Riggs' Scamper Highlights Play

A 97 yard touchdown return of the opening kickoff by T. Riggs, A Cml., was the highlight of Monday's intramural football schedule. Riggs' sensational dash was his outfit's only offensive gesture, as A QMC came from behind to take a 13-6 win.

Two touchdown passes from Jim Mathis to Decker were the deciding factors in a 16-6 victory of Sq. 7 over AAA.

A Ath nailed an opposition ball carrier in the end zone for the winning points in an 8-7 decision over A TC.

Sq. 11 Wins on Penetrations
In two other close games Sq. 11 scored four penetrations to eke out a victory over A Eng. in a scoreless game. A Ord. scored the lone touchdown of the game to count a 6-0 win over A Arm.

In basketball action Sq. 4 nosed out Sq. 9, 13-16, and Sq. 8, sparked by Lasletick's six points in the last half, outlasted Sq. 11, 20-16.

One-Sided Games
In the two more one-sided games AAA, aided by W. L. Reynolds' eight points, beat Sq. 6, 25-17, and B Inf. outpointed Sq. 19, 26-12, with both Don Honne and Charles Smith scoring eight points.

Ray Graves One of Three Top Passers

Ray Graves has been named by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau as one of the top three stand-out passers of the week. Sharing passing honors with Graves were Don Henrich of Washington who completed 14 out of 39 and Tommy O'Connell of Illinois. Graves completed 14 out of 22.

The NCAB selected California's Johnny Olszewski as the stand-out running performer.

Freshman Football Team Meets Pollywogs In Ft. Worth Tonight

The A&M freshman football team plays the TCU Pollywogs tonight in Fort Worth.

This is their third game of the season, having won their game with the Baylor Cubs 21 to 20 last Friday, and lost their opener to the U of H.

Coach Cooper Robbins said tonight's game won't be an easy one.

The Wogs have a good team but not much in reserve "They are strong in the places where we are weak," said Robbins.

Some of the Pollywogs best players are two big fullbacks, Gerald Redus 185, and Julio Laguarda, 165. Both are dangerous runners and Redus is also a good passer. Their two tail backs are Don Caylor, 190, and Wesley McDonald, 200.

The Wogs have a good passing attack with most of them going to end Bob Wilson. Don Samford, a 205 pound halfback, may be a serious threat to the A&M chances.

Robbins Only Injury

Donald Robbins is the only injury on the Aggie football team. He came out of the Baylor game with a broken left collar-bone and a dislocated right one. Robbins will be out for the rest of the season.

Bill Schroeder caught two touchdowns passes and Pete Huddleston made an 85 yard run for the other score in the Baylor game. The score was 13 to 6 at the end of the first half, 21 to 13 at the third quarter and 21-20 at the end of the game.

Place Kicking Perfect

Ben Nichleson, place-kicker for the freshmen made all three extra points and practically won the game since Baylor missed one of their in the first quarter.

"There is quite a bit of improvement in the team-work and running of plays on our team," said Coach Robbins. "There is still room for more, though," Robbins said his boys played a pretty good game Friday even though Baylor has one of the best freshman teams they've had.

Robbins expressed regret that his team has had but two days since the Baylor game to get ready for the Pollywogs. The Wogs use a wide spread formation which is difficult to get used to if a team hasn't had much practice against it.

Either Bob Mangleburger or Don Tedder will take Don Robbins place in tonight's game. That is the defensive end position.

The outcome of tonight's tilt depends mostly on the A&M pass-defense, according to Cooper Robbins. He said it wasn't as good as it should have been against Baylor.

Kittens Seek First Victory of Season

The Consolidated Jr. High Kittens play their fourth game of the season tomorrow night in Madisonville.

After a close 6-0 loss to the Hearne Eaglets last week, and two narrow losses the weeks before, the Kittens will be looking for their first win and their first touchdown.

Against Hearne Jr. High the Kittens were outweighed on a team average of 30 pounds.

Co-Captains for tomorrow night's game against Madisonville Jr. High will be Frank Benavidez and Richard Allen.

O. V. Chafin, coach of the jr. high squad, said the Kittens have been improving each game. "They lost the first by 12 points, the second by 7 points, and the last by only 6," he said.

"All in all they have been doing a good job, and I expect them to do even better against Madisonville. They aren't very big compared to some of the teams we play, but they show a lot of fight," he said.

Graves Passes to No. 2 Spot

Ray Graves, Ace Aggie aerialist, jumped from fourth to second place among the nation's top forward passers, nation-wide statistics revealed today.

Graves has completed 48 passes out of 75 attempted for a 64 per cent completion average. Henrich of Washington tried 39 aerials last weekend to take a good lead in the top spot. Henrich has 61 passes completed in 123 attempted for a 49.6 percentage.

The Aggie passer, who can also run with the pigskin, is still among the ten leading total offense leaders in the nation with 624 yards. Graves was pushed down two spots by Price of Columbia and Aplanalp of San Jose State.

Price who wasn't even listed last week, apparently went wild over the weekend gaining approximately 320 yards to move into fourth, while Aplanalp, who was four yards behind Graves last week gained 157 yards.

Cadet Harriers Lose to Cowboys

The Aggie Cross-Country team didn't fare as well against the Oklahoma Aggies as did the football team. Last Saturday, the Oklahoma team beat the Aggies 32-20.

Oklahoma placed 1-2-3 in the race, with Berton Westmorlen of the Aggies finishing fourth, and James Blain fifth.

Last Monday at Norman, Oklahoma University took the Aggies 20-16.

The team consisting of James Blain, Charles Hudgins, Dale De Rouen, Charles Gabriel, and Berton Westmorlen, still has a good chance of winning the conference title, according to James Blain.

Blain said although the squad lost decisively to Oklahoma A&M, it was mostly due to the running of Fred Eckoff of the Oklahoma. Squad, and not because the Aggies had an inferior team.

Blain said Arkansas and Texas are the teams that will give the Aggies the closest race in the conference, but the Aggies should win if they get in shape.

The next race for the Aggies will be in a warm-up meet with Arkansas Friday before the Porker-Aggie football game. This should give a good idea of the strength of the Aggies in comparison to other conference teams.

Langford Believes 'We Can Take 'Em'

"I think we can take 'em (TCU)," senior defensive tackle Alvin Langford answered today, when asked about Saturday's game with the Horned Frogs.

Langford, a 213 pounder, plays left defensive tackle and is a fast charging and hard-hitting lineman for the Aggies.

"They (TCU) will probably be up for us," Langford added, "but we will be up for them too."

"We haven't lost our spirit or hustle and I believe we can win," said Langford.

Langford hails from Fort Worth, where he played high school ball for Polytechnic. One of the fastest linemen on the Cadet squad, Langford commented that the Michigan State eleven was "the best team I've ever played against."

"They couldn't do anything wrong and were really ready for us," Langford added.

"I don't think TCU will be anything like they (Michigan State) were," decided Langford. "Of course you never can tell."

Last season, Langford lettered as a defensive guard. He has won two varsity letters besides a freshman numeral.

Langford is one of the steadier ball players on the Aggie squad and helps the inexperienced sophomore lineman gain polish in line-play.

Langford is married and is majoring in physical education.
