Two Chemical Corps Officers Reduced In Rank To Private

Senators To Discuss Seating Again

The Student Senate will center its discussion tomorrow night on committee seniority within the senate, and the Kyle field seating arrangement. For new business, the group will discuss the fund for Reveille, the question of non-military students eating in Duncan Mess Hall and a pay phone for each dorm.

Reduction Is Effective Immediately, Says Myers

Cadet Company Commander C. H. Sepulveda and his executive officer, Ben F. Fort of A Chemical Corps, have been reduced to the rank of private, effective immediately, said Col. Shelly P. Myers, PMS&T.

The action was taken when an investigation showed that Fort lied to an Army officer Thursday when asked why he was not at drill. Fort also gave the officer a fictitious name. Sepulveda was reduced for turning in a false report showing that Fort had been at drill when he actually was absent. The following material is quoted from the military department's investigation: Fort was driving his car down military Walk Thursday afternoon while freshmen from the composite regiment were marching to drill. The officer who turned in the report stopped Fort and asked him why he was not at drill. "I have a military," Fort said. The officer then asked him to produce the medical excuse legally excusing cadets from drill. Fort looked through his pockets and then told the officer he must have left the military in his room. When the officer asked Fort what his name was, Fort gave him a fictitious name. The officer then asked him to report the next morning with the military. After Fort and the officer had separated, Fort went to the hospital and tried to get a military to cover the drill period. He arrived at the hospital after the period had ended and the nurse on duty told him he would have to see the college doctor the next day in order to have the request approved. Friday morning, Fort went to the hospital, obtained a military from the college doctor and had it made out to the fictitious name he had given the Army officer. (See REDUCTION, Page 4)

Non-Regs to Eat In Duncan Hall; Start Monday

The east wing of Duncan dining hall will be opened Monday morning, for family-style feeding of non-military students living in dormitories 2, 4 and 5. Purpose of the action, said J. G. Peniston, chief of college subsistence, is for the convenience of non-military students living in the upperclassmen corps area. Non-military students living in the three numbered dormitories who have paid subsistence fees, may use their meal tickets for eating in Duncan, Peniston said. For non-military students who haven't paid for meal tickets, and desire to begin eating in Duncan, the subsistence department is selling tickets good for the remainder of the fee period ending Oct. 16. Non-military students may buy meal tickets for $1.23 a day good through Oct. 16. The tickets must be purchased from the subsistence office in Sbis hall. Meal tickets will be issued after Oct. 16 from the Fiscal office for an entire fee period only. The subsistence fee for the period beginning Oct. 16 and ending Nov. 18 is $40.60 and may be paid from Oct. 1-16 at the fiscal office. A memorandum concerning time schedules and method of operation for the new dining hall will be given to all non-military students living in the corps area within the next two days, Peniston said. An unknown number of non-military student waiters will be needed to serve students in the new dining hall.

Many Come by Air Mail

200 Girls Write To A&M Student

By JERRY BENNETT
Battalion Co-Editor

Doug Krueger, junior from New Braunfels, can't complain about never getting mail from a girl.

He has received more than 200 letters in feminine handwriting since the beginning of school. And each letter has been from a different girl.

Krueger doesn't claim to be a "ladies' man." He attributes his sudden popularity to a short article which appeared late this summer in a German newspaper.

Complained to Friend

Just before school started, Krueger was complaining to a friend that he was having trouble getting a date in New Braunfels. His friend had just returned from Germany.

He told Krueger that nobody in Germany had trouble getting a date. The friend wrote to a German newspaper asking it to print that Krueger would like to correspond with some girls. "And the letters are still coming in," Krueger said. Many have photographs enclosed. Most of them are sent by airmail.

Krueger said he hasn't had time to read all his mail. "I have enough trouble trying to look at most of the pictures," he said.

The New Braunfels cadet doesn't have to worry about people reading his new girl friend's letters. Most of them are written in German. Krueger knows enough of the language to understand the letters.

But he's not the jealous type anyway. He has given away many of the letters to his friends here. And he has some more for anyone who would like them.

Expected Few Answers

When the request was sent to the German newspaper, Krueger and his friend expected only a few answers.

"We didn't know what we were getting into," Krueger said.

Wonder If They Enjoyed The Game?

The man walked into the grandstand at last Saturday's game with a freezer box under his arm.

He sat down, put the box between his legs, and began to pass out paper cups to his friends around him.

Then he reached into the box, and poured set-ups for everyone.

He reached in his coat pocket and pulled out a bottle of whiskey.

As he lifted the bottle to pour, an arm came over his shoulder and took the bottle from him. He turned around to speak to the smiling man who held his bottle.

The man, still smiling, held out his identification.

He was H. W. (Rip) Collins, the Bryan chief of police, who had just been waiting to make sure the man had whiskey on state property.

Kidnappers Hold Fate Of Millionaire's Son

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Cold-blooded kidnapers, apparently adopting delaying tactics, today kept the fate of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease from his anguished parents.

The child, son of a millionaire automobile dealer, was abducted two days ago while attending classes at the French Institute of Notre Dame De Sion, a private school.

A spokesman for the family said no contact with the person or persons holding the boy had been made. The father, Robert C. Green-lease, has said he believes professional criminals are involved, making it more likely Bobby will be released unharmed.

Police reported they had obtained no new information that would lead them to believe they are on the right trail.

Greenlease, through a banker friend, made arrangements to obtain cash at any time of the day or night should the need arise.

Robert Ledterman, a business associate and spokesman for the family, said the whereabouts of the child is a mystery.

"We have received about eight telephone calls during the day from cranks who say they have the child," Ledterman said yesterday. "I talk to the persons making the calls and ask them questions about the appearance of the boy or what he was wearing."

Don't Know Answers

"That ends the conversations because they don't know the answers. On several occasions the telephone rang and there would be nobody at the other end when we answered."

Ledterman and Greenlease, saying it appeared the kidnapers were trying to make contact, left the Greenlease home in suburban Mission Hills, Kan., for a brief period yesterday. When they returned, however, they said no contact had been made.

Greenlease told a reporter: "About all we can do is sweat, wring our hands and hope."
