About 400 students from the Bryan-College Station area had the time of their lives giving Bryan Air Force Base a thorough inspection Saturday morning at the Kiwanis Kids' Day tour. They crawled through airplanes, tried on fire fighters equipment, saw a movie, rode in a Link trainer, climbed all over fire trucks, got accidentally sprayed with a fire hose at the fire fighting demonstration, heard a band concert, and filled up on cold drinks and ice cream.

Miller In Charge
The Air Force cooperated with Kiwanis International all over the country on this year's Kid's Day. In charge of local arrangements here were Otis Miller, Kiwanis president, Col. James McGehee, wing commander at Bryan AFB, and Ed Ivy, chairman of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Committee. According to Martha Ergle, president of the A&M Consolidated Future Homemakers Club, about half of the National Kid's Day buttons have been sold.

Guided Around Base
The boys and girls were guided around the base in groups of 25 by 20 Air Cadets of the class that will graduate Oct. 25. Each group had two guides. And, as one of the guides put it "We ought to put in for combat pay for this." Buses picked up the kids at their schools at 8:30 a. m. and took them to the base. The tour started with an orientation meeting at 9 a. m. and ended with refreshments at noon.

Jim Bushy, outfielder for the Washington Senators, entered Texas Christian University in 1946 on a football scholarship.
The half-hour picture show was entitled "Your Air Force in Action." It included combat scenes from World War II and documentary material on the Air Force. Planes open for inspection were the T-28 and T-6 trainers, the T-33 jet trainer, and the B-26 bomber. The Air Force got a few converts out of the tour. John Mar-along in the years, the number of athletes grows faster than anticipated. Now, we would like to eliminate part of this burden, but the other conference schools won't agree. It could be better if we would allow our former athletes free admission for the five years following their graduation, instead of this lifetime proposition.

"Now, it's the mothers. First the poppas, because they're former students, hem and haw and yap about their seats. With the mothers entering the picture, it's hard to find an exit. "Everybody is asking we do something, but there's little we can do. Our hands are tied either by the council or the conference. "What can we do? Wait til next year?"

him. He believes the team spirit is high after victories over the University of Houston and Oklahoma A&M, and the players are looking forward to the game with the Kentucky Wildcats. The team is much better than preseason predictions Kachtik stated. He believes there are still more surprises in store for Aggie fans before the season is over. Kachtik has two years of eligibility after this year, so he should play a lot of ball for the cadets before he is graduated in 1955.

Dr. Mayo Honored At Surprise Party

Dr. Thomas F. Mayo, professor and former head of the English department, was guest of honor Saturday afternoon at a surprise party given by his colleagues and their wives on the lawn of The Oaks at 200 S. Congress in Bryan.

The party was given in appreciation of Dr. Mayo's friendship and distinguished service as chairman of the department. Effective Sept. 1, he relinquished his place as head of the department to devote full time to teaching and writing.

During the afternoon Dr. Mayo was presented two gifts—a leather brief case, symbolic of the book he has begun to write and a matching travel bag symbolic of the leave of absence he plans to take to study in Europe.

Summey Makes Award

The presentation was made by Dr. George Summey, Jr., formerly head of the department whom Dr. Mayo succeeded. Dr. Summey paid tribute both to Dr. Mayo's achievements in education at A&M and his great humanity.

In his speech Dr. Summey brought out the high ideals of mind and character which enable Dr. Mayo to stimulate his students to read and enjoy great literature. He pointed out that the head of a department has to have the courage of a lion, the sure-footedness of a pack mule, the eloquence of a Churchill, the patience of a Job, and—at times—the hide of a rhinoceros.

In accepting, Dr. Mayo said he considered the party and gifts as "extras," because his colleagues had already given him the best gift he could possibly receive. He referred to the pleasure and privilege of working with them in mutual cooperation and respect towards the attainment of the same high aim.
