Fullback Rueben Saage blasted off right tackle for two yards early in the third quarter for the touchdown that gave the Baylor Cubs a 14-7 victory over the A&M Fish last night on Kyle Field.

Halfback Neal Williams, the game's leading ball carrier, had set up the touchdown with a 64 yard burst off left tackle to the A&M 6-yard line. Williams took a hand-off from quarterback Bob Jones, at the Cub 30-yard-line, broke off left tackle, cut for the sideline and shook free at the Baylor 45-yard line. Jack Pardee caught him from behind.

Doyle Traylor, suffering from a strep throat, failed to suit up.

Center Dick Munday set up the Fish touchdown with a fumble recovery on the Cub 12. Quarterback Charles Scott swept around left end on a keeper behind Pardee's block for the score. Bobby Keith kicked the extra point.

The Cub line, led by ends George Stinson and Bill Parsley, center, Bill Glass, guards Dugan Pearce, and Dan Miller and Saage, a line-backer on defense, held the Fish ground game in check.

Jones connected with Stinson on a 26 yard pass play for the first Cub touchdown with 3:10 remaining in the first quarter. The pass completed a 56 yard drive in eight plays. Halfback Del Shofner accounted for 31 yards on two plays around right end.

Halfback Don Berry kicked both extra points for the Cubs. The Fish, held to two first downs in the first half, made seven in the second to lead the Cubs, nine to six. The Cubs had 144 yards rushing and 76 passing to 115 rushing and 14 passing for the Fish.

Williams led the ball carriers with 83 yards on four carries. Pardee gained 68 on 18 tries to lead the Fish. Baylor completed seven of 15 passes, four out of 12 by Jones. Scott connected on only one of seven for the Fish.

Bobby Lockett, Houston Green,

Eugene Stallings, John Ray, John Kuchler, Lloyd Hale and Bennie Bloomer played fine games in the line for the Fish. Pardee was a solid defensive linebacker and offensive blocker.

In the third quarter Green recovered a Cub fumble on their 21 yard line. Scott, back to pass on second down, was rushed badly and Miller made a diving interception of his wild pass to end the threat.

Aggie Harriers Will Meet OU

The Aggie and University of Oklahoma cross-country teams will meet in their season opener Friday afternoon at 3:45 over the A&M course.

Jim Blaine, defending SWC cross-country and two-mile champion, and Dale DeRouen, conference one mile winner, head the Aggie aggregation in the 2.6 mile race. Verlon Westmoreland, who placed sixth in the SWC cross-country last fall, and Frank Whitwell are the other two veteran squadmen.

Sophomores Bill Cocke, Bob Hooper, Carl Wilmsen and Robert Boles all show improvement over times posted last year.

"We ought to take them," said Anderson, "although the Sooners are never a pushover."

Tigers-Bobcats Battle Tonight

The strong Consolidated Tigers square off against the Cypress-Fairbanks Bobcats Friday night at 8 on Tiger field in the first district game of the season.

Regulars Pete Hickman and Bobby Jackson will be on the Tiger sideline with injuries as Consolidated goes after its fifth win.

The Tigers football machine has run up scores of 65-0 over Bremond, 59-0 over Madisonville, 28-7 over Navasota and 39-0 over Hempstead.

Cypress-Fairbanks opened with a 13-6 win over Spring Branch, tied Eagle Lake, 0-0, and lost to Sweeney by a 15-2 margin.

Offensive starters for the Tigers will be Bobby Carter and Ray Oden, end; Charles Johnson and Melvin Free, tackles; George Sosaures and Jimmy Bond, guards; Pinky Cooner, center; Fred Anderson, quarterback; William Arnold and Bobby Joe Wade, halfbacks; and David Bonnen, fullback.

A&M's first rifle meet will be with TCU Saturday, Oct. 17, in a Southwest Rifle association match.

An organization of people who have saved their sight by using eye protective devices such as goggles, called the "Wise Owl Club", is growing rapidly and now has more than 5,000 members.

Bryan Shoe Plant Nears Completion

A shoe factory which will hire 200-300 local people will be opened about the first of the year in Bryan.

The plant, located past the ball park on Carson street, will produce rubber soles and heels. It is owned by the International Shoe corporation, largest shoe manufacturer in the world.

Construction on the building, one of two shoe rubber plants owned by the company, was begun in February.

"Cost of the new plant has not been disclosed," said Jack Springer, manager of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce. "However, after future additions to the building are complete, it will be a multi-million dollar project."

The Way It Looks

Aggs, Ponies, Bears, Owls To Win This Week's Games

By BOB BORISKIE Sports Editor

For the second straight weekend, the Southwest conference football schedule offers one conference and five non-conference clashes.

Here are the games for Friday and Saturday which spread from Texas to Michigan:

SMU and University of Missouri at Dallas (Friday night).

A&M and Texas Tech at Lubbock (Saturday night).

Arkansas and Baylor at Waco (Saturday afternoon).

Hardin-Simmons and Rice at Houston (Saturday night).

TCU and Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich. (Saturday afternoon).

Texas and Oklahoma at Dallas (Saturday afternoon).

Arkansas dropped the first game of the season to Oklahoma A&M by a 7-6 margin, but topped TCU last Saturday in a 13-6 upset.

Baylor manhandled California in its opener on the west coast, 25-0, and defeated Miami last week on the east coast in a 20-13 contest.

The Bruins should be double tough in their own back yard, and will win by about 20-6.

Missouri has what has been called its "best team since the war," and after dropping the season opener to Maryland, has run up victories over Purdue and Colorado. SMU in its season opener with Georgia Tech displayed terrific defensive football but a very tepid offense in the shadow of the Tech goal, once being stopped after four line smashes from the Tech one-foot line.

However, SMU roundly outplayed Georgia Tech while losing by a 6-4 score, and should win. Make the score about 13-7.

The Aggies will use a lightning-fast backfield against Texas Tech, with Don Ellis, Elwood Kettler, Billy Huddleston and Bob Easley selected as starters.

Texas Tech can proudly point to their ranking as 12th offensive team in the nation with an impressive 268 yard average in games with West Texas state, Texas Western and Oklahoma A&M.

The Aggie record shows two wins and a tie against three Red Raider victories, but the A&M competition has been a bit more rugged.

The Aggies should win by a couple of touchdowns, say 28-13.

Rice, a SWC pre-season favorite, takes on Hardin-Simmons in a breather. Hardin-Simmons lost 20-0 to Oklahoma A&M, defeated Midwestern in a 33-7 game, then lost another to Trinity, 27-21.

The Owls have fled away wins over Florida and Cornell by 20-16 and 28-7 scores, and will pretty well dictate the score.

It should be somewhere in the vicinity of 33-7 for Rice.

TCU's Horned Frogs travel to East Lansing to meet Michigan State, and will probably wish they had stood in bed.

After winning from Kansas, 13-0, in a fumble-marred game, TCU was dumped by Arkansas by a 13-6 score last week.

Michigan State currently ranks second in national polls after wins over Iowa and Minnesota by scores of 21-7 and 21-0.

Give it to the Spartans by at least 27-7.

The football spotlight of the day falls on the Cotton Bowl when the University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma meet in a nationally televised game.

Texas opened its season in dismal fashion, being thrashed by LSU, 20-7, but bounced back to dump Villanova, 41-12, and Houston, 28-7.

Oklahoma fumbled its way to a 28-21 loss to Notre-Dame, and was still sulking when tied by Pittsburgh last week, 7-7.

However, the Sooners will be primed for Texas, and since the Longhorns are not as strong as the Houston score indicated, Oklahoma should win, 14-7.
