 but the Orange and Blue of Illinois, mad over last weeks' stomp by Purdue will take to the air lanes and roll over the Wolverines, 40 to 7.
 Michigan State will continue its gridiron victory streak with a win over Purdue's Boilermakers. The Old Gold and Black of Purdue will be the strongest competition to face the mighty Spartans so far this season, but it won't be strong enough with the Spartans winning by a 27 to 7 margin.

Number two ranked Maryland takes on the Boston University Terriers, but won't have much trouble. The Terrapins have too much of everything and will win 25 to 7.
IN THE BAG (SEEMINGLY)
 Oklahoma over Iowa State
 Kansas over Kansas State
 Florida over Auburn
 San Jose State over Stanford
 In the South the big attraction will be the Georgia Tech-Duke battle which pits two of the top ten teams in the nation with the Yellow Jackets ranked fifth and the Blue Devils in the sixth position.

 It will be a close game and the Duke Blue and White holds the edge in the series, but Georgia Tech looks like the winner, 13 to 6.
 Tennessee plays the lowly North Carolina Tarheels and won't have any trouble, the Volunteers being one of the top teams in the south. When the smoke has cleared the score board will read, Tennessee 12, North Carolina 6.
 Pennsylvania meets its state rival, the Nittany Lions from Pennsylvania State in a game which is a toss-up, as far as we are concerned. The Quakers have the home field advantage and we give them the edge in a close one, 6 to 0.

 Virginia's Cavaliers met with defeat at the hands of the Blue Devils of Duke last Saturday, but will start a win streak over the South Carolina Gamecocks, 27 to 13.

 Princeton's Tigers will take Browns' Bruins by 20 to 6.
