

Bigger, Better Kiwanis Kapers Planned Nov 11

"This year's Kiwanis Kapers will be bigger and better than ever before," said Joe S. Mogford, general chairman of the show.

The annual variety show, put on by the College Station Kiwanis Club, will be presented November 11 at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of A&M Consolidated High School.

Proceeds will be used to conduct the club's Annual Crippled Children's Clinic in Brazos and 11 other nearby counties. Surplus funds are devoted to youth activities in the College Station community.

Mogford said Joe Sorrels and Dan Davis are developing an act portraying a modern version of "Little Cinderella," and Otis Miller, Dr. D. B. Cofer, and Dr. Isaac Peters are working out an ultra modern version of "The Three Bears."

"Other members of the club are working in mysterious and deep, dark, secret ways to spring out-of-this-world's acts on the crowd, expected to fill the gymnasium," Mogford added.

Tickets for the show will go on sale in a few days.

Mrs. J. Wheeler Barger, art teacher at Consolidated, announced winners in the Kapers Poster Contest. The 28 posters submitted in the contest will be on display in windows of College Station and Bryan businesses.

Winners are Jerry Mills, first prize of $4; Leigh Price, second prize of $3; Bobby Carter, third prize of $2; and Frank Benavidez, fourth prize of $1. Bobby Potts and Sammy Hicks received honorable mention.

Booing, Fights Mark Shivers Election Talk in Beaumont

Beaumont, Nov. 4—(AP)—A fist fight and an effort to boo down Gov. Allan Shivers, the principal speaker, enlivened an election eve campaign rally of Democrats for Eisenhower last night in Beaumont Municipal Auditorium.

An estimated 25 men in the booing group finally surrendered and retreated before the roof-lifting response to Governor Shivers by the remainder of the 1700 persons in the audience.

Two of the four persons ejected from the auditorium as a result of the fight were arrested and jailed by officers.

Colleagues of the boozers maintained a picket line in front of the auditorium. They carried Stevenson-Sparkman campaign literature and jeered those entering the auditorium with warnings against electing a Republican administration.

The new Texas Engineers Library will be complete in approximately three weeks.

Robert E. Betts, librarian, said he could not determine how long it would take to complete the moving.

The new library has more than 13,000 technical books and more than 10,000 bound and unbound volumes of periodicals.

The first floor of the new Engineers Library Building will contain shelf area for 5,700 volumes, a special map room where the Library's 400 petroleum and geological engineering maps may be displayed for convenient use, a reading room within the large reference room, a cataloging room, conference rooms and office space.

The building's second floor will contain study rooms for persons doing research work, shelf area for 29,000 volumes, and several "oases" with a table and chairs within each section for the convenience of engineers and students using the library.

The basement of the Texas Engineers Library will contain mail and freight sending and receiving rooms.
