

Non-Regs Must Have ID Tags To Get Seats

Non-military juniors and seniors who do not have seating identification cards will positively not be admitted Saturday to their respective seating sections in Kyle field," said S. J. Smith, seating committee chairman.

Cards may be obtained from non-military dormitory senators or housemasters, he said. The Housing office in Goodwin hall will issue cards to non-military students not living in college dormitories.

It will be necessary for them to show the college identification card and athletic season ticket to receive the seating cards, Smith said.

Wives' cards will be issued at the Kyle field gates and the housing office. Student wife athletic season tickets must be shown.

Pinned to Lapel

"Non-military student seating cards should be pinned to the right lapel until the game is under way," Smith said. "It is suggested that a safety-pin be used to hold the cards since they will not be re-issued if lost."

When questioned about Thursday's Battalion letters to the editors which were critical of the seating arrangement, Smith said a more satisfactory arrangement might be worked out if people with complaints would contact their student senators.

"Apparently everyone was happy until recent publicity aroused the boys," Smith said, "because there was but one dissenting vote, which was by a corps senior, when the plan was presented."

"If there is any gripe coming, it is because so many people did not even bother to speak to their student senators about it."

People Have Arguments

The plan was in effect at the A&M-Houston game, but the non-military students disregarded the class boundaries, Smith said.

"I realize some people have good arguments," he said, "and I am especially in sympathy with the veterans who wrote the letters in Thursday's Battalion."

"In view of this dissent, I wish each and every senator representing non-military students would take a poll and find out how the majority feels about it, and I am sure the seating committee will act accordingly."

"Remember, however, that the issue at stake is whether or not the non-military section should be divided along lines of academic classification," Smith said.

He explained the seating cards were issued to keep people other than Aggies and their guests from sitting in the student section, and not to cause friction between the students.

"It will be impossible for us to change our plans now, and the seating arrangement will be carried out Saturday as outlined," the seating chairman said.

Smith explained if the committee decides to have an open non-military section for the remaining home games, it will have to be a section along the top from the 50 yard-line to the end of the students' section.

Ray Anthony Set For SMU Game

Ray Anthony will play for the dance after the Southern Methodist university-A&M football game. He will play a concert at 6:15 and for the dance at 9:00 p. m.

The bonfire dance and concert on Nov. 25 will be the date for Sammy Kaye and his orchestra to come here this year. The concert will be at 6:30 and dance will be at 9:00 p. m.

There have been no other bands set but one or two more other than Town Hall may be expected next Spring, said Spike White, assistant dean of men for student activities.

Moving Date Set For Animal Clinics

The Large and Small Animal Clinics will not move into the new veterinary hospital before November.

Heating and ventilation in the new hospital has not been completed. The veterinary medicine department disclosed. Only the clinics will be moved to the new building. The other offices of the department will remain in the old building on the campus.

"All non-regs will still have to wear seating cards so as to distinguish them from former and high school students and other unauthorized invaders," Smith said.

Smith will contact non-military student senators Friday to find out the results of his proposed poll. "I will gather the information at 5 p. m. that day," he said, "and the majority polled at that time will rule."

About a week will be needed to have anything changed, he said.

Seven Aggies Go to Houston Sales Clinic

Seven students and four professors represented A&M Wednesday night at the annual Sales Clinic in Houston. Fred Smith, vice president of the Gruen Watch Company, spoke to the thousands of sales executives from the southwest.

A&M students at the clinic were Don Gentry and Bob Palmer, Houston Sales Executive club scholarship holders; Mitch Spadachene Clancy Wolliver and Dave Shaw, business society representatives; Dutch Dutcher, Aggieland '54 co-editor; and Bob Hendry, editor of the Commentator.

Herb Thompson, T. R. Yantiss, L. W. Sherman and D. J. Lenahan, all of the business department, were the professors from A&M.

"The most important asset a business man may have is a good personality," Smith said. "The college graduate-point man is forced to take a lower paid position in the business world than the man with a good personality who engaged in many extra-curricular activities."

Some points to remember in achieving a good personality, Smith said, are to always look a person in the eye, smile and be pleasant, be sincere in every way, and always seem interested in what a person is saying.

First of Year

Big Weekend Opens Today

The first big weekend of the year opens tonight with the Cafe Rue Pinalle in the Memorial Student Center, the Aggie rodeo at the rodeo arena, and the Service ball in the MSC ballroom.

Saturday activities will kick-off with the A&M-Baylor football game followed by the Tex Beneke concert and dance.

The Service ball will feature the 16-piece Aggieland orchestra for dancing from 8:30 to 11:30. Members of the service ROTC units will attend.

The service units are the transportation corps, signal corps, army security agency, quartermaster corps, chemical corps and ordnance.

Officials Will Be Honored

College and military officials will be honored guests.

The All-Aggie rodeo holds the first of its two performances for the weekend at 8 p. m. tonight in the rodeo arena. Tickets are 60 cents for students and $1.20 for adults.

Student riders will compete for prizes in all events. Girls will enter the rodeo for the first time. Girl representatives of this area will compete in the ladies' barrel race.

The final performance of the rodeo will be at 8 p. m. Saturday night. A parade through Bryan this afternoon opens the rodeo festivities.

The Cafe Rue Pinalle floor show tonight will feature oriental harem dances by Carolyn Graves, a high school senior from Hamilton.

Will Play Blues

Also on the program are the Bopsters, dance team; Fred Gibbs, western singer; John Sutton and Corland Thurman, singers; and Don Dart, who will play blues music on the piano during intermission. Jerry Schnepf will be master of ceremonies.

Rue Pinalle will open at 8:30 p. m. and close at 11:30. Tickets are

OVER AND OUT—Harold Schadel, squadron 20 senior, receives instructions on what to do during his ROTC orientation flight. Cadets are being flown in either one or two engine training planes at Bryan air force base.

FSA Work Keeps Mail Room Busy

By JOHN LINTON
Battalion Staff Writer

The Former Students association mailing room handles 500,000 pieces of mail a year to be sent to A&M ex-students throughout the world.

The mailing room is located in the southwest wing of the Memorial Student Center. It is operated by Mrs. Mary S. Muth of Bryan. She is the only person who works in the mailing room. But she has several modern machines to assist her.

These include Multilith, Graphotype, Addressograph, automatic letter folder and automatic envelope sealer.

Newest addition to the association's set of mechanized helpers is the Multilith press.

With its aid, the office has taken over many printing jobs which previously were done by other sources. This press prints letters, pamphlets and full-color reproductions at a rate of 6,000 sheets per hour.

The Addressograph addresses about 750,000 envelopes a year. The envelopes are then sealed automatically.

One of the biggest jobs is keeping up with former students who are always on the move. More than 1,000 address changes a month are recorded.

The band has Shirley Jones and Jack Carroll doing the vocals.

Beneke will sing some numbers himself.

The freshman area will hold an open house Saturday. Parents and girl friends of students living in the cadet freshman area can visit them in their rooms.

Ags Meet Bears Here Tomorrow

CS City Tax Payment Percent High

College Station has one of the best tax-payment records in the state, according to City Manager Ran Boswell.

As of June this year, 96.03 per cent of the city's tax payers have paid their taxes. The city's collection percentage has been over 97 per cent since 1944.

Montgomery Leads

Cadets-Athletes Improve Relations

By BOB HENDRY
Battalion Feature Editor

A policy stressing better relations between A&M cadets and cadet athletes is underway, said V. M. (Monty) Montgomery, head yell leader.

The policy which was started at the beginning of this year is "really coming along," Montgomery said.

The need for stressing better relations between the two groups arose years ago when many non-athlete upperclassmen began complaining that the athletes "could get away with anything, and nothing would be done about it."

These upperclassmen said that the athletes, or Hart hall men as they are called, did not respect A&M's traditions and that their cadet officers would not punish them when a custom was broken.

Game To Match Undefeated Teams

By BOB BORISKIE
Battalion Sports Editor

One of the few major college football games pitting undefeated teams will be played Saturday afternoon on Kyle Field when the Aggies meet the Baylor Bears.

Over 40,000 fans are expected to watch a team picked to finish sixth in the conference, and one of the pre-season favorites for the title. As game time approaches, the Aggies are only slight underdogs to the Bears, and the home field advantage could make the contest a toss-up affair.

The starting Aggie line will be the same group that opened the game with the TCU Horned Frogs, with Bennie Sinclair and Bill Schroeder, ends; Durwood Scott and Lawrence Winkler, tackles; Marvin Tate and Sid Theriot, guards; and Fred Broussard, center.

But the starting backfield will depend largely on the game situation. If the Aggies lose the coin toss, or elect to kick off, Coach Ray Gorge will probably start a backfield combination of Don Ellis, quarterback; Joe Boring and Elwood Kettler, halfbacks; and Don Kachtik, fullback.

Connie Magouirk may replace Joe Boring in the backfield if the Aggies receive, since Boring is returning to action after leaving the Georgia game with an injury and may be used sparingly on offense.

Coach George is very proud of the Aggie record for the first five games, but says that the games are getting tougher each Saturday. "We're playing a great team when we meet Baylor, but every team we play, we play to beat 'em. We know we'll have to play our best football to win," George said.

A look at the record of Baylor's Golden Bears shows why George calls them a great team.

In bowling over California, Miami, Arkansas and Vanderbilt, Coach George Sauer's Bruins have piled up 107 points to 26 for the opposition. This brand of football has earned the Bears sixth place in national standings compiled by the Associated Press. They are seventh in the nation both in total offense and passing offense.

To balance the offensive threat presented by Baylor, A&M ranks 10th in the nation defensively, with Ellis sixth on the national list of passers.

Saturday's winner will be the conference leader in league play with two wins and no losses. Baylor downed Arkansas 14-7 in its only conference tilt, and the Aggies won from TCU Saturday, 20-7.

Snakes Scare Baylor Coeds

WACO—(P)—It took a psychology student working on his master's thesis to find out what women are afraid of.

SNAKES. Ninety-five per cent of 700 Baylor University co-eds scientifically questioned said that's what they feared most.

Communism and polio and spiders got in on the list but didn't get a shudder compared to snakes.

Robert D. Wickham, a graduate psychology student from Waco, said some of the girls cringed even when they heard the word.

Wickham questioned 40 per cent of the co-ed enrollment in each undergraduate class.

He found out 50 per cent had a conscious fear of "aggressive dates." Wickham interposed he believed some of the fears were due to ignorance on the subject.

He found out further: 40 per cent feared being an old maid, 47 per cent feared they wouldn't find a husband best suited to them.

He's going to put it all in a thesis for a masters degree.

Weather Today

Thunderstorms and moderate rain showers. Cooler tomorrow. High yesterday 85. Low this morning 68. Low tonight 60.

HE'LL BE LISTENING—Jerald (Jerry) Wilson underwent surgery last week, and is still in the college hospital. He is one of the unfortunates who will miss the big weekend, which will be climaxed by the Aggie-Baylor football game. Wilson says he will have his ear to the radio at about 2 p. m. tomorrow afternoon. He is a freshman student from Novice majoring in agriculture.
