

Cadets Bring A&M Closer to Citizens

By JON KINSLOW
Battalion News Staff

The organization that brings A&M closer to the people of Texas than any other student group—that's the name given the Singing Cadets by Bill Turner, their director.

We call ourselves this because we stay in people's homes while we are on tour around the state, he said.

The last tour of the glee club was March 12-15, to Brownwood, Amarillo, Sherman and Denison. Other tours planned this semester are to Tyler, Houston and TSCW. The annual campus concert will be Sunday in the MSC.

Turner, who received his BA and MA degrees from NTSC, has been music director at A&M since 1944. Besides the Singing Cadets, he directs the Aggeland Orchestra.

Serve Dual Purpose

He says the Singing Cadets serve a dual purpose by furnishing a recreational outlet for the students and by being the performing group for many campus functions. The main requirement for membership in the glee club is a willingness to rehearse from 5 to 6 p. m., five days a week, Turner said.

"A person doesn't have to read music, but he must have an ear for it," he added. "The membership is formed at the beginning of each semester."

The group has one 'coed' among its members. She is Miss Betty Bolander, accompanist.

'Bach To Boogie'

With a program making up a cross-section of choral music, the cadets sing almost anything from 'Bach to boogie'. Members to be presented Sunday include "Dry Bones," "My Ideal," "Gloria In Excelsis," and "Deep Night."

They also have a quartet, composed of Lamar Ashley, Ben Blankenship, Richard Reynolds and Don Friend. Another special feat-

Williams Elected Agent for Class '18

J. W. Williams of Dallas was elected class agent by the 75 attending members at the class of 1918 reunion Saturday in the MSC.

E. E. Rigney, vice president of the class, presided at the reunion dinner Saturday evening. After the dinner the class members reminisced of their college days.

Awards were given to members of the reunion group for the furthest distance traveled, the largest number of grandchildren, the largest waistline, and the baldest head. Winners of the awards were Coxsey Evans, traveling from Olney, Ill.; E. C. Martin, the most grandchildren; Dr. W. W. Maxwell, the largest waistline; and Hardy Benson, the baldest head.

The reunion group attended the intrasquad baseball game Saturday afternoon. Sunday morning the group attended a coffee given by the local A&M Club.

A. L. Smith of the extension service was in charge of the local arrangements for the class reunion.
