

Women of Church Hear Talk on Bible

A talk on "Bible Study" by Miss Janie McCutchen highlighted sessions at the second day of the meeting of the Women of the Church, Brazos Presbytery, at the A&M Presbyterian church yesterday.

Miss McCutchen, director of Christian growth of the Board of Women's Work in Atlanta, Ga., urged independent study of the Bible.

"Don't get your Bible second hand, like through a lesson leader," she emphasized. She reviewed the Bible studies that will be used by Presbyterian women's organizations throughout the south next year.

The morning session opened with a prayer led by Rev. Charles Workman, minister to students at A&M, followed by Miss McCutchen's address.

This was followed by four workshops led by Presbyterial officers. The group divided into committee chairman leading to commitment and growth; committee chairman leading to witnessing and outreach, spiritual growth, Christian education, and stewardship; committee chairman which strengthens fellowship of the church; and a workshop for general officers of Women of the Church.

The morning session was closed with a violin duet by Virginia Groneman and Margaret Adams.

A luncheon at Sbsia dining hall was held for 320 delegates.

Poultry Judgers Plan Meet Dec. 1

A&M's poultry judging team will participate in the National Intercollegiate Poultry Judging contest Dec. 1-2.

Three members and an alternate make up the team.

Students working out for the team are: Eugene Rozaeky, James Newman, Charles J. Kammerdiener Jr. and Alton Leo Fuchs.

The contest consists of three divisions — market products, production and breed selection.

Breed selection now takes the place of the former exhibition division.

Competing against 22 to 24 land grant colleges judging teams from all over the nation, the team has never placed below fourth place, said J. H. Quisenberry, head of the poultry husbandry department.

The team was first in the United States in 1949.

They will be honored with a banquet on Nov. 24, sponsored by the Poultry Sciences club.

Main Speaker

Mrs. G. S. Colburn, Presbyterial president from Orange, was main speaker for the afternoon session. Her speech was entitled "Dear Friends."

She compared the Women of the Church to a football team saying, "I am the quarterback; you carry the ball, and God is the coach."

Mrs. Percy Terrell directed the installation of officers. New officers are Mesdames Morris Tatum, Bryan; Myrtle McLaran, Houston; E. N. Gentry, Houston; W. J. Steek, Fort Arthur; Anna Mary Kihale; J. W. Perry, Houston; and C. T. Boyle, El Campo.

Three hundred and ninety-six women attended the meeting. There were 124 voting delegates.

Visitors included Mrs. W. L. Main, Waco, member of the state Synodical board; and Mrs. W. R. Manor, Marlin, president of the Central Texas Presbytery.

FAMILY FAVORITES

By Mrs. Ide P. Trotter

(Ed. note: Guest editor this week is Mrs. Ide P. Trotter, wife of the Dean of the Graduate school. Mrs. Trotter was graduated from Springfield Teachers college, Springfield, Mo., with a degree in music education. She did graduate work at the University of Missouri and Washington university in St. Louis. The Trotters are members of First Baptist church in Bryan. Mrs. Trotter is active in the Brazos county A&M Mother's club, the College Women's social club and the Extension Service club. They have two sons, Ide jr., a senior at A&M, and Ben, a student at Stephen F. Austin high school in Bryan.)

One of the pleasant past times of the Trotters is eating, and we have many favorite foods. Ide jr. and Ben agreed that baked beans should head the list. It is must for all picnics, church suppers, and get-togethers of all kinds.

Baked Beans

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------------------------|
| 2 lbs. navy beans | 3 tablespoons brown sugar |
| ¼ cup molasses | 1 teaspoon prepared mustard |
| ½ cup tomato catsup | salt and pepper to taste |
| 1 medium onion, diced | 1 ham hock (at least 2 lbs.) |

Wash beans thoroughly, soak over night in clear water. In the morning drain, add ham hock, salt, and cover with cold water. Cook until bean skins break when blown upon. Do not over cook.

Place in beanpot or crockery baking dish, the onion, molasses, brown sugar, mustard, tomato catsup, and pepper. When beans are ready, pour into baking dish and mix with seasoning. Cut ham from bone and into pieces not too small; then add to beans, cover and bake in slow oven 2½ or 3 hours.

Egg Plant Au Gratin

Mr. Trotter is very fond of all vegetables but one of his favorite is egg plant.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1 egg plant | 4 tablespoons shortening |
| 1 quart water, salted (approx.) | white sauce |
| 1 cup flour | grated pamesan cheese |
| | buttered bread crumbs |

Peel egg plant and cut length wise into ½-inch slices. Cover with water for ½ hour. Drain, dredge slices in flour and fry in any desired shortening until brown and tender.

Make the white sauce using shortening left from the browning process. Into baking dish put a layer of sauce, then egg plant, and sprinkle with cheese. Continue until all food is used, having the top layer sauce and cheese. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in hot oven until brown.

Pecan Pie

The boys said, "Mom, be sure to give your recipe for pecan pie." Since it was such a favorite with our week end football crowd, I decided maybe it is one of my best desserts.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|--------------------|
| 3 large eggs | 1 cup white Karo |
| ½ cup sugar | ¼ teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup pecan halves | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 2 tablespoons melted butter | |

Line a pyrex pie plate with your favorite pastry. Beat the eggs and salt well, add Karo and beat until thoroughly mixed. Add sugar and beat until it is dissolved; then add vanilla and butter. Stir well and add the pecan halves just before pouring into the unbaked pie shell.

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Decrease heat to 225 degrees after 15 minutes baking. Continue baking for 45 minutes or until custard is thick. If pie is getting too brown, turn off the heat and it will finish baking in the hot oven.

Arrangements for publication of the newsletter were made with Maj. L. J. Westbrook, military department public information officer.

The newsletter will be mimeographed and contain news of the outfit.

About 29 per cent of U. S. automobile drivers are women.

Helen Jacobs Wins First Bridge Prize

The Aggie Wives Bridge club high winner in the regular class last week was Helen Jacobs, second was Barbara Birdwell and consolation prize winner was Lura Griffin.

Intermediate hostesses for tonight's meeting at 7:30 in rooms 2A and 2B MSC are Jeanette Williams and Jeanette Willford.

Joann Stewart and Lucy Shelton are hostesses for the beginners group.

Twelve Companies To Make CHS Bids

Twelve contractors are planning to make bids on the new building for the A&M Consolidated schools.

Les Richardson, superintendent, said twelve contractors have checked out plans and specifications for the building. Each contractor reviews these plans to determine what his bid for the project will be.

"We feel it is a good indication when this many men apparently will bid for the job," Richardson said.

The school board of trustees will meet Nov. 5 to review bids of the contractors.

Book Review Plans Completed at Meet

Final arrangements for the Beta Sigma Phi sorority sponsored book review were made at the sorority meeting Tuesday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Bryan.

Mrs. L. E. Dudley will review at 8 p. m. tomorrow "Lady of Arlington" at the Bryan Women's club.

Tickets are 75 cents and can be bought from any sorority member. They will also be available at the door.

The review will be followed by a reception for sorority members at the home of Mrs. Raymond Stanford, 701 Banks, Bryan.

Mrs. Stanford and Mrs. Robert Reid presented a program entitled "The Garden."

Mrs. Thelma Heather of Fort Worth was guest for the meeting.

Nelson Named Brazos County Parole Head

Dr. Bardin H. Nelson, of the department of agricultural economics and sociology, has been appointed chairman of the Brazos County parole board.

Before coming to A&M, Nelson was director of testing, guidance and counseling at Louisiana State University.

Transparent plastic or glass refrigerator dishes are a good choice because you see your leftovers at all glance.

Tessies Plan Corn Huskin' Party Friday

TSCW Corn Huskin' Bee will take place tomorrow night from 7-10 o'clock on the concrete terrace of the Union building in Denton.

Sponsored by the Women's Recreation association, the Bee will consist of contests in chicken callin', hog callin', husband callin', a dormitory sing song and corn shucking.

Larry Hoffman, Marcus Williams, Jerry Ramsey, Frank Waddell and Charles Sinclair will represent A&M in the corn shucking contest; an Aggie-Tessie competition.

There will also be an hour and a half of dancing.

Aggies to Pay Higher Price On Directory

Price of student directories has been increased from 50 to 75 cents, said Carl Jobe, student publications manager.

The price increase was necessary to break even on the cost of publication, Jobe said. The directory does not have a budget and must pay expenses through sales and advertisements. It did not pay for itself last year.

Publication of the directory will be discontinued if the cost does not break even this year, Jobe said.

Each student is listed alphabetically this year. No supplementary list is needed because of the later publication date.

The student activities office will distribute the directories in the latter part of November.

Flying Club Sets Organization Meet

Organization of a flying club will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p. m. Friday in the old Triangle drive-in building on College avenue.

Plans for financing the non-profit organization will be worked out and include the hiring of an instructor in flying and navigation.

Meteorology, aircraft, engine and civil air regulations also will be taken up, said Charles Collette, business manager of Rent-A-Car and Curtis Sky Ranch.

Collette also said beginners and experienced persons who would like to keep up their flying are invited to join.

Donald R. Curtis is sponsor of the club.
