Filing for Elections Will Close Today; First Vote Monday

Today is the deadline for students to file for offices in the coming elections of Oct. 6-9. To date there have been a total of 176 candidates. The Battalion reported a wrong and much higher figure earlier.

Twenty-two candidates filed yesterday. Of these, all were candidates for the Student Senate except three who filed for the Election Commission. These three are Jerry L. Ludwig, Ferman Glesier, and Marvin H. Ford, all juniors.

Senior candidates for the senate are Victor W. Gillett, T. E. Kelly, Alva Shepard, W. B. Travelstead, R. F. Lannert, Doug Goode, and O. D. Bretches. Two juniors who filed for the senate yesterday are E. R. Keeling and L. B. Brown.

Two Judging Teams Enter Top Contests

Two judging teams representing A&M's dairy husbandry department participated in out-of-state contests.

The Dairy Products team competed in the National Students Judging Contest in dairy products in Chicago, Ill. Members recently took part in the Southern Regional Dairy Products Contest in Nashville, Tenn. in preparation for the current event.

Team members are James B. Hardaway of Leesburg, George Spaniel of Moulton, Eddie L. Thompson of Waco, and Wesley E. Gross of Bonham. Frank E. Potter of the dairy husbandry department is coach.

The dairy cattle judging team entered the National Dairy Congress at Waterloo, Ia., this week. Before participating in the national contest, the team took part in a contest at Memphis Tenn., where it won third place in all events. Henry W. Haisler, of Caldwell, won fifth place in individual judging of all breeds.

Army Rifles Ready Soon

M1 rifles for ROTC drill have arrived and are being placed in the gun rooms of dormitories housing all ground force cadets, said Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins, assistant commander.

Cadets will begin drilling with rifles Oct. 9, Wilkins said. Commanding officers of each company may issue rifles before the next drill period, he said. Otherwise rifles will be issued at drill next Thursday, Col. Wilkins said.

Cadet officers and first sergeants will only have rifles for instruction purposes, according to Wilkins. Each cadet will be responsible for the conditions of his rifle and will be charged with having it clean at all times, he said.

Weather Today

CLEAR
WEATHER TODAY: Clear with a slight drop in temperature from a mild norther. The high yesterday was 93 and the low this morning 62. (No snow in sight.)

Seniors Devise Seating Plan for Kentucky Game

A seating arrangement for A&M students at the Kentucky game has been devised by the senior class and will be used for this game, said Joe Mattei, senior class president.

The seating arrangement is a modification of the plan used last year which was drawn up by the Student Senate. The only change in the senior's plan is that civilian and corps seniors will be in the same sections.

Members of the senior class voted on this arrangement, although deciding where students will sit in Kyle Field is a function of the Student Senate. The senate will probably approve this arrangement or decide on a new one after it convenes for the first time next week, Mattei said.

Students will be expected to sit in the places indicated on the map, the senior class president added.

Civilian senate candidates registered in yesterday's filing are George M. Sturgis, and Ernest G. Horres, both of Law Hall; Lamar McNew of the day students; and Bill Harper, who misfiled as a senator-at-large.

Most applications filed are for the senior positions in the senate. They number 46. Junior and sophomore classes have both drawn 43 candidates.

Eighteen have filed for position on the Election Commission and six civilian students are candidates for the Student Life Committee. Other areas and their respective number of senate candidates are: College View, five; Law Hall, five; Puryear Hall, five; Mitchell Hall, two; Bizzell Hall, two; day students, two; senators-at-large (not a post) two.

The election schedule is as follows: Monday, Oct. 6, sophomore elections; Tuesday, Oct. 7, junior elections; Wednesday, Oct. 8, senior elections; Thursday, Oct. 9, non-military and day student elections.

Voting will be by secret ballot in a central ballot booth in the MSC promenade near the Postoffice entrance.

Separate ballots will be used for each class and for each civilian dormitory and housing section. Civilian students will be allowed to vote for both their dormitory and class representatives. Correcting an earlier mistake in The Battalion, only one man can be elected from each non-corps dormitory for student senator instead of two.

Student Injured After Dormitory Explosion

A fireworks explosion in Dormitory 10 last night set off mass confusion among students in the upperclassman corps area and led to the injury of a student who fell into a steam tunnel.

Injured was Clarence (Buck) Gay, sophomore from Fort Worth who is student electrician for three dormitories. Gay entered the tunnel in an attempt to protect the dormitory's electrical equipment from students who were swarming all over the area.

With a flashlight in hand, excitement caused him to miss the steps and he dropped ten feet between the steam pipes into the tunnel. He received a cut over the left eye and multiple cuts and bruises on his body.

The explosion occurred at about 9:30 p.m. according to Robin Ransone, sergeant of the guard, who investigated the disturbance. Ransome had just returned to the guard room in Dormitory 12 when someone rushed to the window and asked for a doctor or an ambulance—saying a student had fallen into the steam tunnel.

KYLE FIELD SEATING ARRANGEMENT—This is the way students will sit in the A&M section of Kyle Field at the Kentucky game Saturday night. Seniors will sit from the 50 yard line to the goal line. They will enter the stadium through Ramp P and sit in the area from the main aisle up to the top of the stadium. Juniors will be admitted to a section which extends from the end zone to the 40 yard line. All Juniors will enter through Ramp O. The juniors will sit above the eighth row and up to the main aisle, where the senior section begins. The juniors will also occupy the area from the main aisle to the top of the stadium between Ramp O (goal line) and Ramp N. Freshmen and Sophomores will enter through Ramps N and M and will occupy the first eight rows from the 40 yard line (next to the band) to the end zone. From the end zone to ramp N they will occupy all seats up to the main aisle. Beyond section N in the end zone, freshmen and sophomores will be allowed all seats from the bottom to the top row.

Hospital Slow
Robert A. Ruiz, corporal of the guard, called the college hospital and was told they would send someone over. Ruiz said he waited a few minutes and no one came. He then called a Bryan doctor and was advised to contact the college hospital. Another doctor was called and he promised to get medical aid to the injured student.

Twenty minutes after the first call to the college hospital, Ruiz called back and was told the ambulance would not start. In the meantime a student employee, William Parson, from the hospital rushed over to Dormitory 10 in a borrowed car, but thought Gay's injuries could be such that he would be hurt more if transported in a car. Parson returned to the hospital and with the aid of freshmen in a nearby dormitory pushed the ambulance until it started.

Rushed to Tunnel
Martin Clemmons, sophomore from Port Arthur and Gay's roommate, said he rushed down into the tunnel as soon as he had word of Gay's injury. Clemmons said he and a few other unidentified students treated Gay for shock, but did not attempt to lift him out for fear of internal injuries.

After a hurried trip to Dormitory 10, a chain blocking vehicle entrance to the area was found locked, but finally broken down by the ambulance. Parsons and several assistants lifted Gay out of the tunnel on a stretcher and rushed him to the hospital. They left the dormitory at 10:20 p.m., 40 minutes after the accident occurred.

Dr. J. E. Marsh, college physician, arrived at the hospital a few minutes after Gay was brought in and found a gash over the left eye requiring four or five stitches.

Gay, who was unconscious until just before he was helped out of the tunnel, told a Battalion reporter at the hospital, "I don't know why I went down there, but I'll never do it again." He probably was still dazed at that time.

Cadet officer of the guard Cliff Schaffer and officer of the day Norman (Bubba) Buescher asserted that Gay did not receive medical aid.

Ray Graves Speaks To QBs Tonight

Ray Graves, ace Aggie play-caller and passer will speak tonight at the Quarterback Club in the MSC Ball Room at 7:30.

A double feature program is scheduled. Two thrilling game films, Oklahoma A&M and the University of Houston, will be shown.

Graves will make a short talk on how the team is shaping up for this season, and how he thinks the Aggies should do against Kentucky Saturday night on Kyle Field.

Narrate Films
He will then proceed to narrate the films, and explain the differences between the Oklahoma Aggies and the Houston Cougars. The essential difference was the defense they ran. Graves will elaborate on this point, as well as the mistakes made by each team.

Graves is the man who leads the Aggie attack at quarterback on the split-T formation coached by Head Mentor Ray George.

He has thrown 27 passes and completed 15 of them for a total gain of 182 yards and an average of .555 on connections. This places him third in the conference.

Fourth Among Ball Carriers
On 23 tries with the ball he has covered 101 yards to set his pertry at 4.4 yards. Graves ranks fourth in the SWC in leading ball carriers.

In total offense, he has gained 283 yards on 50 plays for a 5.7 yds. average and third place in the conference among leading total offense leaders.

A senior letterman, Graves stands six ft. 1 inch and weighs 170 pounds. He is 20 years old and hails from Stephenville. His major is Business Administration.

Dance Scheduled For Kentucky Tilt

A dance will be held after the Kentucky game, Saturday, Oct. 4, on the MSC Starlight Terrace, Betty Bolander, MSC program director, has announced. The dance will begin immediately after the game and will last until 12 p. m.

Music will be provided by the Aggieland Combo and refreshments will be sold, said Gordon Geddes, dance chairman.

Ross Volunteers Organize Tonight

The Ross Volunteers will hold their first meeting of the year after yell practice tonight in Room 3D of the MSC, said Joe Wallace, commander of the RV unit. Coffee and cookies will be served.

Committees will be appointed and plans for the year will be discussed, Wallace said. All seniors who want to remain active in the organization must be present, he commented.

Applications for membership in the Volunteers must be in by Monday night, Oct. 6, Wallace concluded.

Costly Tank Prank Remains Unsolved

Investigation of the costly tank painting is at a temporary standstill, Col. Joe Davis, commandant, revealed yesterday.

Whether the investigation will be handled by the college or by the railroad is undecided, but proper action will be taken soon, he said.

Kentucky Game First Review

The cadet corps will march in its first pass by of the season Saturday night at the University of Kentucky football game, Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins announced yesterday.

Class "A" uniforms will be worn by all cadets. First call will be sounded at 1830 hours with move out at 1835 hours. The cadets will pass through Gate 2 to the rear of Kyle Field where they will be dismissed.

Unofficial Record In Town Hall Race

Dr. W. M. Potts, of the Chemistry department, was third at 3:15 a.m. and Dr. W. L. Porter, head of the Mathematics department, was fourth, arriving at 4 a.m. Both were runners-up last year.

Another line, popular at the time, was the line for coffee and cake. C. G. (Spike) White, assistant to the dean of men for student activities, was serving to all members of the line.

The only claim anyone had to a position in the line was a small ticket with their place numbered on it.

Several of the early risers were to be seen dozing away in the big soft chairs of the Guion Hall lounge.

Activity reached a peak when Mrs. Polly Patranello of the Student Activities office arrived with the tickets and Hardesty stepped forward to buy the first four tickets.

As predicted the non-student classic got off to an early start. An unofficial record was set by Pete Hardesty in the non-student Town Hall ticket line last night. Hardesty, business manager of Student Activities, went to Guion Hall immediately after the freshman game and started the line.

"I had never been in this line before and was curious about spending the night in Guion Hall," said Hardesty. Although first in line, he spent most of the night dozing in his car.

Stealing the show was Michael McGuire, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McGuire, 113 Langford. Mike got to the line at 2:30 a.m. to get second place. "Dad wanted good seats so I came over on my bike to get 'em," Mike said. Wide awake, despite his long vigil, he made a sharp contrast with the sleeper members of the line.

Aggie Band Plans New Maneuvers

As recall echoes from the walls of Kyle Field for the first time this year, the Aggie Band will step off into one of the more complicated drills this year.

Led on the field by Doyle Krueger, head drum major, Jerry (Pinkey) Jordan and George Bruner, the 180-piece band will open the drill with an entirely new entrance made up of minstrel turns.

After reaching the far end of the field, they will execute the well known "continuous counter-march," followed by a right and left flank movement.

Next come two of the double minstrel turns the Aggie band is known for. The next new movement is one designed to make your eyes jump back to the field from your date or coke.

The maroon and white brigade will form the letters—T-E-X-A-S A-M-C and K-E-N-T-U-C-K-Y. Still holding the letters, the members will march off the field, with the letters melting as they hit the sideline.

Concession Stands Provided for Game

Student concessions, sponsored by the Athletic department, will be provided for the A&M-Kentucky game, announced Joe G. Fagan, concession manager.

Soft drinks, ice-cream, hot-dogs, peanuts, popcorn, pillows, pennants and eye-shades will be sold by students in the stands and at various concessions places around the stadium, he added.

Approximately 30 students will direct traffic and help conduct the parking of cars before game time. Students wanting to work during home games should apply in the office of Campus Security.

Programs for the game will also be sold by students during the game, said Roland Bing, manager of student publications.
