

AP Airs Grievance Report Received by Committee

A story concerning the current requests made to the commandant by the grievance committee was carried last night by the Associated Press. The story said only few of the grievances asked by the committee had been granted.

It mentioned Commandant Col. Joe Davis' statement that "Physical inspections will be continued so long as there is evidence of hazing in the corps of cadets."

The abolishment of B Armor and the committee's feeling of its rights being infringed upon were also contained in the story sent to the leased wire subscribers all over the state.

It told of the commandant's disapproval of opening the freshman area and physical exercise as a means of punishment.

Stories also have been printed recently in other state newspapers.

FROM THE CITY DESK

Record Vote For College Station

By HARRI BAKER
Battalion City Editor

Election roundup:

College Station can brag with the rest of the country on the turn out of the voters. The 1,813 ballots marked at the two local polling places was more than 300 above the maximum estimated before the election, setting a new record.

The 1,156 vote box at A & M Consolidated School, the largest in Brazos County, was a decisive factor in swinging the country's total to Eisenhower. After results from that box were reported, there was no doubt as to how the county would go.

College Station capped its last presidential vote by 500. The vote in 1948 was 1,164.

College Station's 30 city employees will be affected by the constitutional amendment passed authorizing the legislature to provide for Workman's Compensation for city employees.

City Pays for Compensation

According to Ran Boswell, city manager, the amendment means the state legislature now has the power to make the city pay for Workman's Compensation.

The people of College Station voted for this amendment, 681 to 323. They also voted 540 to 450 for the other constitutional amendment, providing for establishment of a State Medical Education Fund to make grants, loans, or scholarships to students who want to study medicine.

The speed with which the College Station votes were collected and tabulated is due largely to the efficiency of the election judges and their clerks.

Election judge at the College Hills box was V. J. Boriskie. Assisting him were election clerks Mrs. Ed Parnell and Mrs. W. R. Horsley.

H. E. Burgess was election judge at the A & M Consolidated box. His election clerks were Norman Rhodes, P. L. Downs Jr., Mrs. O. C. Copeland, Mrs. Pauline Holmes, and Mrs. C. B. Godbey.

Jaycettes Add Color

A colorful feature of election day was the eye-catching "I voted; did you?" tags distributed by the Jaycettes of Bryan. These wives of the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce worked in shifts so that one of them was at every polling place in the county as long as the boxes were open.

The unexpected rush of voters caused the A & M Consolidated box to run out of ballots about 6:15 the night of the election. The County Court House rushed out 250 extra ballots.

The College Hills box had only about 10 ballots left when the polls closed.

City to Consider Recreation Request

Getting down to the local government level, the City Council will vote Monday on the Recreation Council's request to be placed on a tax supported basis.

Since the passage of such an ordinance requires only a majority vote of the

Kiwanis Toy Drive Planned

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a Christmas toy drive for the underprivileged children of this area.

Graduation Cards Go On Sale Today

Graduation announcements may be ordered at the office of student activities beginning today, and all orders must be in by Dec. 9, announced Mrs. Polly Patranello, receptionist at student activities.

Correction on the prices that appeared in the Battalion yesterday of the three types of announcements are as follows: the French folder type, two for 25 cents; the cardboard type, 45 cents each; and the leather type, 95 cents each.

It's not too late to subscribe to the Community Chest. Whatever your favorite charity is, it will benefit from the Community Chest.

If you haven't given yet, or if you want to give more, contact your local solicitor or call Bennie Zinn, chairman of the Chest campaign.

Zinn has figured that if everyone in College Station gives a day's pay, the Chest will go over its goal of $11,000.

Blind Bogey Bowl In MSC

The Blind Bogey Bowling Tournament for November is under way at the MSC Bowling Alley.

The winners of this month's contest will be announced on Tuesday night, Nov. 24. The prizes will be a ready-cooked Thanksgiving turkey for the winning couple and two turkey dinners in the student contest.

Any couple (boy and girl) or student is eligible to enter the contest. Each couple will be required to bowl a series of three games and place their total score on record. At the end of the tournament a winning series score will be drawn from a box with numbers ranging from 600-1200. The couple with the closest score to the series number drawn will be the winner.

In the student contest there will be a "series winner" drawn from a box with numbers ranging from 300-600 and a "singles winner" with numbers ranging from 60-275.

Bowling skill is not necessary to win the contest and everyone is urged to enter. Contestants may register at the bowling alley desk any time before Nov. 24.

LATEST STYLES—Mrs. Bill Turner, left, and Mrs. C. L. Jones are showing the latest fashions from Miller's in the lobby and dining room of the MSC. The show is presented every Friday from 12:30 - 1:15 p.m. Mrs. Turner is wearing a gray sheer wool dress with three-quarter length sleeves. The flap pockets repeating the row of buttons form the front vertical line. The dress is accented with a changable satin scarf. Mrs. Jones' copper and brown nobby file dress has a full gored skirt with buttons in front and a stand-up collar. The bow at the neck is brown velvet.
