Leading Passer To Face Aggies In Georgia Tilt

The Aggies will face one of the nation's outstanding passers in Zeke Bratkowski when the Cadets and Georgia's Bulldogs square off in the Dallas Cotton Dowl Saturday night, Oct. 3.

"The Brat" brought the Bulldogs from two touchdowns behind against Villanova Saturday to give Wally Butts' force a win.

Bratkowski holds two Southeastern conference aerial records and is shooting for three all-time collegiate works this season. Butts says the Georgia star has not yet reached his peak and "we expect him to have his banner season this year."

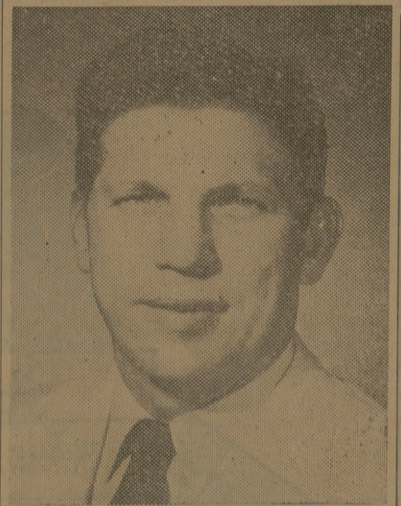

The Aggie-Georgia game is the first of the year in the huge Cotton Bowl and will be the only night game in Texas that weekend. SMU plays Georgia Tech in Atlanta, the night before (Oct. 2).

HALFBACK TOM BAILES—This hard-running 200 pound junior gives the University of Houston a potent one-two punch.

Texas Aggies 14, University of Houston Cougars 7. The Cougars will be making first game mistakes, while the Aggies have the experience of a game behind them, plus the morale boost of a victory.

Since Houston has so much left in their front line, we feel that Don Ellis will spread them out with end sweeps, then run quick openers through them. Then perhaps a few short passes to loosen them up again. He's a smart quarterback who will make the most of his opportunities.

Bill Ballard, who lettered as a defensive halfback in 1951, is helping out, offensive tackle in 1952 and first year squad. Other former A & M varsity players assisting Zap-

"We have a better chance to retain national prominence if we play at least some of the time with less formidable teams," Dr. Cross said, which is a careless thing to say in the vicinity of an Aggie.

"These 'Okies' are just like a catfish—all mouth. They are afraid of the Southwest conference," Knuse writes.

A time clock which flashes minutes and seconds to play in each quarter, is a new addition to TCU's Amon Carter stadium.

Replacing the old clock with its massive hands which most fans had trouble reading, the new clock is part of their stadium improvement program. The stadium, with 4,700 newly added seats, now has a capacity of 37,000.

Texas University has an admirable home field record against intersectional opposition having won 10 of 12 contests since Memorial stadium was completed. Only losses were to Notre Dame last year and to Oklahoma A&M in 1944.

Their intersectional record on the road, however, took a slight dip last Saturday when LSU thumped the Longhorns 20-7.

Nine Stations Ready

Humble To Air Aggie Game

With only two of Texas' Southwest conference teams scheduled for play this week-end, listeners to football radio broadcasts Saturday can hear accounts of both intersectional games, the night football battle between A&M and the University of Houston at College Station, and the afternoon gridiron fight between Texas U. and Villanova at Austin.

Listeners of West Texas stations can hear a running account of the Texas Tech-Texas Western game, also scheduled for night play.

Beginning at 1:50 Saturday afternoon, announcers Kern Tips and Alic Chesser will describe the play-by-play and halftime activities of the Texas-Villanova game from Memorial stadium in Austin. This broadcast will be carried by stations KRLD, Dallas; KTRH, Houston; KABC, San Antonio; KEYS, Corpus Christi; KWFT, Wichita Falls; KGBS, Harlingen; KGKB, Tyler; KCMC, Texarkana; KTBC, Austin and KRBC, Abilene.

AA-WBAP-820, Dallas-Ft. Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; KFDX, Wichita Falls; KFDM, Beaumont; KRIS, Corpus Christi; KRGV, Weslaco; KTBB, Tyler and KORA, Bryan.

Airtime for the Texas Tech-Texas Western game will be 8 p. m. mountain standard time (9 p. m. CST). John Ferguson and Eddie Barker will announce the action to listeners of stations KEPO, El Paso; KPET, Lamesa; KRIG, Odessa; KCRS, Midland; KBST, Big Spring; KGNC, Amarillo; KVOP, Plainview; KFYO, Lubbock; KWE-

Agriculture Information Center to Open

The formal opening of the Agriculture Information center will be within six weeks, according to Ted Mises, director.

The new center will coordinate agricultural information in the A & M system and place all information offices under one roof. It will take over the duties and facilities of the publication office of the agricultural experiment station and the editorial office of the agricultural extension service, with the mailing rooms of both services.

Also, certain information from the School of Agriculture will be handled through the information center.

The old horse barn, south of the system administration building, has been renovated at a cost of $64,000 to house the offices.

The center employs about 15 students part-time.
