arm finally bringing the Aggies 129 yards, compared to 89 on the ground.

Don Ellis was the most effective ball carrier for A&M and was the subject of much praise by Michigan State fans after the game.

State's first touchdown came after Aggie Roy Dollar had sent a punt out of bounds on the Spartan one yard line. This scared them little, however, because they marched 99 yards for the initial tally.

State Scores

Don McAuliffe scored the touchdown in the opening quarter, and teammates Leroy Bolden and Duckett counted again in the second quarter.

"And they felt the team did very well even in bowing by the great margin.

"Also helping soothe the pain of defeat was the fact that the Aggies stand to get about $100,000 before expenses, out of the game because of the added television plum.

"It's quite likely that this is the most an Aggie team ever made while losing—or winning, either, for that matter.
