"The total of $1252.42 contributed during the Mothers March on Polio last Friday night exceeded our most optimistic dreams," Mrs. John V. Perry, chairman of the Mothers March reported.

"The remarkable success of the march was due to the warm co-operation of everyone in College Station," she said. Over 100 women marchers gave their time and services in collecting donations.

The amounts collected in each district were student housing (projects and College View), $153.55; campus homes, $41; College Hills, $434.69; Worth Gate and Cooner addition, $235.84; residences south of campus, $346.22; Jones Bridge road area, $6.60; and Negro residences in the city, $34.52.

Families were reminded at 7 p. m. Friday by the blowing of the college whistle, ringing of church bells, and radio reminders throughout the day.

Members of the A&M Consolidated high school band under the direction of R. L. Boone cruised through each section of the city reminding families to turn on their porch lights.

The truck used was donated by the Marion Pugh lumber company. The national guard patrolled the

She complimented the residents of College Station for the fine record set by Friday's contributions.

Terrell Singers Will Present Program Here

A group of singers from Southwestern Christian College of Terrell will present a special program at the A&M Church of Christ at 6:15 p. m. Sunday.

This group has been selected from a large acappella chorus of the Negro school and consists of quartets, sextets and other special arrangements. The chorus has attracted favorable attention in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Founded in 1950, the Terrell school is directed by a board of trustees composed of both white and Negro members.

Primarily it seeks to train young people for active church service, while at the same time providing a standard junior college education. Singing is emphasized in all activities of the college and over half of the students of the past year were in the college chorus.

SWCC has a faculty staff of some twelve persons and has graduated more than 120 students in short history. Many of the graduates of the junior college are now enrolled in standard colleges and universities and others are receiving a terminal third year of work at Southwestern.

James F. Fowler, minister of the A&M Church of Christ, extended an invitation to the public to attend the meeting.

Inside Story

heard the same rumors I had about his being fired.

Irvin said, "That ought to come from the people who hire me. I don't know what's in the cards."

I asked him why he wasn't at the last meeting of the council. He said, "No comment."

Cleared It Up

It took the next conversation to clear up that question. Richard (Red) Harris, corps representative to the athletic council, said Irvin is "on the council in an advisory capacity, and we were just interviewing (coaches) and it was felt he wasn't needed."

Harris said, "No boy wants to come here if he doesn't know who his coach will be." I asked Harris if he had been visited by any of the students in the corps whom he represents, and what the majority of opinion was. He said:

"Yes, several boys have come by to see me. Most of those I have talked with want to hire Michalske." He said some athletes were among the students who visited him, and the majority of these also wanted to hire Michalske.

Harris added, "I would like to say this. There are some exes and some students who don't believe we have depth and material, and that, to me, is sometimes a debatable question."

A source which I contacted, and who didn't want his name used, said there was no great pressure on the athletic council which brought about the resignation of coach Ray George. He said there was some, but the members expressing this view were in a minority.

This source also added that "the general opinion" of the council is that "Irvin has done a fine job." But he admitted that this was not the opinion of the entire council.

And then there's the classical quote given The Battalion by W. L. Penberthy, dean of men and chairman of the athletic council:

Would you say the field for a coach is still wide open?

"No, I wouldn't say the field is still WIDE open."

Would you say it has been narrowed any?

"Well... I'll just say that we're going to meet and look into it as best we can."
