CC Drive May Be Extended To Increase Funds

Only $7271.15 of the $11,019 Community Chest goal, has been contributed, according to nearly complete reports turned in yesterday to Ben Zinn, chairman of the Chest Committee.

When complete reports are in, total contributions will reach about $8,000, Zinn said.

The Chest committee will meet tomorrow afternoon to decide if the drive will be extended past today.

Several of the committee members have indicated they are in favor of extending the drive, but there probably will be no extension made past Thanksgiving, Zinn said.

This year's drive started fast during the first week, but bogged down and is now almost 4,000 short of its $11,019 goal. After being extended three weeks last year, the 1951 Chest campaign reached its goal of $9,850.

If the goal is not reached and the drive is not extended past this week, plans must be made for cutting appropriations to organizations benefiting from the Chest. However, Zinn is hopeful the entire amount will be made this year and no cut in appropriations will have to be made.

FELLOWSHIP BARBEQUE—Many Aggies attended a post-game barbecue Saturday held by the Aggie Christian Fellowship, the non-denominational church group sponsored by the YMCA.

Rain Causes Faulty Telephone Service

Damage to cables by Monday night's rain made many of College Station's phones inoperative Tuesday in the Woodlands area, on Main Street, and between College Station and Bryan.

"They will be repaired as soon as workmen can find the holes in the cables," said J. R. Bright, central office repairman.

The long dry spell was blamed for so many phones going out at the same time.

"If we had had several rains, these holes would have showed up one at a time," Bright said. "The dry weather cracks the covering of the cable, then the water gets in the cracks and shorts them out."

TU Ducats Go Off Sale Friday

Student and student guest tickets for the A&M-Texas game will go off sale at 5 p.m. Friday. Very few tickets have been sold, said Pat Dial, assistant business manager of athletics.

Tickets will not be available to students after Friday. The remaining tickets will be sold to the public as reserved seat tickets.

'Treasure' Next For Film Group

"The Treasure of Sierra Madre", director John Huston's immortal movie of violence and greed in the mountains of Mexico, will be the feature attraction of the A&M Film Society, Monday night in the MSC Ballroom.

Critics voted it one of Hollywood's "great" films. "Treasure" received academy awards for the best director and supporting actor of the year. "Oscars" went to father and son team, John and Walter Huston. Humphrey Bogart was nominated for the year's top acting honors for his performance in the movie. Tim Holt and Bruce Bennett also star.

Based on a novel by B. Traven, the script was written by director Huston. Huston also penned and directed "The Maltese Falcon", which the Film Society screened earlier this year. His other successes include "African Queen," "Red Badge of Courage," "Key Largo" and "We Were Strangers."

Filmed on location, the story concerns the downfall of three human derelicts hunting for gold in the wilds of Mexico.

College Officials Ponder Newest 'Stink' On Campus

By BILL MOLER
Battalion News Staff

College officials feared a new "stink" was brewing on the campus but took no action since the subject was Tabu.

Tabu is a deodorized pet skunk belonging to Thad Howard, senior veterinary medicine student from San Antonio. Almost two-thirds grown now, she was only six inches long when he first saw her in August.

Name Changed

The lady that sold Tabu to him had named the skunk Stinky, but "I just couldn't see that," Howard said.

She is playful and affectionate, but a one-man skunk according to her owner.

"People have mixed reactions on meeting her for the first time. They either want to run, or they want to come up and pet her without even finding out if she is deodorized or not," Howard said.

At first Tabu was raised at home

Hanna Explains $345 Netted By TB Drive

"Honesty knowledge of your customers, merchandising of your advertising, and retailing experience are the four things imperative to any advertising manager," said Mark Hanna, advertising manager of the Houston Press, to the Business Society last night in the YMCA Chapel.

The main topic of Hanna's speech was "Development of Sales Through Newspapers." A thorough coverage of both local and national newspaper advertising was given by Hanna, and some of his actual experiences were given as examples.

In his lecture, Hanna exposed some of the fallacies of newspaper theory, such as comics are a main means of improving circulation, and radio and television have greatly decreased the importance of newspaper advertising.

Another theory which was exploded at the meeting was a journalism degree is necessary for success in newspaper work. While in school, Hanna's main study was history. "I am just a business man, in the field of newspaper advertising," Hanna concluded.

Lincoln Students Get Hot Lunches

Hot lunches will be served to students at Lincoln School for Negroes, starting Monday.

The lunches will be prepared in the A&M Consolidated School kitchen and taken to Lincoln in hot lunch containers.

"This plan has been used in many other schools," Les Richardson, superintendent, said. "It's more economical to prepare the food in a central kitchen."

By JERRY BENNETT
Battalion Amusements Editor

The Aggie Players may have injured their future reputation last night with the production of "All My Sons" in the MSC Ballroom.

Only later plays will prove if they can equal the fine example set with their first presentation of the year. Talented acting combined with an outstanding story, forces the campus thespians to insure their future performances don't fall flat in comparison.

All-Faith Chapel Enters First Stage

The new All-Faith Chapel is entering the planning stage with appointment of an all faith committee to work with college officials in determining a site and plans for the building, Dick Hervey, secretary of the Former Students Association, said.

The new Chapel is a project of the 1952 Development Fund program. The council has allocated $35,000 of this year's fund. About $40,000 of the receipts from next year's program will be channeled to the chapel fund, Hervey added.

Anyone who has any ideas as to location of the chapel, style, or anything else about it, should contact Arch Baker, college architect, said Hervey.

C. K. Esten Directs

Under the direction of C. K. Esten of the English department, the play is presented "in the round." The audience sits around the stage instead of facing it. Since the seats are placed closer to the stage, spectators become more intimate with the play's atmosphere.

Esten said audience comments concerning the play were the most favorable he has ever received.

B. B. Smith is stage manager and John Samuels is in charge of publicity.

Tickets for tonight's performance can be purchased from the cast or at the ticket booth by the MSC postoffice. Price is 50 cents.
