For 1952 Rescue In Gulf

Student Wins Carnegie Award

An intended routine cruise during June, 1952, turned into an adventure that won A&M student Jerome Stein one of the nation's top hero awards.

Stein learned Saturday when "someone read about it in the paper and told me" that he had been cit-

Corps to Form Annual 'T' At SMU Game

The corps of cadets will form the Aggie "T" on Kyle field during half time at the A&M-SMU football game Saturday.

Practices will be held at 5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday on Kyle field.

"A system has been worked out this year to place seniors at all critical points of the 'T' to eliminate confusion," according to V. M. (Monty) Montgomery, head yell leader.

These seniors will be G. W. Skladal, Marcus Williams, Pat Wood, Chck Fenner, Charles (Buddy) Foxworth, Allan (Bootsie) Hohlt, Clancy Woliver, Dale Dowell, Stan Bell and Gus Wulfman.

Montgomery said he expects the "T" to stretch from the 15-yard line to the 15-yard-line this year.

Mitchell Asks Ticket Refund Of Arkansas

Fred Mitchell, corps commander, has requested that money received by the University of Arkansas for A&M student and student guest football game tickets be returned.

Mitchell wrote Sunday the president of the university's student body asking him to make arrangement for the return of $1.20 per student ticket and $3.60 per guest ticket.

The corps commander said A&M students should not have to pay for tickets since they were forced from their seats and moved to the end zone.

"The seriousness of this matter cannot be over-emphasized," he said.

Police Force A&M Group To Change Seats At Game

Kyle Field To Have Open Non-Military Seating Plan

(Ed. Note: A chart of the new plan will appear in tomorrow's Battalion.)

Dissatisfied non-military students have won their fight to abolish academic class barriers in their Kyle field seating section by a narrow margin of 18 votes.

The Student Senate Seating committee announced last night that the non-military seating section would be opened on a first-come first-served basis, and increased by 10 rows.

S. J. Smith, committee chairman, said that students cast 291 votes to 273 for an open section in a recent poll to solve the seating problem.

The dispute started when many non-military students objected to a seating plan which separated them by academic classification. Others favored the plan. They claimed the best seats should go to non-military students who had been at A&M the longest.

Increased Number

The seating committee increased the number of non-military seats when they discovered more of these students had paid their student activity fee than an earlier check had shown.

Figures show there are 2123 registered non-military students. Of these 1975 have paid their activity fee. This represents 30 percent of the combined cadet and non-military enrollment.

On this basis 30 per cent of the student seating section was given to the non-military students, Smith said. The new seating plan will not be changed, he added.

Smith said that non-military students must sit in their own section. Ushers will confiscate I.D. cards of non-military students who are found sitting in the corps section.

Smith said the cards will be turned over to the dean of men.

Student date tickets must be used by female guests only, Smith said. No one can enter the student section on a ticket for another stadium section, he said.

Smith explained, "This is a ruling of the athletic department and the Southwest Conference and not of the seating committee." Only those who have athletic season tickets for students and wives and date tickets will be admitted to the student section.

The committee chairman said that more ushers will be used to enforce seating at the SMU game. They will refuse admission to anyone without the right kind of ticket.

New Plan

The new seating plan is as follows:

Non-military students will occupy the top 10 rows in the student section.

Corps seniors will occupy the top portions of sections 129, 130, 131 and 132, but below the non-reggs. This consists of the portion of the sections above the main aisle.

Corps juniors will occupy the portion of section 131 next to the band, all of the lower portions (below the main aisle) of sections 129 and 130, and the upper portion of section 128 below the non-military students.

Corps sophomores and freshmen will occupy all of sections 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127 and the lower portion of section 128.

Ramp entrances are as follows: Corps seniors and juniors: ramps O and P.

Corps sophomores and freshmen: ramps M and N.

Non-military students should enter all ramps listed above, and should not crowd O and P near the 50-yard line.

Aggie Delegation Refuses to Sit

By BILL ROBINSON
Battalion Staff Writer

Police forced the A&M delegation to move from one section of the stadium to another Saturday night at the A&M-Arkansas football game in Little Rock.

The Aggie delegation was sitting in the section, allotted them which was located on the fifty yard line. A&M's student body was standing up during the game according to one of the customs of the college.

Fans sitting behind the group began to protest and demand that the Aggies sit down. The announcer of the public address system asked the "delegation from Texas" to sit down. The request was repeated twice.

Little Rock police began to gather around the A&M group. An eye witness said there were about 40 policemen who collected around the group. Some of these were state police, but most of them were Little Rock police.

Film Society Will Show Next Movie Friday

The A&M film society will show "The Fan" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Memorial Student Center ballroom.

Starring Jeanne Crain, Madeline Carroll, George Sanders and Richard Greene, the movie is a comedy based on the Edwardian London society.

"The Charge of the Light Brigade", shown Oct. 26, will be brought Dec. 13. The film will be re-shown since few people knew about it because of its late announcement, said Jerry Bennett, society president.

Other movies and their schedule are: Message to Garcia—Wallace Beery, Barbara Stanwyck—Nov. 13.

Man Hunt—Walter Pidgeon, Joan Bennett, George Sanders—Dec. 2.

They Died With Their Boots On—Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Gene Lockhart—Jan. 1.

Sergeant York—Gary Cooper—Feb. 12.

Dark Victory—Bette Davis, George Brent, Geraldine Fitzgerald—March 25.

Kiss of Death—Richard Widmark, Victor Mature, Coleen Gray, Brian Donlevy—April 2.

Johnny Belinda—Lew Ayres, Jane Wyman—April 30.

Letter to Three Wives—Jeanne Crain, Linda Darnell, Ann Southern, Paul Douglas—May 17.

Sam Harper, A&M senior student from Houston, was grabbed by three policemen. He was struck several times by the officers as they led him from the stadium.

T. M. Harrington, chancellor of the A&M system, with Capt. Emmett Trant and Capt. A. K. Sparks, military counselors, started talking with the police.

Sparks said Harrington then turned to Vol. M. Montgomery, head yell leader, and said, "Monty, let's move and we'll go with you."

(Harrington is out of town at a conference in Virginia and unavailable for comment.)

The A&M group filed from the stands and walked around the football field to their new section on the goal line on the other side of the stadium as the Arkansas band played "Taps."

Marvin Potts, Little Rock police chief, made the following statement to The Battalion, through Associated Press:

"I saw and talked to the student as he was led to stadium gate. He showed no signs of beating and made no complaints at the time. He was escorted to the gate by two officers who turned him over to the gate man for expulsion. The officers then returned to stands.

"The entire incident was regrettable. Someone here made the mistake of scheduling standing unit at mid-field section. However, something had to be done. I sincerely appreciated help from Dr. M. T. Harrington. Without his assistance there would have been a riot. People in the stands were irritated because they felt they hadn't paid $3.60 per seat to stand."

Many A&M former students followed the group to the new location. The group immediately sang "The 12th Man," an A&M school song.

Apologized to Aggies

The Arkansas cheer leaders came over to the Aggie section shortly after the moving and apologized to the Aggies for themselves and the entire Arkansas student body.

Jerry Green, president of the Arkansas student body sent a telegram yesterday to Ide Trotter jr., president of A&M's senate, and to the co-editors of The Battalion. Green said:

"Am sorry about the unfortunate circumstances which arose at the game Saturday night. However it is hard for us to make proper arrangements in Little Rock. And we can't feel any responsibility for actions of Little Rock police."

Trotter said, "I can appreciate Arkansas' student body president's position. But this still doesn't make us feel any better." Trotter said the incident has been placed on the student senate agenda for Thursday night.

him to keep his head above the water. Everytime a wave closed over us he would strangle and get more hysterical.

"I had a bad lung from a case of pneumonia, and I could feel myself growing weaker. I was afraid I was going to have to turn him loose to keep us both from drowning.

"He kept praying and pleading with me not to turn him loose. I managed to hang on somehow. A life preserver had been thrown to us, but I couldn't see it for the waves," he said.

When the boat had circled back to the two men, Dr. Dale Leipper, head of the department, and Dr. C. W. Hood, oceanography department, swam out with a life saver. The four men then were pulled aboard.

Stein said the award was a complete surprise. "A guy interviewed me about the incident a long time ago, but, when nothing happened, I never gave it any more thought," he said.

A post graduate student from Berlin, N.H., Stein is now working on his doctor's degree in biological oceanography. He entered A&M in June, 1952, and expects to complete his PhD in around a year and a half.

He received his bachelor of science degree in biology and his master of science in physiology from the University of New Hampshire in Durham. He was graduated magna cum laude.

Chest Drive Gets $250 in Advance

About $250 in advance donations has been contributed to the A&M College-College Station Community Chest-Red Cross.

Fred Benson, chest committee chairman, said the advance donations had come in before the drive officially opened yesterday. The drive will continue through Nov. 14.

"However, we haven't gone far enough into the drive to know how things look," he said. "Everything is in good shape and we are receiving good cooperation."

R. A. Houze, publicity chairman for the drive, said everyone seemed very optimistic that the chest would reach its $13,070 goal for this year.

Fifty people are working on the drive.

"We are not going to pressure anyone into giving; we are just going to ask everyone to contribute," Houze said.

The chest committee will not give placards to each contributor showing he has donated to the drive. Instead, they will give a billfold-size card to everyone contributing.

The drive includes the Red Cross. Last year the Red Cross held its own drive, raising $1,800. This year the committee attempted to consolidate all fund-raising campaigns into one drive, Houze said.

"Contributors to the Red Cross may receive a Red Cross membership card for gifts of at least $1," Houze said. "Those designating the Tuberculosis association on their gifts or those giving undesignated gifts may keep the Christmas seals mailed to them."

Organizations included in this year's budget are Brazos County Tuberculosis association, Girls Scouts, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Brazos County hospital charity fund, College Station recreation program.

Manufacturers Call Service No Problem

There is no problem for college graduates who wish to begin working before entering armed services, agreed four industrial leaders who formed a discussion in the Memorial Student Center assembly room Monday evening.

The panel of four industrialists from the Texas Manufacturers association, was sponsored by the Business society.

It consisted of the following men: Louis Ball, Southwestern manager of the Rheem Manufacturing Co., Houston; Frank Chrenick, assistant general manager of the Diamond Alkali Co., Pasadena; George Miles, director of industrial relations of the Sheffield Steel Corp., Houston; and J. R. McEntee, Shell Corp., Houston. Kenneth Flagg of Fabricon, Inc., Austin, was moderator.

"According to law, the job is still yours after you return from service even though someone else

Dorm 5 Votes For Student Senator

Balloting for non-military student senator from dormitory 5 is being conducted this afternoon in the dormitory 5 lounge.

Eugene T. Skidmore and Ronald G. Gardner are running for the post.

The election will close at 6 p. m. today. Results will be announced tomorrow.

A&M-UT Game Tickets Sold Out

The A&M football game with the University of Texas is a sell out.

Already the girl in the ticket window at the Athletic office is saying, "Sorry, sir; sold out."

Pat Dial, business manager of the athletic department, said Texas university might possibly send back a few low end zone tickets later this week.

This will be a record attendance for Kyle Field with the new extension. The seating capacity is 41,778.

VETS MOVE—Junior and senior veterinary students moved about 40 horses yesterday afternoon from the old hospital to the new veterinary hospital across the tracks on the airport road. A Campus Security escort cleared the way for the patients.
