Because of the interest in the contest to name Cadet Slouch's roommate, The Battalion will extend the voting through 10 p. m. tonight.

The rules are the same; that is, there are practically no rules. The ballot box is by the post office entrance of the Memorial Student Center.

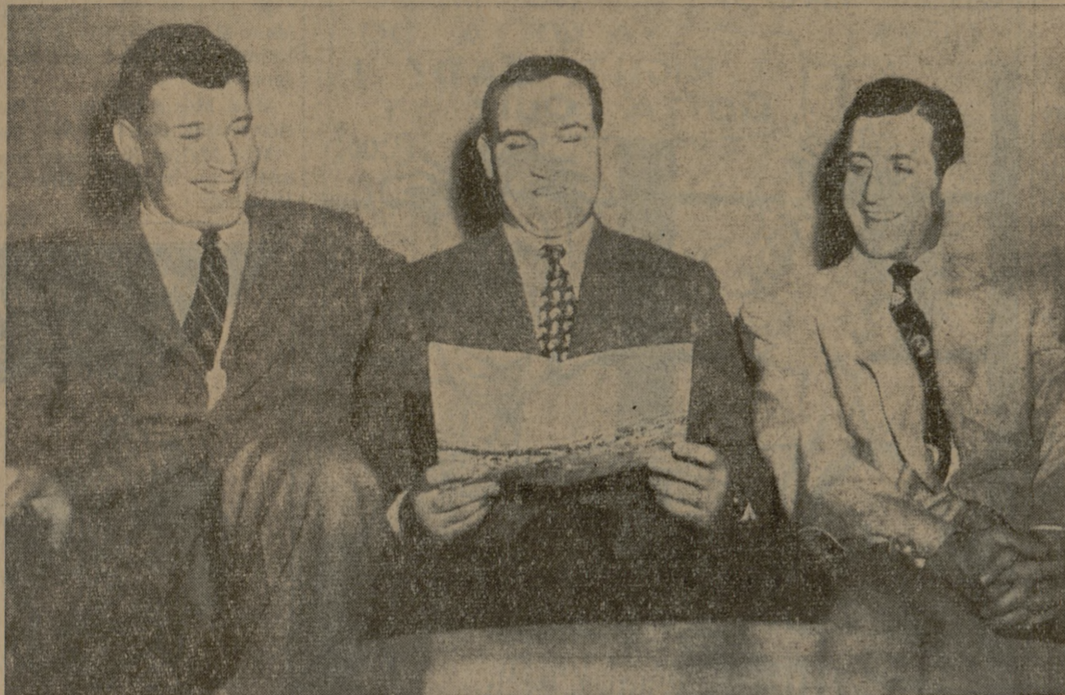

You can vote for anyone, and you can vote as often as you want to.

Ballots must be signed, so The Batt can award the prize, originals of Slouch cartoons featuring the roommate.

The judges will be James Earle, the cartoonist, and Jerry Bennett and Ed Holder, Battalion co-editors.

And of course, to keep things democratic, the judges reserve the right to throw away any or all ballots.

The name of the winner will be announced soon.

ASSISTANT COACHES—Three of the five man staff which athletic director and head coach Paul (Bear) Bryant named this morning are pictured as they read the "Handbook for Faculty and Staff," to familiarize themselves with A&M. The new assistants are (l. to r.) Jim Owens, who will work with linemen; Jerry Claiborne, who will work with backs, and Phil Cutchins who will also work with the backs. Pat Jones, other new assistant, is enroute to College Station from Lexington.

Bryant Names Assistant Coaches This Morning

New Trainer, Four Others From KU; Zapalac To Stay

Five new members were named this morning to the A&M athletic department by Paul (Bear) Bryant, new head football coach and athletic director.

The new men, all associated with Bryant at Kentucky, are Jim Owens, Phil Cutchin, Jerry Claiborne, Pat James and Charles (Smoky) Harper.

No mention was made of the status of Aggie Line Coach Mike Michalske. He could not be located this morning.

Barlow (Bones) Irvin, former athletic director, will be an administrative assistant in the athletic office. Willie Zapalac, last season's freshman coach, will remain as chief scout and also will work with the backfield.

Owens, former all-American end at Oklahoma, and James, who played under Bryant at Kentucky, will work with the line. Cutchin and Claiborne, who also were coached by Bryant at Kentucky, will work with the backs.

Harper will be the team trainer. All members of the coaching staff will work with the freshmen. "The freshmen are entitled to the best," said Bryant.

Owens, Cutchin and Claiborne arrived at College Station last night. James is in New Boston, O., where his mother is critically ill.

Co-captain of the 1949 Sooner Sugar Bowl team, Owens joined the Kentucky staff shortly after the Wildcats beat Oklahoma in the '50 Sugar Bowl game. He played in four bowl games while at OU—the '47 Gator Bowl, the '49-'50 Sugar Bowl games, and the '50 Senior Bowl.

In World War II Owens was in the Naval Air corps. He played with the professional Baltimore Colts in '50 and was end coach on the Johns Hopkins staff.

James was shifted to the line in his Kentucky playing days and became one of the nation's finest defensive guards before ending his playing career in the 1951 Sugar Bowl.

Cutchin finished in football at Kentucky in 1946. In '47 he became assistant football coach at Ohio Wesleyan and was recalled to the service in December, 1950.

He served in Korea for a year and was appointed at Kentucky August 1, 1952.

Claiborne also joined the Wildcat staff in August, '52. He was an outstanding safetyman and end during four years of varsity play under Bryant. He was regarded as one of the nation's top pass interceptors and became head football coach at Augusta, Va., Military academy after graduation.

Harper is a 1923 graduate of Mercer university at Macon, Ga.

The A&M Film Society will show "Sergeant York" tomorrow night in the Memorial Student Center ball room.

The show, which won actor Gary Cooper an academy award, starts at 7:30. A foreign language movie, "Dream No More," will be shown at the same time on Monday night.

Three reviews set for this semester

At least three corps reviews are planned for the spring semester, said Maj. Luther Westbrook, operations officer of the air science department.

The three already scheduled are for Military day, Parents' day, and Final Review. A fourth is being considered for the week of Federal inspection, but no definite decision has been reached.

A practice for the Military day review will be held at the drill period Feb. 18.

The reviewing stand on the main drill field should be repaired in time for Military day, Westbrook added.

Kiwanians Planning Junior Clubs Here

Plans are underway to organize junior Kiwanis clubs for the A&M and A&M Consolidated high school students.

The Circle K will be for the college students and will be open to any classification.

The Key club is for the high school students and will be for sophomores through seniors.

Qualifications, meeting place and time have not been set, said John B. Longley, chairman of the Circle K and Key club committee for College Station Kiwanis club.

For the present, any student in good standing and of good character will be the sole qualifications, said Longley.

It is a wonderful opportunity to set up these clubs in which the students can be of better service to the schools and give the students good training in such club work, he said.

We hope to have a pre-organization meeting the last week in February, Longley said.

MSC Music Room Gets Phonograph

A new high-fidelity record player has been added to the Memorial Student Center's music room.

Remodeling of the original music room was completed two weeks ago. Three separate record-playing rooms have replaced the original one room.

The original room had been divided by partitions to give a three room effect, but the remodeling was necessary because of acoustical difficulties.

MSC music committeeman Bob King says that the new hi-fi set has been "very popular."

The H. W. Hull family of Midland gave the record player in memory of their son, Robert W. Hull, '46, who was killed in World War II.

The high-fidelity set is the first of its type, but second record player for the MSC. A new speaker cabinet has been installed in the old record player.

Esten is chairman of a TETA committee to study improving acting courses in Texas colleges. He will present his findings at the meeting.

Radio Series Has College Student Theme

How college students meet individual problems is the general theme of the radio series "Report From the Dean," starting Feb. 21 over WTAW.

Scheduled to be carried over more than 20 stations of the Texas State network and five West Texas stations of the Cactus network as a public service feature, the series will run for 13 weeks.

Written, directed and produced by Harry L. Kidd, jr. of the English department, the programs have a cast of 15 people. Bob Hollenbaugh, a student announcer on the WTAW staff, plays the part of the dean in the dramatic series.

"We owe a vote of thanks to the staffs of KORA and WTAW radio stations for their cooperation in helping us to prepare the series," Kidd said.

For the third successive spring, the Texas State network is carrying a radio series originating at A&M, Kidd said.

Even HS Day Awaits Word From Bryant

Everything at A&M is waiting on Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant — even High School day.

The date for High School day cannot be set until Bryant gives the word, said W. D. (Pete) Hardesty, business manager of student activities.

Hardesty said the date would be set as soon as Bryant gets in the swing of things and has a schedule set for spring training.

"The program will probably be about the same as last year, but we will not know until Coach Bryant has time to look things over," Hardesty said.

MSC Telegraph Near Completion

Completion of the new Memorial Student Center telegraph facilities has been delayed until the last part of this month.

J. Wayne Stark, MSC director, said the new location of the telegraph office should prove to be much more convenient than the old location in the Exchange store.

The telegraph office had to move because of lack of storage space.

According to Stark, if the MSC had not had space in the telephone center, the telegraph office would have been moved off the campus.

Work was begun during the Christmas holidays when a new counter was installed in the telephone center. Some of the telephone equipment has been moved around to accommodate the telegraph facilities.

Police School Sets Graduation Date

The Texas Municipal Police school Feb. 26 will graduate 25 police officers representing 17 Texas cities.
