

Barkley Says US Kept Word in Korea

TYLER, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The United States was "keeping its word with mankind" when it went to the aid of South Korea, Vice President Alben Barkley told a cheering crowd on the Smith County Courthouse Square today.

He drew another round of cheers when he answered a heckler by saying the action in Korea was "The only honorable thing to do."

Barkley bolstered Democratic efforts to keep Texas in line for Adlai Stevenson in a three-stop whirlwind campaign swing from North to East to South Central Texas.

He told voters the Democrats have put jingling cash in their jeans and money in their bank accounts and they have nothing to gain by going over to the Republicans.

The Democratic high command, battling to win Texas' doubtful 24 electoral votes, spotted Barkley into areas where it felt special need of strengthening party lines. He started his tour at Dallas, flew here, then headed for Austin and a night rally.

Challenge Shivers

There, at the state capitol, he carried his challenge to the front doorsteps of Gov. Shivers and Atty. Gen. Price Daniel, who are leading a state Democratic Party revolt against Stevenson and the national party.

Robert Boulton, chairman of the Tyler rally, estimated the crowd there at 5,000.

Barkley sprinkled wisecracks and good-humor responses to hecklers into his Tyler speech.

"How about the tidelands?" somebody yelled.

"Allright, how about the tidelands?" Barkley replied. "Do you own any?"

"Not any more," the heckler came back.

Then Barkley asked the crowd to compare "a little salt water" with the money in their pockets and in their bank accounts, with the increase in home ownership, with "more stable finances." He said these factors outweighed the tidelands, bearing down on the Democratic "progress and prosperity" theme.

"What About Korea"

Barkley's remarks about the United Nations followed a question: "What about Korea?" from the crowd.

Pro-Stevenson leaders were pleased with the turn-out here, in an area from which Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's backers hope to draw considerable strength.

At Austin, where an estimated 200 people welcomed him at the airport and another 200 cheered him at a brief hotel reception, Barkley said he was making "a regular Democratic speech."

"I'm citing gains Texas and the nation have made, comparing them with what we inherited 20 years ago when we came in following the Republican disaster," Barkley said in a rapid-fire sketch of Democratic arguing points.

Governor Shivers to Speak At Senior Ring Banquet

Shivers Speaks Here Friday Noon

Gov. Allan Shivers will bring his Texas revolt against Trumanism to College Station and Bryan Friday when he makes two speeches here, one to be broadcast over the state.

Continuing his tour of the state as an active supporter of Republican nominee Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Shivers is being sponsored here by the local Democrats for Eisenhower Club.

Radio Network

The Governor will speak in Bryan at 12:15 over a network of Texas radio stations. Following his talk at the corner of Main and 26th streets in Bryan, Shivers will drive to College Station and plans to stop at the North Gate for a talk here at 1:45 p. m. Immediately following his talk in College Station the governor will take off from Easterwood Airport.

Station KORA in Bryan will carry the noon broadcast by Shivers. Local Democrats for Eisenhower officials said today there will be no demonstration or refreshments at the Bryan rally. "The governor sent word he doesn't wish to be wined and dined, he just wants to tell the people how he stands."

Students will be given an opportunity to hear the governor during his talk in College Station, although the talk here will not be the principal address of the two given in this area.

Shivers is a registered Democrat and in previous presidential elections supported both Roosevelt and Truman, but has fallen out with the present administration principally because of the FEPC and tidelands issues.

The governor attacked Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic administration Wednesday in a speech at Cleveland. The Associated Press reports Shivers as accusing Stevenson of not making sense, and it said he predicts "several hundred thousand Texans" will vote for Dwight Eisenhower for president.

Commenting on Shivers' plan to speak here and his stand on various issues, the local Eisenhower backers sounded their views toward developing political issues.

"Way Things Run"

W. D. Fitch, Republican chairman for Brazos County, said, "The governor has come out for Eisenhower, probably not only because of the tidelands, but because of the way things are being run. Action by the government is usually by constitutional rights and precedent."

"The present administration seems to think anything they do is right. I don't know Gov. Shivers' future plans but I wouldn't be surprised if he runs on a Republican ticket in the next election."

Benefit Football Game Planned To Replenish Student Aid Fund

By ED HOLDER

Plans for a football game between the Air and Ground forces will be brought before the senior class tonight at its meeting in the MSC.

The purpose of the game, if approved by the seniors, will be to raise money for the replenishment of the Student Aid Fund.

Recommendations for the game were drawn up in a recent meeting of a committee appointed by the Student Life Committee "to study the possibilities of holding a fund-raising event."

This committee, composed of students and a representative from both the faculty and the military department, decided that the best method of making the money would be to have a football game just after the Thanksgiving Holidays between the Army and Air Force groups.

Bill Munnerlyn, chairman of the

Glasgow, Students Check Water Fowl

L. L. Glasgow, graduate assistant and four students from the Wildlife department will make a three day field trip to Louisiana Nov. 7.

The students will work with the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, making bag checks on all waterfowl hunters in the area. The purpose of the trip is to determine what the hunting regulations will be in future years.

Each hunter is asked what hunting success he had, the kinds of birds killed, the adult-young ratio, and how many birds were crippled. This information is later passed on to the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service for future use.

committee, will present the proposal to the seniors tonight. If they approve, details will be worked out as to time and date of the game.

The need for a replacement drive is great if the aid fund is to keep operating.

Originally organized as a student loan fund, the money for it was first collected in 1940 when the student body took up a collection to help a classmate who needed a delicate operation but couldn't afford it.

Football Game Used

Students pay the money back on their loans as they see fit, and as they are able to. The payments are often made after the student graduates and starts to work.

Bones Irvin, Director of the Athletic Department offered to furnish Kyle Field, the referees, the uniforms for the teams and if a night game was decided upon, to furnish the lights without charge.

Another suggestion was made

State Duck Season Opens October 31

Texas Duck Season has been set by the Fish and Wildlife Service to open at noon, Friday Oct. 31, and extend through Dec. 29.

Regulations allow each hunter a daily bag limit of five ducks, five geese, and ten coots. The possession limits are ten ducks, five geese, and ten coots. Neither bag nor possession limits may contain more than one wood duck.

Shooting hours begin a half hour before sunrise and end one hour before sunset except for the first day when shooting is not authorized until noon.

that the teams were to be picked from the individual outfits.

Each unit on the campus will be able to send one or two men to tryouts, and after two weeks of working out, the final squad will be chosen for the game by the two student coaches.

Price of admission has not been decided upon, and neither has the date. But the game will probably be played about two weeks after the Thanksgiving Holidays.

Corps To Assemble At 6:48 for Review

The corps of cadets will move out at 6:48 p. m. Saturday night to march into Kyle Field for the A&M-Arkansas game.

First call will be at 6:40, while assembly will be blown at 6:43 p. m. The uniform for the review will be Class A with blouses.

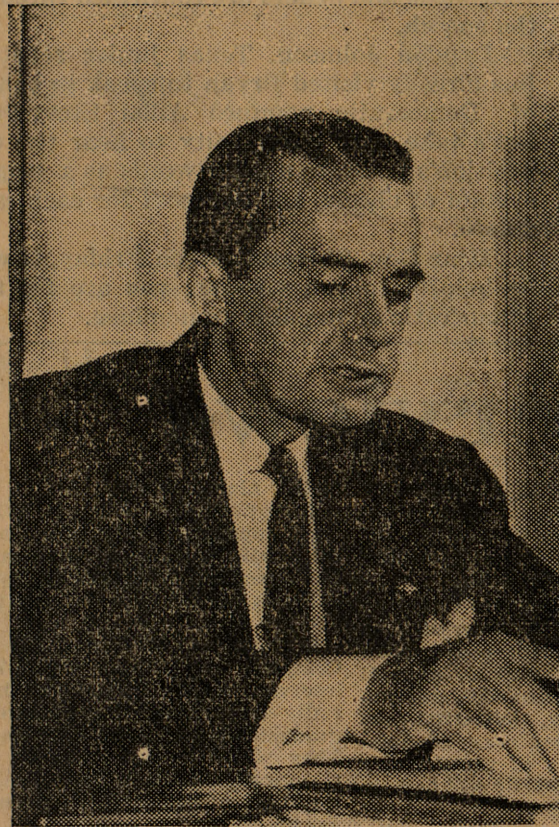

Company grade juniors, sophomores, and freshmen will wear khaki ties, while staff juniors and all seniors will wear green ties.

The first and second divisions will form in the new dorm area with the staffs at the head of their respective units. The band will form between the Music Hall and Dorm 4, while the third division will assemble on the west side of Guion Hall.

Divisions will march in a single column, in column of companies with an eight man front. Each

Governor Allan Shivers

Accepts Invitation Of Senior President

Governor Allan Shivers of Texas will be principal speaker at the annual Senior Ring Banquet May 16, announced Bubba Blank, senior class social secretary and Joe Mattei, senior class president.

The distinguished state leader accepted the invitation of the Class of '53 president to speak here at the final social function for the senior class, which precedes the Senior Ring Dance.

Writing to Mattei, Gov. Shivers said, "Dear Joe: I am glad to learn that it will be possible for me to accept your invitation to address the Senior Ring Banquet May 16, 1953. Please send me, at your convenience, details of the affair. Best wishes. Sincerely, Allan Shivers."

Blank said no definite details for the banquet and dance have been worked out this far in advance. He mentioned the banquet will probably be held in Duncan Hall and the dance in The Grove, as has been the practice in recent years.

Suggestions for an orchestra for the dance include two big name bands. Blank said he is only nibbling with their agents, however because they tentatively plan tours through Texas in May. The bands are those of Tommy Dorsey and Ray Anthony.

The original invitation to Gov. Shivers was issued by Mattei at a banquet in Beaumont when the governor spoke at a testimonial dinner for A&M's Olympic winner Buddy Davis. The senior class president personally invited Shivers to speak after the banquet. The governor jokingly said, "I'll come down there if you will make me an honorary Aggie or honorary member of your class."

Gov. Shivers is a graduate of the University of Texas.

Honorary Aggie

Mattei promises that plans are now underway for the formal announcement and presentation of Shivers as an honorary member of the Class of '53.

While on the campus Gov. Shivers will stay in the MSC.

Further arrangements are being made for the Senior Ring Dance weekend by Social Secretary Blank, but as yet these arrangements are unannounced.

Blank Optimistic

Blank was very optimistic about the success of the Senior Ring Banquet and Dance, even at this early date.

Commenting on the governor's acceptance, Mattei said, "I think we are very fortunate in having Gov. Shivers to speak at our banquet. It shows that members of the class are planning far enough ahead to insure seniors of having the best ring dance and banquet ever held."

Rue Pinalle Will Have Local Dancer on Show

Dixon will impersonate Jerry Lewis, Johnnie Ray, Fred Martin, and Peter Lorre.

"Bamba", "Perfidia", and "La Burrita" will be played and sung by the Latin American trio. Malcolm Stephan, Jerry Lindner, and Severin Schaeffer compose this trio and they come from Mexico City.

Advance ticket sale is in the MSC Bowling Alley. Price of tickets is 60 cents a person.

Music for the dance will be recorded.

College's Success Needs Teamwork

By FRANK N. MANITZAS Battalion Co-Editor

HOUSTON, Oct. 30.—A student should be considered as the whole and not as a student in a given course with a given number, said Dr. D. B. Calvin, dean of the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston, yesterday.

Calvin was explaining his views on "The Development and In-Service Training of Student Personnel Administration," a topic of discussion at the annual convention of the Texas Association of Student Personnel Administrators (TASPA). The convention was held on the University of Houston campus Wednesday and Thursday. About 70 persons attended.

"The working together of students, faculty and administrators as a team will produce the ultimate goal of each group; the best college or university in the world," said Willis M. Tate, vice president of Southern Methodist University.

Attending the meeting from A&M were W. L. Penberthy, dean of men; G. C. (Spike) White, director of Student Activities; Robert Murray, civilian dormitory counselor; Maj. Charles Taylor, military dormitory counselor; Roland Bing, manager of Student Publications; Harri Baker, executive secretary of the SWC Sportsmanship committee; Frank Manitzas, co-editor, The Battalion.

Baker Explains Committee

Baker explained the history and objectives of the SWC Sportsmanship Committee and its accomplishments. He was accompanied on the discussion by T. F. Arner and Don Tomasco, head cheerleader of Rice Institute and the University of Houston, respectively.

Explaining some reasons for poor sportsmanship, Robert H. Shelton, dean of men at Stephen F. Austin State College, declared neederers were one of the main causes of poor sportsmanship. He also said rivalries, student vandalism, recruiting of players were prime factors against sportsmanship.

"The worst sportsmanship I've ever seen," Shelton said, "was at the University of Texas' basketball games. It is brought about easily by the some 10,000 students who attend the games with the many hoodlums in the crowd who boo the players and officials."

Bad At A&M, Too

Shelton explained that although he had not been at A&M, he heard it was bad there also.

"The return to amateur sports would be a big factor in promoting sportsmanship," Shelton said. "Doing away with special privileges for athletes, such as individual dormitories, would help in bringing the athletes back into the student life and help sportsmanship."

Shelton named the cheerleaders, athletes, and other student organizations as the key to work together to promote good sportsmanship between schools.

Among the other problems discussed by the school administrators were "The Religious Implications of Counseling," "Bringing Academic Faculty and Personnel Officers to a better Relationship," "What Do We Mean by Student Government?"

After-Game Dance Set for Ballroom

A dance will be held after the game Saturday night.

The Aggieband orchestra will play for the dance in the MSC Ballroom following the game. Tickets are 75 cents per couple and may be bought in the MSC directorate offices Friday and Saturday.

Refreshments will be sold at the dance, Betty Bolander, MSC program consultant, said.

Collection of Tickets

First sergeants and Sgt. Majors will collect the student tickets before the game and place them in an envelope bearing the name of the unit or staff and the number of tickets.

Each envelope will contain a certificate signed by the unit or staff commander, stating that there is a ticket for each individual entering with the unit.
