

OPEN FOR ALL—The Grove opens tomorrow at 8 p.m. with "Play Night," a weekly event provided by the Student Activities Office. Skating, badminton, dancing, horseshoes, volleyball and ping pong are all offered at the Grove on this entertainment evening each week. This feature is only one of the many entertainment facilities offered to students during their summer school on the campus.

Summer Activities Begin Wednesday

A&M's extensive summer entertainment program for the students gets underway tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Grove. Each Wednesday night the Grove opens for skating, singing, badminton, volleyball, ping pong and horseshoes. This "Play Night" is only a small part of the program which the Office of Student Activities conducts every summer week except Friday. Movies on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights are the other part of the student's entertainment. Thirteen movies will be shown through the first six weeks of the summer. Another feature of the program will be softball games

Goodloe Rests Well After Attack

W. L. Goodloe, of the Campus Security Office, suffered a heart attack at 6:00 p.m. Sunday while on duty at Goodwin Hall. He is now in Bryan Hospital, and according to hospital authorities he is resting easily. Although his condition was apparently serious when he was admitted Sunday night, he has since shown considerable improvement, the hospital reported.

Credit Associations Will Meet at A&M

A statewide meeting of the Production Credit Associations of Texas will be held at A&M August 9 to 12, according to an announcement by Charles N. Shepardson, dean of agriculture. The meeting will be sponsored jointly by the School of Agriculture of A&M, the 36 Production Credit Associations of the state, and the Houston Production Credit Corporation. About 275 persons are expected, consisting principally of farmers and ranchmen who are serving as the officers and directors of the Associations. Members of the college staff will present economic information relating to agricultural finance and discuss sound farm and ranch management practices as the basis for successful production loans. Representatives of the associations will devote some time to a discussion of their own practices and problems.

College Policy
"It is the policy of the college to provide all interested groups of farmers and ranchmen of the state with information on economic as well as production matters," said Dean Shepardson. "This conference is being jointly sponsored by

Communist Airlift Gets Investigation

Washington, June 9 — (AP) — A Communist airlift allegedly smuggling guns from Texas into Panama to supply weapons for planned revolutions in Latin America, is under secret investigation by congressional sleuths, it was learned Sunday. A well-placed source who declined to be named said Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin has turned up evidence that the conspirators have their sights set on overthrow of the governments of Bolivia, Ecuador, Venezuela and Colombia, and possibly some Central American governments. Another informant said Cuba also is among the nations at which the Communists are aiming. McCarthy himself refused to discuss the story or to say whether the inquiry had anything to do with his recent visit to Texas and Mexico, which he described as a combined investigative and pleasure trip. He said only that "I can tell you practically nothing about my trip. I did check on a number of leads." However, McCarthy was reported to have informed the U. S. government agents of what he has learned. McCarthy was said to be thinking seriously of asking his

Armistice Near; ROK Protests

Koreans Vow To Fight On

PANMUNJOM—(AP)—Allied and Red truce negotiators, on the threshold of an armistice, met briefly Tuesday in the faded conference hut where they have wrangled for 23 months and then adjourned until Wednesday. An armistice could be signed this week. With all policy issues including the voluntary repatriation of prisoners settled, the only remaining points to be cleared up were minor technical matters. The brevity of Tuesday's session, 12 minutes, hinted that the delegates may have turned over these matters to lower level staff officers. Staff officers met immediately after the plenary session adjourned.

The delegates convene again at 11 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m., CST, Tuesday). But whether their 23-months labor would finally end three years of warfare on this blood-soaked peninsula was clouded by the vows of South Korean leaders to ignore the armistice and fight on. The angry South Koreans rejected the prisoner exchange agreement signed Monday as "failure of the United Nations to live up to their fundamental principle of human freedom."

Under the agreement the bulk of 121,680 Red prisoners and 12,000 Allied prisoners would be exchanged within 60 days; the rest will be released by December. After an emergency Cabinet meeting, Home Minister Chin Hun Shik declared the decision was made for South Korea to continue fighting in spite of any armistice. "It is an established principal," he said, "that we should drive to the north."

President Syngman Rhee, his mansion shaken by a Communist air bombing attack during the night, was even more adamant that no truce was acceptable that did not provide for removal of the 1 million-man Chinese Communist army, and unification of all Korea. Rhee declared that "the Korean people will pay no attention" to the armistice.

Then Rhee went back to his presidential mansion where he began drafting a reply to President Eisenhower's letter of Sunday in which Mr. Eisenhower urged him to go along with the armistice proposals. Mr. Eisenhower promised a post-armistice mutual security pact with South Korea. Just what would happen if the South Korean Army, manning two-thirds of the 155-mile long battlefront, refused to lay down arms after an armistice no one could say for sure. Allied military leaders felt the South Korean Army (See FIGHTING, Page 4)

Miss Lynde Arrives For Ag Conference

Mrs. Lydia Lynde, Extension Specialist in parent and family life education, Washington, D.C. arrived at College Station recently for conferences with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. According to Mrs. Eloise Johnson, family life education specialist, Mrs. Lynde will confer with administration and specialist staff and assist with plans for the Texas 4-H Roundup to be held at A&M College, June 10-11.

Since an important part of the annual program concerns youth and its problems, Mrs. Lynde will plan with the 4-H leaders, and others concerned with the discussion groups.

The 4-H club members will talk about "From Here—Where? What About the Future for Youth." "It is our responsibility to counsel and work with 4-H club members and other youths," Mrs. Lynde says. "The young folks are going to grow even if they are drafted," she added. "We can help them to realize it isn't just a matter of 'tough luck,' but will be a part of their growing process and will present opportunities." Mrs. Lynde uses a formula in conferences and discussion groups. She calls the formula "E plus R equals H." "Experience plus research equals how to do," she explains. "When youth can talk about their experience and learn of the possibilities they have, they can find a way to solve their own problems," Mrs. Lynde concludes. The specialist will counsel with the State 4-H Council when it meets June 5-9, preliminary to the Roundup.

Summer Series Of Film Society Opens With Hit

The A&M Film Society showed its first movie of the year "Foreign Correspondent" last night at 7:00 p.m. in the Ballroom of the MSC.

The next show, "Suez," will be Thursday, June 11 in the MSC.

Season tickets to the society may be obtained at the main desk of the MSC or at the Student Activities office, said Ed Holder, president of the society. Season tickets cost $1 each. Individual tickets will not be sold.

Fourteen movies are shown for this price, said Holder. All of them will be in the Ballroom of the Center.

Holder said final bookings have been made for the remainder of the summer. The schedule is as follows:

Officers Search River for Body

Officers Monday were searching for the body of Macario Benavides, 13, one of four boys drowned near the Texas A&M College farm while on an outing on the Brazos River.

The bodies of Anastasio Benavides, 9; Hernando Sanchez, 9, and Casanado Benavides, 10, were recovered Sunday, a few hours after the drowning.

Theodore Benavides and his brother, Casanado, took the boys on the outing Sunday morning. He said he had crossed the river to set a trotline, when the Sanchez boy sank into deep water while wading with the Casanado boy.

The other two boys drowned while attempting to wade the river to help their father, Casanado, who had gone to the rescue of Hernando but had got in trouble himself.

Theodore managed to save his brother but none of the children. Bodies of the three boys were found within 60 feet of the spot where they were last seen.
