and therefore they leave A&M for more liberal colleges. Objective examinations offer little chance for a student to express himself, the report said, so more subjective type examinations should be given by A&M professors when suitable. The report added that more emphasis should be placed on correct spelling.

After voting to reject the portion of the committee's report asking that exemptions from final examinations be done away with, the council rephrased the report by all means retain the exemption system as it is at present.

Councilors felt the system was good for A&M because it provides the necessary incentive to study and allows more time to be devoted to other final examinations.

Also, the council recommendation asked that as much time as possible be reserved by instructors the week before finals for review.

Extra-Curricular Activities

The evaluation group praised the work of the Memorial Student Center directorate and the student life committee for the work those two groups have done to further student-faculty relations and recommended that the council support the lecture series planned by the MSC forum committee.

Tickets On Sale For Friday Dinner

Persons who plan to attend the annual Christmas dinner Friday at 7 p. m. in Sbis hall for A&M college and system members should get their tickets at once, said W. R. Horsley.

Fish Wives Present Next AVMA Meeting

The freshmen wives will be in charge of the meeting of the American Veterinary Medicine auxiliary at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the social room of the Memorial Student Center.

Batt Discussed

Persons here have been accusing The Battalion of "hurting A&M" with some of its news stories and editorials.

Cadet Col. Fred Mitchell told the committee that he was one of the persons who visited White. He said he wanted Holder and Bennett removed from office because he believed they were hurting the college. The cadet colonel said he also wanted the qualifications for Battalion editor changed. He believed that not enough students

Ex-Batt Staff Member Heads Public Relations

Former student and Battalion staff member Paul B. Berry jr., '51, has been appointed director of public relations and account executive of Rowland Broiles Co. of Fort Worth.

Berry was a lieutenant colonel in A&M's corps of cadets. He has been on the staff of The Dallas Morning News and was editor of the Dallas Aggie, official publication of the Dallas A&M Club.

Editors

Editors, The Battalion: John Clark left our school more than a month ago. Each day I read in The Battalion of someone writing either to praise or condemn him. Why not forget Clark and all his ideas and devote our efforts to a better Texas A. and M.?

Someone was correct. A&M is not known for its Editors. William J. Garrett White said that the Student Life constitution was drawn up without committees for yell leaders and Student Publications. Student Entertainment has a committee. The Student Life Committee supervises all three activities.

The Student Life committee also voted to give all profits from the Twelfth Man Bowl to the Student Aid committee. Student Life members also passed a motion by Mitchell to set up a committee to study the Who's Who selection method.

This action followed a complaint by Fields. He didn't believe that students who failed to get elected to Who's Who should be allowed to try for the award again if they were still in school another year. Fields said some students were getting two chances and others only one.

Fruit To Be Sent To Temple Veterans

A&M students will play a big part in making the "sweet" Christmas cheer for the 1,150 patients at the veterans administration hospital in Temple a huge success, said P. L. (Pinky) Downs, jr.

Boxes will be placed at the entrances to Sbis and Duncan dining halls on the morning of Dec. 16. Apples and oranges will be placed in the boxes and taken to the Memorial Student Center to be assembled for transportation to Temple. Cadet Col. of the Corps Fred Mitchell is responsible for taking the fruit to the MSC.

Downs is in charge of the "sweet" Christmas cheer for the patients. He said 3,000 apples and oranges will be collected.

Those contributing are residents of College Station, faculty, staff, employees and students of A&M, A&M Consolidated high school and Lincoln high school for Negroes.

Western Union To Move To MSC

Movement of the College Station Western Union offices from the Exchange store to the Memorial Student Center will be completed during the Christmas holidays.

Presently on the second floor of the Exchange store, the offices will be placed in the MSC telephone center, said J. Wayne Stark, MSC director.

The move will not require any major remodeling, he said.
