Golfers Making Good Progress In Links School

Golf enthusiasts who are polishing up their playing techniques in the class taught by J. G. Fagan, golf instructor, and Bart Haltom, assistant instructor, are all making progress and show considerable improvement, said both pros.

Twenty-four beginning and advanced golfers in the mixed class meet at the golf course Monday and Wednesday afternoons at 5 o'clock for one hour periods of instruction. Both students and faculty members are enrolled in the group.

If sufficient interest is shown, the course will be offered again next term. Everybody is welcome and it isn't necessary to be an expert, emphasized Fagan, who has been teaching golf four years. All equipment is furnished.

Construction of the new street through the golf course has necessitated some changes in arrangement of greens. Hole nine is now a three par hole with a distance of 155 yards instead of 890 yards. Eighteen is four par with a distance of 560 yards instead of 595 yards. Holes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 remain unchanged, while holes 6, 7, 8, 9, have been switched with holes 15, 16, 17, 18 respectively.

A temporary building between greens 18 and 19 is being used as club house. The club moved from its quarters in the old horse barn last spring and expects to build a new, permanent structure.

An unofficial record was set for the 70 par course by Bart Haltom when he played the 18 holes in 66 shots. The non-competition game was played June 24, and was witnessed by Colonel C. W. Whitney and Jim Cashion.

AH Class Observes Local Auction Ring

The A. H. 406 class learned the importance of local auctions last Tuesday, said F. I. Dahlberg, Professor of Animal Husbandry.

The class went to the Bryan Auction and judged the livestock exchange on people's facilities, buyers, prices, and cattle that were sold there.

This knowledge is all very important to the cattleman, according to Dahlberg, because it will enable him to know which auction to take his livestock in order to get the best possible prices.

Legion Team Beats Silsbee

The College Station American Legion baseball team defeated Silsbee 1 to 0 Saturday afternoon in Silsbee to go one up in the two out of three bi-district playoff.

The locals represent district 19 after defeating Bryan two straight games, while Silsbee is the Champion of district 20, having conquered Lufkin and Liberty.

Pete Hickman, 16-year-old, left-hander, set Silsbee down with only three hits to garner his first shut-out of the year. It was a timely performance for the local boys got only three hits and one run off L. Jones, the Silsbee righthander who pitched his team into the state finals last year.

College Station tallied its lone run in the third inning. Norman Floeck walked but was forced at second by Travis Englebrecht. After Engelbrecht stole second, J. B. Carroll beat out a drag bunt, sending Englebrecht to third, from where he scored on David Bonnen's infield hit.

The local crew was in trouble in the sixth inning as Silsbee had a man on second and third with one out. An attempted squeeze play failed as Elmore, Silsbee outfielder, missed the bunt and was called out for interfering with catcher Melvin Free in trying to make the tag. Hickman struck out the next man to end the threat.

The two teams resume their series Saturday afternoon on Kyle Field at 2:00 p.m. A double header will be played if necessary to decide the bi-district winner.

Majors Grab Win Over Bears, 7-2

The Bryan Majors scored six times in the fifth inning last night in a 6-1 encounter to hold on to a second place tie with Bryan.

Bryan will move to Longview tonight for a three day stand, then will get two days rest Friday and Saturday while the All-star game is played in Wichita Falls on Friday. Saturday is an off day.

The Majors return home next Sunday for a full week of games, beginning with Wichita Falls on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. Texarkana comes Wednesday and Thursday for two games, and then Longview will visit for games on Friday and Saturday.

In Bryan's big fifth inning, Dimaggio singled, Allan Maul followed with a single, and when Bear shortstop Smirnov bobbled Don Carline's grounder, Dimaggio crossed home plate with the first Bryan run. Frank Scarpace drew a walk to fill the bases and Bryan Conn stepped up to rap out a two-run single. Chico Barcello's solid double poured two more runs across the plate. The Majors scored again in the sixth inning to wind up the night's scoring.

With the win, while Tyler was again idled by rain, Bryan moved up to one and one half games out of first. However, the Wichita Falls Spudgers bowled Temple over.
