

Seniors Discuss Hazing

offered by the grievance committee, which is vested with the faith of all classes.

Amendments to Motion

"Amendment 1: Delete the words—'appointed by the president of the senior class' and substitute the words, 'chosen at a senior class meeting.'

"Amendment 2: Delete the words—'especially hazing'—and substitute the words, 'especially the problem of the use of the board by cadets.'

The seniors argued whether they should hold the board over the head of college authorities as a bargaining power. Some agreed it was no bargaining power since it is against the law. Others claimed the board is an effective means of dealing with the situation, especially because it is still used in some companies on the campus, regardless of existing laws and regulations.

Joe Wallace, first division commander and chairman of the grievance committee, said he believes many cadet officers don't have the guts to run their units in the proper manner.

"The fault of our present situation in the Corps of Cadets rests with the seniors," said Wallace, "too many of them have been sitting around complaining, but doing nothing.

"I believe if you put to use everything available you can have a good company. The majority of company commanders and seniors are too lazy to do anything about the way underclassmen are handled. We say the freshmen are poor, we complain, but in the meantime do nothing about it.

"Let's be men. If a sophomore, junior, or freshman does something wrong show enough guts to give him extra duty, put him before senior court, or do something instead of letting him commit that wrong again."

The meeting was opened with a report from Wallace on the progress of the grievance committee. He said his group plans to take their demands to President M. T. Harrington Tuesday.

Bing Turner, class of 1946, from Beaumont, advised the seniors to forget all these little things they want and pick out one demand and stand behind it to the hilt. He suggested the seniors first do away with the board and then go to college officials with this one point which they would ask.

"I believe you are trying to gain more respect for the senior class," said Turner. "To do this you would go a long way by standing up together as a class and asking for one thing—the most important you can find."

A motion was presented by Bob Travis concerning publicity of student problems to gain state-wide support. The motion asked that a committee draw up the aims of the present campaign and then get them aired through newspapers, radio, and television.

The motion died for lack of second.

Beneath Full Moon

Bird Migration Count Underway By Students

If on the night of the next full moon you see several people on the drill field behind Duncan Hall peering through a telescope at the moon do not be alarmed. Most probably the people are wildlife management students who are counting birds that fly across the face of the moon.

A nation-wide program has been undertaken this fall to study the nocturnal migration of birds.

The data collected at College Station by the wildlife management students, under the supervision of Prof. K. L. Dixon, will in turn be sent to R. J. Newman of the Museum of Zoology, Louisiana State University, for evaluation. He is directing the program.

Newman has several hundred cooperators throughout the United States and parts of Canada and Mexico who have been recording the number of birds that pass over the face of the moon at their particular station.

The system of collecting data is simple, Dixon said. One person watches through the telescope, while another records. The time each object passes the moon, the direction in and out. The direction is expressed as if the moon were the face of a clock, such as in at 12 o'clock and out at 6.

Relative speed and relative size, as compared to a large crater on the moon also are recorded. Revelant weather data, such as temperature and wind movement, is recorded hourly.

From this mass of data, sent in from all parts of the nation, Newman will attempt to reveal more about the mystery of bird migration, Dixon said.

Hooper, Jerry Crossman, and Walter (Harrow) Hill are three others who Coach George will mourn because of graduation. All three are ends, and with the exception of Hooper each played almost the entire time in all the games.

Walter Hill is chiefly a defensive end, and Hooper was out of most of the play for the past two games due to an injury.

Hooper is one of the men who will be honored at halftime. He took second place in the shot put in Helsinki, Finland, last summer.

meter (mile) relay in the 1948 games at London.

Down the Aggie line up for the game will be Leo Marquette at center, Ray Barrett at left guard, and Sidney Theriot at right guard.

Tackles will be Dixon on the left side and Durwood Scott on the right. Crossman and Hooper will alternate with Eric Miller at the end posts.

If Ellis doesn't run quarterback, he will be at left halfback. Either Haas or Charlie Hill will run at the other halfback spot, while Connie Maguirk and Don Kashtik will alternate at the fullback position.

All-America Little will run at the defensive tackle slot, with Langford. Rush and Marvin Tate will be in the guard holes. Hill and Howard Zuch will take over the defensive end positions, with Johnny Salyer and Bob McCarley playing linebackers.

Joe Boring, leading SWC pass interceptor, and Joe Shero will run at the defensive halfbacks. Ellis is likely to see double duty again as he plays safety on the defensive platoon.

Methodists Appoint Fund Committees

The Methodist Wesley Foundation opened their $10,000 fund raising campaign last night with a dinner in the foundation building.

Bill Wiseman, Dumas junior, is chairman of the 1952-53 campaign to raise money for the Methodist youth organization.

Three committees were set up under Wiseman. George Black, Houston senior, is chairman of the solicitation committee for the drive.

Carl Johnson, also a Houston senior, is head of the mechanics committee.

Bill Lay will head the education committee for the fund drive.

and the concepts of equality and freedom of individuals and nations, would not work. Soviet expansion needs the growth of Soviet power, and Soviet power can be safely anchored only in Soviet nationalism, it obviously is felt now in the Kremlin. That is why the rudder was thrown around.

Something still, though wrongly called "internationalism" continues to be the final goal—a single-language world ruled by Moscow. That was indicated by the Young Communist journal Moskovskii Komsomolets which wrote: "The future belongs to the Russian language, the world language of internationalism."
