

Evaluators Praise CHS As 'One of the Best'

By HARRI BAKER
Battalion City Editor

A&M Consolidated Elementary School was congratulated by a team of evaluators for being "an above-average school — one of the best."

Making their report at a public meeting yesterday, the eight members of the evaluating committee praised every facet of the school's operation and made a few recommendations for improvement.

"This is an unusually good school," said Mrs. Teresa Carrell, consultant from the Texas Education Agency and chairman of the evaluation committee.

The committee has been studying the school for three days. It was divided into sub-committees to cover all the aspects of the first through fifth grades.

"The recommendations of the committee will be studied and acted upon," said Superintendent L. S. Richardson. "We want this committee to come back in about five years to see how we've done."

Heads of each of the sub-committees gave their reports at the meeting yesterday, which was attended by about 50 people.

Reporting on the children and the teachers of the school, Dr. G. P. Parker of A&M's education department said, "Consolidated's students are above average, with a good morale and a happy outlook."

Parker commended the school for supplying first aid equipment, having physical exams, building a new elementary school and cafeteria, allowing the community to use the school facilities, having a faculty with all college degrees, and fostering good relationships between the school and the community.

He recommended that the school site be increased to at least 23 acres, because "the school population has outgrown the site."

"Good use has been made of available space under the existing conditions, but more space is needed," said Jim Moorman, Hempstead school superintendent. Moorman reported on the school campus, plant, equipment, and supplies.

He said the equipment was ample and its use was "excellent." He said the visual and audio aids were above average.

Moorman, who used to live in College Station, said, "I've never seen such a change for the better as the one here during the last four or five years."

Dr. Robert Jacobs of the A&M Basic Division spoke favorably of the relations between the school, home, and community.

He commended the Mothers and Dads Club, the formation of a citizens committee, the community activity of teachers, the utilization of outside professional help, cooperation with city officials, support of Cub Scouts, and emphasis on safety programs.

The only weak points cited by Jacobs were the lack of planned teacher visits by parents, and the lack of school publicity.

Paul Manning, Navasota elementary principal, recommended that the principals be relieved of their teaching duties, in order to be able to spend more time on administration.

"The administration has done a good job," he said, "but they need more time."

The school curriculum and school life was discussed by the remaining members of the committee. They were Dr. Alma Freeland, University of Texas education department; Miss Dorothy Jean Green, fifth grade teacher, Cassis School, Austin; and Miss Bess Johnson, first grade teacher, Navasota.

BACKWARD GLANCES

One Year Ago Today
Thomas E. McAfee, assistant professor of agronomy, was chosen as the outstanding professor in the School of Agriculture for the 1951-52 school year.

Five Years Ago Today
Cadets and veterans alike were speculating on the effect of UMT and the new selective service draft. President Gibb Gilchrist said that this could not be determined until the bill had been drafted.

Ten Years Ago Today
A full dress review will be held by the Cadet Corps, the Army Air Corps, the Naval Training sailors and the Marines. The review is to commemorate the activation of most of the seniors and juniors.

Fifteen Years Ago Today
"For the first time in over a decade," the Junior A&M Judging Team won first place in the annual Southwestern Fat Stock at Fort Worth.

SPEAKS FRIDAY — Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, president of Bowling Green State University, will speak on education at 4:45 p.m. Friday in the Biological Sciences Lecture Room.

Wallingford Now First Regiment CO

Ralph E. Wallingford has been appointed to replace Lyle A. Wolfskill as commanding officer of the 1st Regiment, 1st Division.

Wolfskill was reduced in rank for throwing bread in the dining hall. Wallingford was formerly executive officer of the regiment.

A committee composed of the commandant of the cadets, PAS&T, corps commander, the 1st Division commander, and a recommendation by Wolfskill picked Wallingford for the position.

As yet no one has been picked to replace Wallingford, said Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins, assistant commandant.

Little Southwestern Livestock Show Planned Saturday in AH Pavilion

Preparations for the annual Little Southwestern Livestock Show and Ham Sale to be held in the AH Pavilion Saturday are underway, said R. O. Rutledge, president of the Saddle & Siroin Club.

Judging will be for showmanship in showing cattle, sheep, swine, and horses. Awards of each class will be presented with engraved canes, Rutledge said. A grand champion showman will be picked Saturday night and will be awarded a trophy.

Judges for the different classes are Wallace Kimbrough, county agent of Brazos county, swine; J. M. Jones, sheep specialist of the

Division Sergeant Post Still Vacant

No recommendations have been made to fill the vacancy of First Division Sergeant-Major, said Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins, assistant commandant.

The vacancy occurred when Cadet Master Sergeant Fred H. Mitchell was appointed sergeant-major of the corps.

First Division Commander Joe Wallace will make the recommendation.

Bruce Sterzing, junior from Austin, is acting First Division Sergeant Major.
