. Peters of the dairy husbandry department was in charge of arrangements for the presentation.

Senior Class to Hold First Meeting In MSC Tonight

The first meeting of the senior class will be held after yell practice tonight in the MSC Ballroom, said Joe Mattei, president.

Included on the agenda are: Introduction of officers and committee heads and the organization of the committees and of the Former Students Association by Mattei.

Committee reports on traditions and calendar sales by Don Greaney and Dale Beitendorf, selection of an orchestra for the senior ring dance and sweetheart selection by Bubba Blank, and campus beautification by Claude Holmes.

Don Buchner will report on the newly formed Election Commission in regard to the coming elections.

Discussion of a new football season greeting probably will be included in the meeting, Mattei added.

Ags Pick Fight, Get Lip Busted by Pro Footballer

The Chicago Cardinals and the Aggies will probably never meet in the football field, but a player for one and a roofer for the other met in a one-punch battle in downtown Houston early Sunday.

Don Joyce, a six-foot-three 250 pound guard for the professional Cards, was the winner by a knock-down, police said.

The loser by a split lip was Bruce McCarty, an 18-year old Aggie majoring in Petroleum Engineering from Lubbock.

Patrolmen D. B. Stoltje and C. D. Hammer received a call at about 2:25 a. m. Sunday to break up a gang fight in front of the Rice Hotel.

Account Given

When they arrived, the gang was still there but the brief fight was over, Officer Stoltje said. He gave this account of the after-game attraction after talking to witnesses:

Joyce was walking toward the doors to the lobby of the hotel and finding his way through a group of celebrating cadets who were milling about.

Apparently some of them recognized him as a player from Chicago, for several persons yelled: "Yankee! Why don't you go back North?"

About that time, McCarty—

Student Tickets Off Sale Thursday

Tickets to the A&M-Oklahoma football game in Dallas Saturday night are now on sale at the Athletic Office.

Student tickets are $1.20 and student date tickets are selling for $3.60.

Deadline for students to buy tickets is 5 p. m. Thursday, said C. D. Ownby, Athletic department business manager.

Squadron 10 and 22 Win Sign Contest

The weekly pre-game sign contest for the University of Houston game was won by Squadron 10.

Runner up in the contest was Squadron 22.

The winning outfit received $5; the runner up had $2.50 added to its fund. Eugene Rush, College Station insurance man, presents the awards weekly.

spotting quite a few inches and pounds—began the battle by drawing back a fist. With one punch from Joyce, a former Tulane player, the Aggie hit the ground.

Pointed Out
When Officer Stoltje arrived several cadets pointed to Joyce and said, "There he is—that's the man. Get him!" But later the officer explained to a reporter why he didn't "get him."

"I'm just a little guy. I didn't want him," he said.

After conferring with Joyce, McCarty and a military counselor from A&M the officers made no arrests and no charges were filed. McCarty was taken to St.

Service Set To Honor New Bible

The A&M Ministerial Association will hold community wide service at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the A&M Presbyterian Church to honor publication of the new "Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible."

Featured speaker will be Dr. Paul Southern, head of the Department of Bible at Abilene Christian College. His subject will be "The Word of Life in Living Language."

"The completion of the 'Revised Standard Version of the Bible' marks an epoch in the religious life of the English speaking peoples comparable to that marked by the issuance of the King James version in 1611," said J. Gordon Gay, secretary of the YMCA and general chairman of the local committee of ministers.

"The work is the fruit of 15 years labor by the International Council of Religious Education, representing 40 major denominations. The translation was done by 32 eminent Bible scholars. These scholars had the advantage of all past translations as well as all available manuscripts, many of which have been discovered since the King James translation," Gay said.

A three cent stamp will be placed on sale by the Post Office Sept. 30 to commemorate the publication of the new Bible.

All residents of College Station are invited to the service, Gay said.

Proposal of New Dorm Rules Causes Antagonism in Corps

By BOB HENDRY
Battalion News Staff

Antagonism which has swept through the second division of the cadet corps concerning strict enforcement of Articles of the Cadet Corps pertaining to room inspection erupted yesterday.

Monday evening, Maj. Percy Goff, dormitory counselor called a meeting of senior cadets to discuss the stiff opposition developing over the order calling for strict adherence to pages 61, 62, and 63, articles 26, 27, and 28 of College Regulations. These orders were issued by Maj. Goff, dormitory counselor of Dorms, 2, 4, and 6.

Present at the meeting were Maj. Goff, Maj. Charles M. Taylor, Jr., dormitory counselor; Cadet Col. Gene Steed, second division commander; Cadet Capt. J. H. Armstrong, Squadron One commander and a group of Squadron One seniors.

Consult Cadet Officers

Although the cadets present expressed their wish that all the cadet officers of the corps should be consulted, it was decided that the main complaints they had should be declared.

First subject discussed at the meeting was the conditions existing in the second division was the first step in a proposed standardization of the entire corps. This step was deemed necessary, explained Maj. Goff, by the low rating A&M received in room uniformity during federal inspection last spring.

Challenged Some Rules

Since the entire corps will eventually be affected by these regulations, the group of students challenged some of the rules which seemed unnecessary and somewhat ridiculous.

Falling into this category was the regulation calling for no more than a 100 watt light bulb in the room. Maj. Taylor commented that the counselors had realized their error in requiring this regulation and that it was no longer in effect.

Placing of blankets on beds was discussed with no conclusion reached. It was asked that beds should be made without blankets during the warmer months and with blankets during the colder ones. This would be regulated in the same manner as the wearing of ties. The officers argued that the cadets were not capable of keeping their sheets clean without coverings.

Attempts Repulsed

All attempts by the cadets to eliminate the regulation concerning excess furniture were repulsed. (See REGULATIONS, Page 4)

Fifteen Have Filed For Election Posts

Fifteen persons have filed for posts in the coming student elections of Oct. 6-9. Filing will close Thursday, Oct. 2.

Three seniors, nine juniors, one sophomore and two civilian students had filed yesterday, the first filing day, for posts on the Student Life Committee and the Election Commission.

The new Student Body Constitution, lists 15 senators to be elected by and from the senior class, 10 by and from the junior class, six by and from the sophomore class; two by and from the day students, one by and from each of the separate housing areas, Vet Village and College View, and one by and from each of the civilian dormitories.

Only civilian students can file and vote for the three posts vacant on the Student Life Committee. The Election Commission will be composed of 20 members, five elected from each of the senior, junior and sophomore classes and from the Student Senate.

Seniors who have filed for the senate are: Raymond A. Gerdes, A. E. (Ed) Gilliss, Lyle A. Wolf-skill.

Only one sophomore has filed for the senate. He is Jon P. Kinslow.

Filing for the senate in civilian dormitories are Doyle F. Lowery of Law Hall and Alfred C. McAfee of Bizzell Hall.

Col. Anderson Talks to Lions

Col. Frank Anderson, A&M head track coach, was guest speaker Monday at the weekly meeting of the College Station Lions Club.

Col. Anderson told the group about his trip to the Olympic games in Helsinki last summer as he accompanied Walt (Buddy) Davis and Darrow Hooper of A&M who competed.

Giving many interesting sidelights about the Olympics, Col. Anderson also explained briefly some of the customs of the people in Finland.

An announcement was made that the Lions will hold a joint meeting probably next week with the College Station Kiwanis Club in order that both groups may hear an address by Maj. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, deputy commander of the Fourth Army and former commander of the Koje Island prison camp in Korea.

Gen. Boatner is also a former commandant and PMS&T of A&M.

Davenport Starts New MSC Duties

Ray Davenport was introduced last night to the MSC Directorate as a new assistant to J. Wayne Stark, director of the center. Davenport, who attended the University of Chicago and the State University of Iowa, was introduced to the group by Stark.

Davenport will assume duties as assistant to the director today. Previously he worked in similar capacities at Chicago and Iowa State.

He will work with such student committees in the directorate as games, publicity, and others.

'Can't Do It' Irvin Moans

The State Federation of A&M Mothers Clubs plans to do something about the long-time campus problem—price of football date tickets.

Debated for many years without any success (for the student's part), the $3.60 football date ticket aroused the ire of the Deep-East Texas A&M Mothers Club, who presented a letter on the problem.

Mrs. S. M. Greene of Gladewater, president of the club, presented the letter. It called for the federation's president, Mrs. R. M. Harris of San Angelo to appoint a committee to investigate what could be done about the high cost of date tickets.

A point of controversy brought out in the letter, Mrs. Harris said last night, was the student wife's tickets.

"They (the Deep East Texas Club) were not happy about student wives getting in at a lower rate. I would have liked to have found out more about it while I was at College Station this last week end."

The federation met in the MSC Saturday afternoon. It was their annual fall meeting of the executive group and the presidents of the clubs.

Irvin Says Yes—No

Athletic Director Barlow (Bones) Irvin, when told of the mothers club's plans said "a conference rule won't permit a lower price on tickets." No one but students can be admitted for $1.20.

When questioned as to why for many years students at Southern Methodist University were allowed free entry into games, Irvin said, "Yes, if the athletic department would assume the extra cost it could be done. But there would be no way of distinguishing who was getting in on what ticket."

The athletic director emphasized it was a conference rule on the cost of date tickets being $3.60. He made no comment on student wives' tickets. (See DATE TICKETS, Page 4)

Scholarships Library Aid Given College

New gifts and grants totaling $53,188.43 in fellowships and scholarships, have been received by the college, E. E. McQuillen, director of the development fund, said today.

The program was begun in 1946, with 16 scholarships. Now there are 251 students in school in four-year opportunity awards, 170 are old students and 81 are new students, McQuillen added. There are also 20 Sears and Roebuck Co., winners of one year awards enrolled this fall.

The new gifts and grants received within the past month are from the Texas Co., Westinghouse Educational Foundation, Student Senate's campus chest, Col. T. H. Barton, X. I. T. A & M Club R. B.
