

HALTED — Steel strikes during the construction of the Physical Education building have delayed completion of the 9,000-seat project until January, 1954. Joe Orr Jr., superintendent, figures the strikes prolonged the construction for five months. The latest strike, which ended Thursday, caused a two-months delay.

HI, SCHOOL

The annuals have arrived at Consolidated, and last night was the big annual yearbook signing party at the Patranella Memorial slab at the school.

After the complimentary copies of the "Tigerland" were presented, the students received theirs and spent the evening getting the autographs of their friends.

Mrs. A. R. Orr is Faculty adviser, and Charles Heaton, who is now a student at A&M, was editor.

This year's annual staff just returned from a yearbook clinic at the University of Houston sponsored by the Port Printing Co.

The program consisted of talks on copy preparation, photography, yearbook financing, and a conduct-
