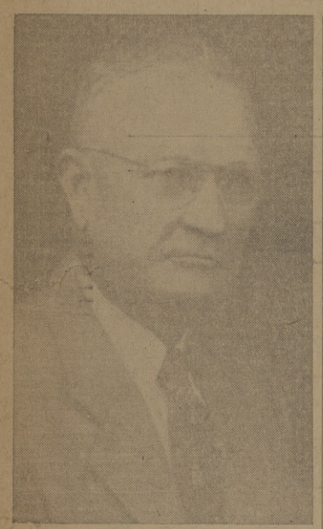
Distinguished Speakers Here For Conference



V. C. Marshall

Marshall

V. C. Marshall of Temple, executive director of the Texas State Soil Conservation Board, will speak on the Wednesday afternoon session of the annual Agents' Conference.

Mr. Marshall, whose outstanding work on the Soil Conservation Board makes him a topmost authority in this field, will speak on "Some of Today's Challenges in Soil Conservation."

Having served the public in many capacities although never holding public office, Mr. Marshall exemplifies the good, well-rounded citizen of today who takes an interest in civic affairs and projects that interest into positive action without seeking or expecting public acknowledgment of his accomplishments.

Mr. Marshall is an unusual man not only from the standpoint of his participation in civic affairs, but also from the standpoint of having a fine family of eight boys —all graduates of the Texas A.& M. College. Having attended A.& M. himself, it is understandable that he would give his eight sons that same opportunity.

Glenn C. Dildine

Dildine

A panel discussion on the National 4-H Foundation before the annual Extension Conference Friday morning will be led by Dr. Glenn C. Dildine, coordinator of the research project on developmental needs and training in human relations for the Foundation.

His professional background includes college teaching, administration and research in biology and human development, and in-service consultant work with schools and consultant groups in the field of human relations. He came to the Foundation in September 1952 from the University of Maryland where he had been professor in the Institute of Child Study. He was connected with several Extension Service projects in 1951, 1952 and 1953.

Dr. Dildine was born in China, the son of American educational missionaries. He grew up there, returning to the United States after his freshman year in College. His bachelor is from DePauw University and his master and doctorate from Northwestern University.

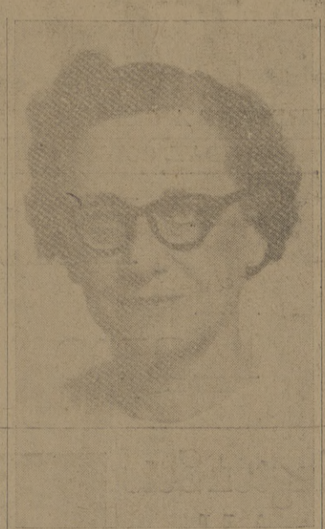
Mrs. Ercel S. Eppright

Eppright

Mrs. Ercel S. Eppright, head of the Foods and Nutrition Department of Iowa State College, will discuss accomplishments through good nutrition at the Wednesday forenoon session of the home economics section of the annual Extension Conference.

A native of Illinois, Mrs. Eppright received her bachelor in education and home economics at the University of Missouri, a master in food and nutrition at the University of Texas and her doctorate in psysological chemistry from Yale University. She has taught in the public schools of Missouri and Kansas, was instructor at the University of Texas, and head of the Home Economics Department of Texas State College for Women before assuming her present position in Iowa in 1945.

Her husband, Frank O. Eppright, deceased, was a member of the faculty for Texas State College for Women. Her son, James, commercial sales manager for the central district, Texas Power and Light Company at Waco, is a former student of Texas A. and M. College and a graduate of North Texas State College.



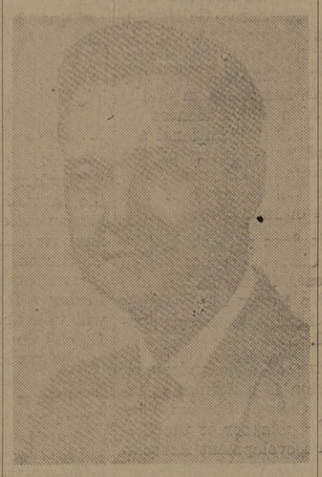
Gladys Gallup

Gallup

Progress and trends in extension work will be discussed by Dr. Gladys Gallup before the home economics section of the annual Extension Conference Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Gallup is assistant chief of the Division of Field Studies and Training in the Washington office of the Extension Service.

She holds a bachelor in home economics from Iowa State College, and a master in education and a doctorate in adult education from George Washington University. She also did graduate work at Columbia University and the University of Chicago.



J. H. Lumpkin

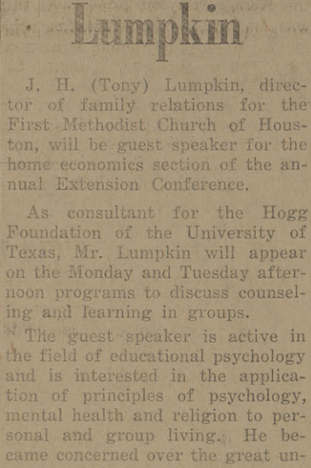
Lumpkin

J. H. (Tony) Lumpkin, director of family relations for the First Methodist Church of Houston, will be guest speaker for the home economics section of the annual Extension Conference.

As consultant for the Hogg Foundation of the University of Texas, Mr. Lumpkin will appear on the Monday and Tuesday afternoon programs to discuss counseling and learning in groups.

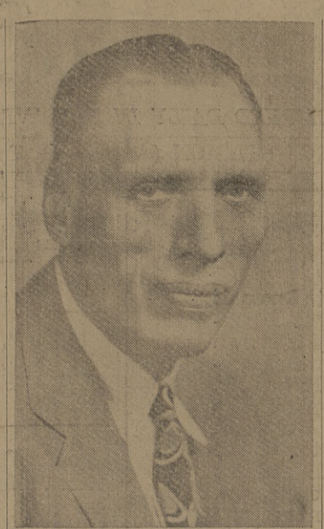
The guest speaker is active in the field of educational psychology and is interested in the application of principles of psychology, mental health and religion to personal and group living. He became concerned over the great unmet need for personal counseling among church people while serving on the staff of the University Baptist Church at Austin in 1947. He entered the University of Texas in 1950 to complete special training in this field.

Mr. Lumpkin has taught in the high schools of Texas, and headed the speech and dramatic contests for the Interscholastic League of the University. He trained at the Columbia Broadcasting System on a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship and after completing his requirements for his master at the University of Iowa, became first director of Radio House at the University of Texas.



Rev. A. T. Dyal

To Conduct Devotionals During Conference



Jules Labarthe, Jr.

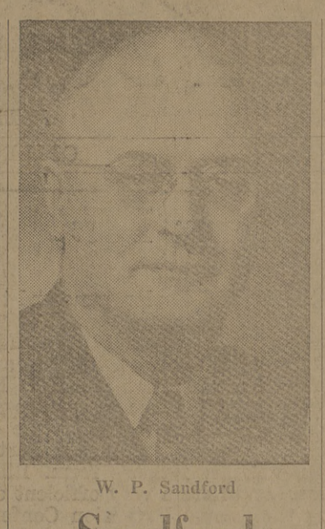
Labarthe

The role of the consumer in the market will be given the home economics section of the annual Extension Conference Tuesday afternoon by Dr. Jules Labarthe, Jr.

Dr. Labarthe has been senior fellow on the commodity standards fellowship in the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research of the University of Pittsburgh for the past 21 years.

Major problems on which the fellowship staff has been engaged deal with the evaluation of merchandise offered to store buyers, the establishment of specificiations for staple merchandeis, the scientific investigation of special cases relating to customer complaints, cooperation with the employees training division and aiding the store maintenance departments.

Dr. Labarthe was born in Canada. He is a graduate in chemistry of the University of California. His professional education in chemistry was completed at the University of Pittsburgh.



W. P. Sandford

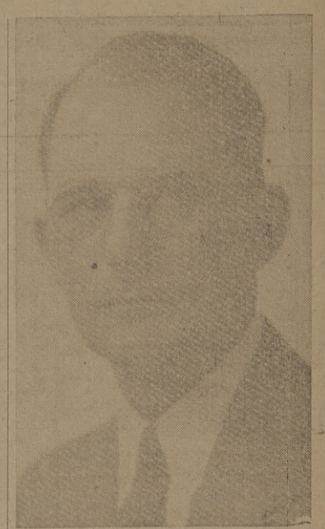
Sandford

The public speaking division in the communications section of the annual Extension Conference will be handled by Dr. W. P. Sandford, professer of business speech at St. Louis University and head of the Sandford Sales Training Service of that city.

Sinre 1946, Dr. Sandford has conducted more than 60 courses in effective speaking, 20 public classes in salesmanship and 90 courses for companies and organizations, in addition to his university courses.

His first two degrees are from the University of Michigan and his doctorate from Ohio State University. He was on the staff of the University of Minnesota, Ohio State University and the University of Illinois before joining the staff of St. Louis University in 1946.

In 1907 the headquarters for Farmers' Cooperative Demonstration Work was moved from Houston to Lake Charles, Louisana. Dr. Knapp remained in charge. Still later the headquarters were moved to Washington.



Roger J. Williams

Williams

One of our outstanding biochemists is Dr. Roger J. Williams, professor of chemistry at the University of Texas since 1939 and director of its Biochemical Institute since 1941. He also has been consulting biochemist since 1942 for the M. D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research in Houston.

He holds a bachelor from the University of Redlands, a master and doctorate from the Universiy of Chicago and honorary doctorates from the Universiy of Redlands and Columbia University.

Before coming to Texas, Dr. Williams was research chemist for the Fleichmann Company and on the staff of the University of Oregon. He is a member of the leading societies in his field and is included in most of the lists which recognize scientific achievements.

Dr. Williams will discuss "Why Eat and What" the afternoon of November 5 before the home economics section of the annual Extension Conference.
