

A&M Movie Moves Ahead Of Schedule

Production of "We Are The Aggies," a narrative documentary film on A&M's activities, is running ahead of schedule.

The film is a color-sound story of student opportunities at A&M. It is being written and produced by H. L. Kidd, of the English department, and photographed by Howard Berry, head of Photographic and Visual Aids. The Student Life Committee is sponsoring the project.

Funds for the movie have come from Mothers' Club donations of $1500 and Exchange Store profits of $2750.

The film will be shown to graduating high school seniors, mothers' clubs and luncheon clubs all over the state," said Spike White, chairman of the Student Life Committee.

CHURCH OF CHRIST—Complete with a new front, remodeled interior, and more seating space, the A&M Church of Christ reopened for services Sunday. Repairs to the building were necessary because of over crowding and a sinking foundation. Services were held in the YMCA chapel during the remodeling.

to provide shelter and other comforts for the injured and homeless.

Both of Waco's radio stations were on the air continuously yesterday with messages from the Red Cross and also for persons in Waco to call or contact worried relatives in other areas of Texas and the nation.

Airmen from James Connally AFB were working as policemen and on the body recovery crews all day yesterday. The base itself had only a skeleton crew to keep it in operation.

Floods, which nearly covered the road in three places along Highway 6 between Bremond and Waco, also played the Central Texas area.

Big Creek was a mile wide just outside Waco, the Little Brazos was over its banks and slightly onto the road just west of Bremond and Tehuacana Creek nearly covered the T&NO railroad tracks west of Marlin.

National guardsmen with fixed bayonets patrolled the ruined downtown area to discourage looters.

Giant floodlights illuminated the area around the collapsed Demis Building and the Joy Theatre so operations could continue through the night.

Pan-Am Forum Gives Scholarship

A scholarship for a needy student who has satisfactorily completed two years of college is being offered by the Pan American Student Forum of Texas.

Amount of the scholarship is $50 to $300, according to the needs of the recipient.

The Forum is an organization of high school and college students interested in better relations with Latin American countries.

same rule. Combining the original 24 demerits, this would give McCuiston a total of 56.

McCuiston believes since he has signed in for 10 of the 16 hours, they should not be held against him. This would give him a total of 36 demerits which are not enough to require Senior Court action.

The Court believes although a cadet has signed for hours they are still on his record and should be added to his demerit limit. It feels if this is not done a cadet will have no incentive to obey corps rules if he can completely eliminate hours by signing in on weekends.

McCuiston says four of the original 24 demerits should not be held against him. He explained he received the demerits by mistake.

"I was not told I was to go before Senior Court until noon yesterday," McCuiston said. He explained one of the Commandant's

'A&M Journalist' Published in June

The first issue of the Texas A&M Journalist, a new magazine sponsored by the journalism department, will be out in June.

The magazine will contain stories on the activities of the journalism department, and A&M graduates in the journalism field.

The Journalist is scheduled for publication three times a year. It will be sent to people in the newspaper field all over Texas and the Southwest.

Holloway Martin, senior journalism major from Groesbeck, will be editor of the first issue. C. C. (Chuck) Neighbors, assistant editor for the first issue, will head next year's staff.
