New Inter-Faith Chapel Needs $300,000—Dunn

About $300,000 will be needed to build the Inter-Faith Chapel here, said J. Harold Dunn '25, of Amarillo, new president of the Former Students Association.

"Almost any amount can be spent on the chapel," he said. "To build one which seats approximately 400 persons will cost about $300,000."

Dunn stressed the need for doing a creditable job and to step up activities to get more money. At the present time, the FSA has $46,817.50 in the Inter-Faith Chapel fund. This amount will rise by the end of the year, said Dunn, chairman of the committee.

"We should wait and build an outstanding edifice for generations to come. It should serve many generations and the purpose it was intended," the new president said Saturday at the annual FSA Spring Council meeting here.

Dunn cautioned the Council that ample time should be taken in planning and building the chapel. "We must study a variety of ideas to get a correct conception

'Doc' Asbury Hurt In Car Accident

Dr. (Doc) Samuel Asbury's condition was reported as "satisfactory" by Bryan Hospital authorities this morning following an accident last night. Asbury was hit by an automobile on Sulphur Springs Road near the Circle Drive-In theatre.

Hospital doctors have taken X-Rays of Asbury to determine if there are any broken bones. The results will not be known until late this afternoon.

Asbury was hit by a 1951 model Pontiac sedan driven by Augie Saxe, an A&M student who lives at H-5-8 College View. Saxe is a former A&M halfback.

Beverly Ware an eye witness, told police she was driving just behind Saxe's car when the accident happened.

"He (Saxe) was driving about 20 miles per hour and all of a sudden I saw this man right in front of his car. He wasn't hit hard, I'm sure," she said.

Saxe said he and his wife and baby were riding around listening to the radio, and before he knew it Dr. Asbury was just in front of the right fender of the car.

"I swerved over as hard as I could trying to miss him but he was too close to the fender," Saxe

82 Enroll for Oil Mill Short Course

Eighty-two persons have enrolled in the twenty-first annual Oil Mill Operators short course which started yesterday in the MSC.

The operators were welcomed by Dr. H. W. Barlow, dean of engineering. The course covers seed and lint cleaning, good housekeeping, safety, screw press and solvent extraction, and a review of laboratory operations.

A banquet for the operators will be given at 7 p. m. Wednesday in the MSC Ballroom. Tickets are $2 per person.

of the type of chapel needed here," he said.

Dunn reported that a chapel holding from 100 to 400 persons was desired most. The larger chapel was wanted so that weddings and organized meetings may be held, said Dunn. The 100 person chapel would be merely for meditation purposes, he said.

"No location has been set definitely by the committee," said Dunn, "but we have three possible locations in mind."

These are:

• Area between Guion Hall and military headquarters building. Dunn said this area would need more shrubbery if used for the chapel.

• Area between Guion Hall and the MSC. He explained that there was not enough room here.

• The location favored by the committee was between Law and Puryear Halls and the President's Home, near the site of the old assembly hall.

The new president stressed that no definite location had been set and that suggestions were wanted.

"The type of chapel is still in doubt," Dunn said. "Architects are working on sketches which the committee has been studying, including sketches of other campus chapels."

With the size of the chapel still undetermined, said Dunn, it is difficult to estimate the cost. This can be done more easily when the plans are drawn, he said.

It's Spring: CS Clean-Up Starts Today

Today is the first day of the annual Spring Clean-Up Drive for College Station.

Today and tomorrow, city trucks will pick up any trash that is put in front of the houses.

City Manager Ran Boswell has asked all residents to put anything they want thrown away in front of their houses, so men from the trucks can get to it easily.

After the drive is over, the city will spray mosquito breeding places to cut down the summer mosquito population.

said "He was up on the highway near the edge."

A Hillier ambulance was called at approximately 7:55 by Miss Ware, and it arrived at 8:20. The ambulance took Asbury to St. Joseph Hospital. He later was transferred to Bryan Hospital.

Dr. Asbury came to A&M as a chemistry instructor in 1903, and after teaching awhile, went into research.

He became interested in music and has four pianos in his home although he cannot play. He says he keeps them so other people can come and play.

Dr. Asbury also likes paintings. He has pictures all over the walls of his home near College View and some on the ceilings. He grows several varieties of roses outside his house.

He has been retired for a number of years and is approximately 78 years old. He went to school in South Carolina.

Beer Parties Or Churches For Muster?

Aggie Musters should be held in a more reverent atmosphere than beer parties, declared A. F. (Smiley) Mitchell '09, of Corsicana, outgoing president of the Former Students Association, here Saturday.

Supporting the suggestion submitted by D. C. (Spike) Arnold '27, of Houston, Mitchell urged that more cities follow the example set by Houston, Beaumont and other cities and holding Muster in churches.

"It is sacrilegious and impudent to hold such a memorial service at a drunken brawl," said Mitchell. "If this is a memorial service, I don't want it."

Muster is held every April 21 by A&M students everywhere in memoriam for fellow students who have died during the year and for the Texans who gave their lives fighting for Texas independence at San Jacinto 50 years ago.

The outgoing president also asked that parents of the A&M students who have died be invited to attend the Muster services held on the campus.

"It was again a very inspiring Muster here this year," he said.

F. L. Brewer, director of special activities of the Houston Chapter of N. A. C. A., presented the awards.

W. F. Farrar of the business administration department represented A&M at the meeting.

Board of Directors Runs College, Says Mitchell

Officers should obey constituted authority and the A&M Board of Directors is in control of the college, said A. F. (Smiley) Mitchell '09, of Corsicana, outgoing Former Students Association president, to the FSA Council Sunday.

Answering a proposal by William J. (Bill) Garrett '47, of Dallas, new Councilman to the FSA Council, Mitchell said "the Board of Directors are the constituted authority of the school."

This association always will continue to remain under their authority, he said.

Garrett made the motion that a fact finding committee be appointed to investigate student life here. The motion was not seconded. It was tabled by a majority voice-vote on a motion by A. C. (General) Love '99, of Beaumont.

After making his motion, Garrett said the students were not to know about the committee and it was for the members present and not for publication.

"The Aggie spirit must be perpetuated," said Garrett. "There is no harm in a Fish (freshman) running 50-100 yards to meet an upperclassman, and perhaps there is no harm in having midnight yell practice. I don't know."

"We should perpetuate the spirit. They may bring in two uniforms and the thought of this is demoralizing the corps," he said.

Garrett emphasized that freshmen living in separate units hurts the corps, but he again repeated, "I don't know."

"When I brought some Dallas boys here during sports day," said Garrett, "they became disgusted with A&M. They said it was degenerating."

Garrett stressed that "the seniors are no longer running the campus," and that they should be given more rule.

"This association should study the facts and see if they are true," he said.

About two months ago, Garrett said he favored the board.

"I love the guy who used the board on me," he said.

Progress Demands Changes, Says Dunn

The danger and threat facing A&M is for it to slip in the future because it is unable to make changes and adjust to them, declared J. Harold Dunn '25 of Amarillo, incoming president of the Former Students Association.

"Young men who have graduated from this institution during the last several years have taken responsibility and leadership and carried it out effectively. This has made it possible for me to take this position today," Dunn said.

"In all honesty, speaking from my own experience in hiring young graduates from this college, I can state that the graduate today is better educated and better prepared to enter the business world than he was I finished school 28 years ago," said Dunn.

A lot of improvements can be made, said the Amarillo oil man and member of the A&M System Board of Directors.

"The way to accomplish these improvements is through constructive progress and changes. We do not need a major upheaval, but there isn't a department in this school that cannot be improved."

"With information and analysis we can find the improvements that are needed to make progress," he said.

Speaking to more than 150 members of the FSA Council, the new president left his prepared text of his speech often in an effort to emphasize the many points he stressed.

Progress Means Changes

"All of us like to think of the 'good old days' when we were in school and some of us feel that if the school could maintain policies which could re-establish those 'good old times' for the benefit of the present generation then most, if not all, of our problems would disappear."

"I submit to you, however," continued Dunn, "that progress requires change. We are living in different times and the problems are not the same."

Dunn illustrated the changes in the ways of life today as compared to many years ago. (See CHANGES, Page 2)

FSA Asks Better Ag-UT Relations

Cementing better relations between A&M and the University of Texas was discussed Saturday by the Former Students Association Council.

A. F. (Smiley) Mitchell '09, of Corsicana, outgoing president of the FSA, said efforts should be made to get the bitterness out of the hearts of both groups so that the two institutions could meet on a more amiable basis.

He stressed that shame was brought to both institutions by the actions of each group during the Turkey Day football game.

Many representatives to the meeting said they held joint banquets before the Thanksgiving game, inviting former students from both schools in an effort to better relations.

Audition Set June 11 For Operetta

Singers for a summer operetta will be auditioned Thursday, June 11, at 7:30 p. m. in the Music Hall, said Bill Turner, music director.

This year's summer production will be either "Pirates of Penzance," or "Yeomen of the Guard," both by Gilbert and Sullivan, Turner said. It will be presented July 14 and 15 at the Grove.

"Participation is open both to A&M students and people living in the community," Turner said.

There are also openings in the orchestra that will play for the operetta. "Anyone interested should contact me as soon as possible," Turner said.

Other operettas presented in past summers have been "The Chocolate Soldier," "Rio Rito," "The Mikado," and "The H.M.S. Pinafore." The productions are sponsored by Student Activities.
