

NEWS BRIEFS

AH Profs to Judge; Jensen Speaks on Tour

PERSISTANT RAINS have not hampered the construction of the new Physical Education Building, said J. A. Orr Jr., construction superintendent.

At the present, structural concrete work is the biggest single job in progress, he said. He added that the new P. E. Building will be finished sometime in October.

DR. FRED W. JENSEN, head of the chemistry department, is now on a speaking tour of the southeastern United States.

At the invitation of local sections of the American Chemical Society, he will speak in Sheffield, and Birmingham, Ala.; Pensacola, Fla.; Auburn, Ala.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Kingsport, Tenn.; Maryville, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., on the subject, "High Frequency Methods of Analysis."

Mrs. Jensen is accompanying him on the tour.

THREE MEMBERS of the animal husbandry department will serve as judges in livestock shows March 12 and 13.

J. K. Riggs, in charge of beef cattle for the department, and Albert Y. Blankenship, herdsman for the department, will judge beef breeding cattle at the Northeast Texas Livestock Show in Sulphur Springs Thursday. They also judged on Wednesday.

F. I. Dahlberg, professor of animal husbandry, will judge sale cattle for the Fifth annual sale of

Debate Team Sets Piney Woods Meet

The A&M debating teams will compete in the Piney Woods Debating Tournament in Nacogdoches, March 13 and 14.

The two teams, Kenneth Scott-John Samuels and H. W. Whittey-John Wilson, are coached by Victor Wiening and J. D. Ebbs of the English department.

Competing in the tournament will be teams from TCU, SMU, Baylor, University of Texas, University of Houston and several out of state teams.

Subject for debate is Compulsory Fair Employment Practices legislation. Wiening will accompany the teams.

Marshall Is New Ag Eco Secretary

G. F. Marshall was elected social secretary of the Agricultural Economics Club Tuesday.

Members of the club discussed plans for having a party. Marshall was appointed head of a committee to make necessary arrangements for the party, said Thompson.

A committee made up of J. C. Bryan, Andrew Hudson, and Jimmie Holder, was appointed to select a duchess for the Cotton Ball. This committee will report its selection to the club at the next meeting.

Film Society Shows 'Pygmalion' Tonight

"Pygmalion" will be shown by the A&M Film Society at 7:30 tonight in the MSC Ballroom.

"Open City", an Italian production, will be shown Monday night at the same time and place.

the East Texas Hereford Breeders Association Friday.

Wednesday he judged lambs, swine and steers at the Schulenberg club show.

JOHN B. LONGLEY '43 of 210 Grove St. this month completed his fifth year with the American General Life Insurance Company.

Longley, an instructor in the business administration department, entered the life insurance business here after returning from service.

ANNOUNCEMENTS of the sergeant major has been delayed, said Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant, yesterday.

The Corps of Cadets made their recommendation about two weeks ago.

Candidates for sergeant major have been under discussion for the last two weeks, Davis said. The announcement was to have been made this week, but interviews of candidates has held up the selection.

TWO AGGIE-EXES were mentioned recently in a story in the Stars and Stripes newspaper. Reported to receive a Silver Star is 2nd Lt. Robert L. Middleton '52 of Tomball now participating in the Korean action.

Another Aggie-ex Lt. Kenneth Schaake '52 of Bryant was reported as "ordering his tanks to action, searing the hill with machine gun fire."

CIVILIAN STUDENTS within 120 days of graduation and between the ages of 19 and 27 may interview Monday a member of the Naval Officer Procurement.

Interviews will be held in Room 3D of the MSC. Officer qualification tests will be given. Candidates who successfully complete training will be appointed to the grade of Ensign, USNR.

NEWT HIELSCHER '33 of Bryan will be toastmaster at a smorgasbord dinner 6 p. m. Saturday in the MSC Ballroom at the Class of 1933 reunion. A class business meeting will follow a breakfast at 8 a. m. Sunday.

SENIORS CAN order graduation announcements beginning Monday in the Student Activities Office, second floor of Goodwin Hall. Deadline for orders will be April 15.

Board of Directors Okeys Monument

The Board of Directors, Saturday accepted a monument in memory of students, officers and faculty of A&M who served in the Spanish-American War.

The granite monument donated by the American Memorial Association will be four feet high, eighteen inches thick and six feet long, mounted on a slab ten inches thick, three feet, six inches wide and nine feet long.

The inscription will read "In memory of students, officers and faculty who served in the Spanish American War."

Location for the monument has not definitely been selected, but it will probably be near the west entrance to the campus where the World War I monument now stands.

Aggies to Compete In U of H Rodeo

The Aggie Rodeo Club will send a team of six contestants to enter the University of Houston rodeo March 27-29.

The rodeo, sponsored by Stock and Stolon, University of Houston agricultural club, will be held on the Rocking R Ranch eight miles from Houston.

The events scheduled for March 27 and 28 will be open to intercollegiate entries only. Events scheduled for March 29 will be open to all entries. Area high school entries will compete in special events.

Events will include bull riding, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling and calf roping.

The rodeo will use National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rules.

Guion Will Show Film 'Limelight'

"Limelight" will be shown in Guion Hall when it is released, said J. B. Puddy, manager of Guion.

The movie has been banned in California by the American Legion because the star, Charlie Chaplain, is not an American citizen.

The Campus and Palace theatres have not yet placed bids on the film.

No groups have filed any complaints against showing the picture, said Puddy.

Flight Applications Canceled by Army

Applications are no longer being accepted for army aviation training, said Col. Shelly P. Myers, PMS&T.

The army program includes training as observation pilots and helicopter training.

An army cadet may apply for training after he goes on active duty in the army.

This change does not affect transfer of Army ROTC students to the Air ROTC flight program. Besides the five army cadets announced earlier this semester, about 15 more have applied for transfer.

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS Mentality of All-Male College Enthusiasts Questioned

Editors: The Battalion: To whom it may concern:

We are glad that you noticed our letter. We are also glad that you read it carefully enough to note the obvious fallacies in our statements concerning the "majority-minority" relationship as to the opinion of the student body. We are not surprised by your comebacks regarding these statements. We anticipated them when the letter was being written. Therefore, we can offer little in the way of argument here. We realize the fallacy of anyone stating, or even implying, that "any one not agreeing with us is prejudiced". Such a statement in itself is biased. However, these gross exaggerations are no worse than those used in some of the letters appearing in yesterday's Battalion. You, like us, were merely attempting to stress a point in an effort to get your basic ideas across.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are directed toward some goal in our college career. Our goal here is the successful completion in the curriculum of our choice, from the college of our choice, with a degree from this college as our reward.

Most of us came here of our own free will, without the need of a formal invitation. Since we did not need any one to make up our minds, and since we apparently did adjust ourselves to the situations of college life, we feel that, somehow, we will continue to make our own decisions, to think as we please, and to say what we please; provided that we do not abuse this democratic heritage. We feel that any student who is not satisfied with his collegiate environment can either: 1) adjust himself to his environment, or; 2) adjust his environment, or; 3) effect some compromises between himself and his environment. If none of these are satisfactory, he should carefully examine the situation and try again elsewhere. We do not believe that any of us would still be here if we had not wanted to stay. Any student who feels that he has the authority to choose who can or cannot attend this college, is opening himself to ridicule. He too can leave if he is not satisfied with the type of students attending A&M. He can join a fraternity where membership is exclusive. In this way he will be able to "black ball" any one whom he does not feel will enhance the standards of his fraternity. Fortunately, A&M is not EXCLUSIVE to a chosen few.

We feel that we have the same right to attend this college as any

other aspirant who has met all of the entrance requirements and who is morally and mentally sound. If our opinions do not coincide with yours, this does not mean that we are not "AGGIE", no more than your rejection of our ideas means that you are communists! We still feel that as individuals, we should think individually. We don't need any one to do our thinking for us.

One letter asks: "What are guys of your caliber doing at an all-male college?" We wonder what "caliber" the author fancies himself as possessing? We are reminded of the old axiom which states: "Judge not, lest ye yourself be judged." We invite the author of this letter to expound upon and enlighten the readers of his "caliber". Perhaps we can better calibrate ourselves by his example.

Why did we come to this college instead of enrolling in another having co-educational facilities? We might ask the same question of you. There are doubtless many reasons for each student attending this college, or any other, for that matter. First, we must consider the student's motive. Our motives are