Aggies Over Cowboys by 3

Maroon and White again! This time by three points. The toe of Darrow Hooper will make this game. The Aggies have had a chance to look over the Cougar game and take count of their mistakes. They shouldn't make as many this time.

And here is something you can put your money on. If the Aggies play like they did against the U of H, and the Cowpokes play like they did against Arkansas, we'll chalk up another before Saturday night is over in the Cotton Bowl.

Ray Graves will lead the farmers again, but keep an eye on the right arm of Don Ellis. This little speedster can not only make like an eel, he can throw from that left halfback spot.

Fullback Magouirk

And the big fullback Connie Magouirk is very likely to show someone his heels this time. All Magouirk needed was a start, and he got that last week in Houston. Don Kachtik will also see some action at fullback. This sophomore is showing great promise, and can nearly always be counted on for a few yards.

Raymond Haas will run right halfback, and you can look for those left end sweeps to be deadly all night. This boy is fast, and is taking advantage of his first year as a starter. Playing behind boys like Glenn Lippman and Billy Tidwell got tiresome, but now watch him go.

looks like he "has something this year." And when you hear this from Russell, watch out for the worst . . . for the opposition that is.

Jerry Norton and Benton Musslewhite look like the big guns for SMU. Musslewhite was the boy last year who set a record of 532 yards on 36 passes caught. That's plenty potent, and with last season's experience and a more well-rounded ball club backing him . . . Look out Duke! Here comes the best Mustang team since the days of their championship teams of 1947 and 1948!

Texas 28-North Carolina 14

The Texas Longhorns rolled over LSU last week like a dust storm over west Texas.

It won't be quite as easy this time, but with the improved backfield over last week's first game, they will play better ball. Coach Ed Price needed a quarterback for his Longhorn team, and he needed one in a bad way.

Arkansas 20-U of H 19

The Cougars will show a great deal of improvement over last week's game with the Aggies. They found out during the later part of the game, when it was too late, that they had a very effective spread formation. The huge Razorback line had too many holes in it against Oklahoma A&M last week, and their defensive backfield leaked like a bottomless water bucket.

Unless they have filled some of the holes, and patched that can. Clatterback will pass them wild and Carr will add the finishing insult . . . plowing up their giant line.

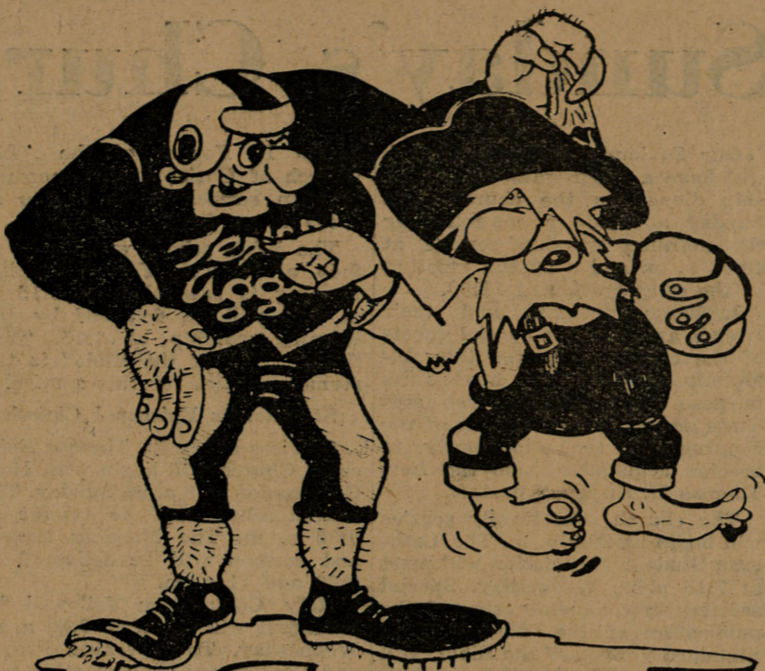

It looks like Price has found the passing quarterback he needed. Jones is a letterman, and was challenged for the spot by Bunny Andrews. But with his performance against the Louisiana club, it looks like Jones has the edge. Not only that but he will be a big aid to an already powerful Longhorn offense.

TCU 7-UCLA 19

Coach Dutch Meyer is taking it easy and coasting along with his crafty eyes set on the conference.

He doesn't seem to worry about the non-conference tilts, so the Bruins should have a field day with Don Moomaw running wild. He is a two year All-America tackle, and will give the TCU backs a fit. Meyer knows this and you can bet he won't risk an injury trying to win the game.

They might be coasting along now, but the Frogs will open up in their first conference game. Till then you won't see much. But with Meyer running his old plays and playing a conservative game, UCLA should have a good day without much trouble.

Team Says CHS Should Have Best Squad Ever

Dan Williams, offensive left tackle for A&M Consolidated High School says, "This is our year. We've got the material now more than ever before." Williams has been on the varsity squad for the past two years. He played guard for two seasons and has just switched to tackle. "I believe this is one of the best teams Consolidated has ever had," said Williams.

"Pinky" Cooner, offensive center and substitute defensive guard, was also one of Coach Chafin's best players in last week's game against Iola. Cooner said tonight's game against Navasota could turn out either way if the Tigers don't hustle.

David Bonnen, Tiger fullback, is high scorer for District 24-B with 30 points. Bonner, Tiger captain, has made five touchdowns in the last two games. One of his teammates said "Nobody would stop Bonnen if he weighed ten more pounds." Not only Bonnen but nine other Tigers are among the top eleven scorers in the district. Between them they have 97 points for only two games. The Tigers haven't beaten Navasota in the last three years but Lineman Cooner says this is probably their year. Navasota has a much bigger team than Consolidated, with two tackles each weighing over 200 pounds. They also have a 190 pound guard. "Even though out-weighted, we have a very good chance of beating the Rattlers if we play heads-up ball and really hustle," said Cooner. The starting line-up for tonight's game will be David Bonnen, at fullback; Fred Anderson, at quarterback; Travis Eggebrecht and Tom Barker at halfbacks; Pinky Cooner, center; Melvin Free and George Sousares, guards; tackles, Dan Williams and Robert Cleland, and Pete Hickman and Bob Jackson at ends. Injured Players Coach Chafin's injured players, John Manthei and Jimmy Bond won't play tonight, but will probably be ready next week. The Tigers as a whole are leading the district teams, although they haven't played any district games. Their first one is Oct. 3, at Milano. High-point in their season to date was the 71 to 13 score over Iola last week.

Aggies, Texas Picked to Win

If The Battalion's new sure-fire system for picking the Southwest Conference winners is as accurate this week as it is supposed to be, the SWC will have a disappointing weekend.

Out of the six SWC teams playing, only two are picked to win with one tie and three losses. The Battalions new system has been perfected to the point that it will give 60 percent right predictions.

In the SWC, 60 percent is almost impossible as the underdogs usually come up with an upset except when they are expected to.

Although the score given by the system may not be exact, the point spread will be close. Rice and SMU will be playing their first game of the week-old season and may upset the system as it has nothing to work on.

With the exception of the TCU and Texas games, the Dallas Morning News is in disagreement with the system.

Last week in checking the system, before trying it in The Battalion, the Aggie-U of H contest was missed by one point. The Kansas-TCU game was missed by six points, the Baylor-Wake Forest tilt by four and the Arkansas-Oklahoma A&M game by six. The only mistake was the Texas-LSU game in which the system predicted the Tigers to win by a field goal.

This was an 80 percent prediction, which is 20 percent more than we guarantee. This week the System says: Aggies over Oklahoma A&M by seven points. Texas over North Carolina by 18 points. Arkansas and the U OF H to tie. UCLA over TCU by six points. Duke over SMU by seven points. Texas Tech over Rice by 14 points.

Kelly Set Record For Longest Run

"Choc" Kelly, '10, Indian backfield star at Texas A&M made what is probably the record run in Aggie football history, if not in the nation's history of football.

In the Aggie-LSU game of 1907, "Choc" took the ball on his own 45-yard line near the left side and then, to avoid a tackler, he shifted and darted to the left side and ran directly across the field to the right side line, there he met more tacklers, so he reversed and again ran to the left side, meanwhile losing a few yards.

When he reached the left side lines for the second time, he was forced back more to avoid being thrown and again ran to the right side line.

He sidestepped another tackler and ran toward the left side again, but when he reached the point where the ball had been put in play, he darted down through the center of the field to score a touchdown that was a deciding factor in the victory.

Computing the width of the field as 160 feet (approximately) 59 yards, he crossed the width four times for a total of 239 yards, which added to the 45 yards that he advanced the ball, game him a total run of 284 yards.

In crossing and recrossing the field he lost about ten yards. If that yardage is included, he covered approximately 255 yards.
