Oklahoma Aggies Win Local Rodeo, A&M Places Sixth

The Oklahoma A&M rodeo team won first place in the Texas A&M Intercollegiate rodeo held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Oklahoma team had a total of 412 points. Sul Ross state college was second with 369 points, Hardin-Simmons university was third with 257, Sam Houston state was fourth with 233. The Texas A&M team was sixth with 190 points.

Architects Now Taking Mexican Trip

Ten architectural students who graduate next month will leave by automobile Saturday for an 18-day tour of Mexico. C. K. Vetter will accompany them.

Students making the trip are Richard Atmar, Fred McCown, Alex Brailas, Charles Burgess, James Hughes, Paul Hufford, Pete Manos, Billy Wayne Shannon, David Wicks and Rembert A. Yeager.

The group will spend two days in Monterrey, about two weeks in and near Mexico City, and return to the campus April 22.

Purpose of the tour, Vetter said, is to study Mexican contemporary architecture. This will include visits to private homes, the new modern University of Mexico, the pyramids and other Mexico City landmarks.

Vetter is instructor of the fifth-year design class and made the trip last year. He has arranged for two graduates of the college now residing in Mexico City, Mateo Ortiz and Antonio Malo, to guide the tour.

The hand-tooled saddle went to all-around champion cowboy Clyde Martin of Sam Houston who had a total of 172 points. Martin won first in the saddle bronc and second in the bareback riding. Runner-up to all-round was brother Tex Martin of the Sul Ross, Tex was bull riding champion and placed second in the saddle bronc.

The all-round champion cowboy was Amy McGilvary of Texas Christian university. Amy won first in the goat tying and third in the clover leaf barrel race.

Ira Akers of Sul Ross was champion bareback rider, Lee Cockerall of Hardin-Simmons won the calf roping, Sonny Sikes of Sam Houston won the ribbon roping, Wayne Cox of Oklahoma A&M won the steer wrestling, Elaine Pease of Sam Houston won the barrel race.

The champion cutting horse was Reno, owned by A. J. West of Sulphur, La., and ridden by Cotton Kinney of McNeese state college.

The members of the A&M team were Bobby Rankin, Lowie Rice, Billy Steele, Kenneth Beasley, George Vincent, and Bill Bell. Vincent won third in the calf roping and Steele won third in the ribbon roping. There were 127 contestants from 21 colleges entered in the rodeo.

Dedication Marks New School Site

Separate ceremonies were held Sunday for the dedication of the new 20-acre A&M Consolidated high school site and the new Lincoln high school gymnasium.

Dr. Charles LaMotte, president of the College Station Educational commission, presided at both of the dedications.

A short program included a poem by fifth grader Don Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson and the playing of the A&M Consolidated high school band.

Fred Brison, horticulture department, directed the planting of a Sam Houston pecan tree on the site.

The Centennial Action committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. W. Fleming got the historic sapling.

The new high school building will accommodate four to five hundred students. The new auditorium will seat 616.

The new site, next to the existing school system, is the first addition to the campus acreage in 5 years and was made necessary by the tremendous scholastic increase in the past five years, said L. S. Richardson, superintendent.

A short program consisting of songs sung by the Lincoln elementary school chorus, the high school chorus, and the girls ensemble was climaxed by the dedication of the new Lincoln gym.

Dr. John S. Rogers, vice president of the school board, dedicated the building by handing the keys over to W. A. Tarrow, principal of the Lincoln schools.

Seventy-five persons were on hand at the high school building site and about 200 persons watched the dedication of the new gym.

Two Non-Regs Resign From Run-Off For Hotly Contested Class Elections

Ag Department Aiding Study On Graduates

A&M's school of agriculture is cooperating with the federal government in a study of the qualifications of agricultural graduates for civil service work.

All land grant schools in the country are helping in the plan, which is designed to test the graduate's ability, the test given for civil service work, and the teaching of the school.

All agriculture graduating seniors will take the civil service test for junior agricultural assistants Friday.

They will be excused from classes all day. The test is in two parts, requiring about three hours each. The seniors will meet in the biology lecture room at 8 a.m. Friday and again at 1 p.m.

The civil service test is only for the study, and will not enable the students to get a civil service rating.

"The success of this test depends on the participation of all graduating seniors and I earnestly request your full cooperation," said Charles N. Shepardson, dean of agriculture.

Most Positions Undecided; Run-Off Will Be Tuesday

A&M's most hotly contested student election in years ended yesterday with two non-military candidates withdrawing from the scheduled run-offs "in the interest of harmony."

Hugh Lanktree, candidate for senior class vice president, and Frank Davis, candidate for senior class social secretary, told The Battalion last night that they would withdraw to "further the interest of having a more proportionate representation in the class offices."

Before the withdrawal, one non-military student would have been a candidate for each senior class position in the run-off. The run-off was made necessary by yesterday's election.

Name Contest To Be Held Tomorrow

"Applepolishing Night" needs a new name, and everybody in the college community is going to have a chance to help select one.

The night, a student-professor relations night sponsored by the student life committee, will be April 27. It will include visits in professors' homes by students.

The originally proposed name, "Applepolishing night," has been rejected because too many people felt it was not appropriate.

The student-faculty relations committee of the SLC is giving everyone a chance to nominate a name by setting up a ballot box in the Memorial Student Center all day tomorrow.

The box will be by the post office entrance of the MSC, and everyone—student, professor or employee—is eligible to suggest a name.

As many names as desired can be suggested. This election will be kind of like the "Name the Roommate" contest—"Vote early and vote often."

AFROTC Students May Join Reserve

Any freshman and sophomore air science students from the Fort Worth-Dallas area interested in joining the 8708 pilot training wing of the air reserve can get information on the program at a meeting tonight in the civil engineering lecture room.

The 8708 wing is stationed at Hensley field, between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Aldon Murphy, at 4-4182 or 4-9964, can give additional information on the program.

Carle Will Play For Cotton Ball

Frankie Carle, his piano and his orchestra, will play for the Cotton Ball, Friday, April 23.

The ball will be held in the Grove from 9 p. m. to 1. It will be formal. Tickets are $2.50 stag or date.

Carle is a pianist, orchestra leader, and composer. "Sunrise Serenade," theme song for his band, "Love's Lullaby," "Falling Leaves," and "Oh What It Seemed to Be," are his best sellers.

The Cotton Ball is an annual dance sponsored by the Agronomy society. It is dedicated to cotton.

Dr. Carmichael Will Speak At Inauguration

Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, president of the University of Alabama, will deliver the address at the inauguration of Dr. David H. Morgan as the 13th president of A&M.

The inauguration will be held May 20.

The inauguration speaker, a native of Goodwater, Ala. received his education at the university, holding AB, AM and LLD degrees. A Rhodes Scholar at Oxford university, he received his BS, in 1917. He was a member of the Hoover relief mission in Belgium in 1914 and was in the military service 1917-19.

Carmichael was dean and assistant to the president of Alabama college, 1922-26, and president, 1926-35. He also was dean of the graduate school, Vanderbilt university, 1935-37, vice-chancellor, 1936-37 and chancellor, 1937-46.

He was president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching 1946-53 and in 1953 became president of the University of Alabama.

Fifteen universities have conferred honorary doctor's degrees upon him, including the University of Alabama.

Weather Today CONTINUED CLOUDINESS

Continued cloudiness with light rain showers this afternoon clearing tonight. A cold front will pass through later this evening.

High yesterday 85. Low this morning 68.

the kingly plant of the South. Dave Richmond will reign as King Cotton. His court will be composed of members of the Agronomy society, and their duchesses from TSCW. Other duchesses will represent various clubs and campus organizations.

There will be no cotton pageant this year and no speeches at the Cotton Ball, said Kert Goode, president of the society. We are trying to shorten the program and make it more to the Aggies liking, Goode said.

The dance will have an old south theme. A garden will be "planted" in the middle of the grove and a white picket fence will be erected around outside. The landscape architecture department is assisting in the decorations.

King Cotton and his court will be introduced at 9 p. m. Goode will crown the King who will in turn crown the queen. The duchesses from the southwest conference schools will be introduced and the court will start the dance.

During the intermissions, duchesses from the clubs will be presented to the court. "We are not expecting as many duchesses as last year," Goode said.

Jerry Buster is general chairman for the dance. Richmond is in charge of the decorations and A. D. Youngblood will handle the publicity. Kenneth Durham will make arrangements for the cotton court and duchesses. C. E. Roberts is chairman of the orchestra committee. Dr. H. D. Foth is the faculty sponsor for the society.

The proceeds from the dance will be used to finance a field trip for agronomy students.

Brumfield Wins Design Contest

Tom W. Brumfield, sophomore architecture major from Houston, won $25 first prize in a design competition sponsored by the Title Competition of America.

Fifty-one sophomore students entered the contest, which was to design a tile bathroom. Honorable mention went to Billy B. Bedford of Henderson and Blanton Ray of Denton.

Walton Resigns Post As Local Postmaster

T. O. Walton, College Station postmaster, has resigned because of age.

A new postmaster has not been named yet. N. L. McCullough is acting postmaster.
