Riding Classes Proposed for A&M

By NEO GRANGER
Battalion Staff Writer

Kenneth C. Bresnen, '43, of Aiken, S. C., has presented President David H. Morgan a proposal to establish a riding class at A&M. Bresnen suggests that riding instruction be established as an elective part of the college curriculum in which students could enroll to receive credit for physical education. Polo could be added as a school sport together with jumping, horse shows, a mounted drill team and perhaps even fox-hunting, said Bresnen.

As Bresnen visualized equitation in the A&M curriculum, there would be four classes. The students having had little or no previous riding experience would be placed in a beginners class for instruction on fundamentals of riding, saddling and bridling of the horse.

Students who would be competent at walk, trot and canter would be placed in the intermediate riders class for instruction on beginning jumping and care of the horse.

For the more advanced student, the advanced riders class would be available. Instruction would include advanced equitation, advanced jumping, stable management and fundamentals of schooling the horses.

The instructor's ride, which would be limited to senior students who would be qualified advanced riders, would include instruction on horsemanship and the technique of instructing equitation.

The operation of the large stable on the campus would provide part-time student employment. There would be stable work morning and evening for several students. In addition several seniors from the instructors ride class would be employed to work with beginner and intermediate riders.

Other colleges offering riding in their curriculum are U C L A, Stevens college, Christian college and Lindenwood.

Bresnen has studied under the prominent society riding master W. H. Gaylard whose clients have been such families as the Vanderbilts, Whitneys, Graces, Corys and Bostwicks.

Riding tuition would be eighty dollars per semester, which would be payable at matriculation, said Bresnen.

Most Offices To Be In Tuesday Run-Off; Election Commission Announces Rules

Justice Hurt In Dormitory Last Night

Pete Justice, sophomore from Sherman, suffered a compound fracture of the arm last night when he tripped in the dark.

Justice fell over his foot locker during the power failure and broke both bones of his left forearm. Last year he injured the same arm in an automobile accident.

He was taken to Bryan hospital at 12:35 a.m. This morning the hospital described his condition as "good." Authorities at the hospital said Justice would probably leave this afternoon, depending on how he felt.

The power went off in buildings and dormitories east of Military walk about 5:30 p.m. yesterday. The building lights were turned on later in the evening, but dormitory lights were not repaired until about 4 a.m. this morning.

The power failure was caused by lightning which struck some of the lines.

No other serious injuries were reported last night.

Fires Cost City $5,531 This Year

Fires have cost the city of College Station about $5,531 above fixed costs since July 12.

This year's total operating expenses will amount to about $7,180 said Ran Boswell, city manager. About $6,000 of this is spent in preventative measures such as mowing grass and weeds, he said.

This year there have been 14 fires within the city limits and one outside of town.

"This year has been about normal as to the number and severity of the fires in and around College Station," Boswell said.

A&M Scholarships Are Poultry Prizes

Poultrymen from Texas and other states will be represented in the annual Chick, Poultry and Egg show May 8 said Alton Fuchs, president of the Poultry Science club.

This year's show contains a division for 4-H and FFA members which consists of chicks and egg entries, Fuchs said. The boy with the winning entry in each class will be awarded a $200 poultry husbandry scholarship to A&M. Trophies will be awarded to the champion and grand champion entries.

'Students Vote By Classes'

Students will vote with the class in which they are academically classified in Tuesday's run-off election.

The ruling was made by the election commission after the question arose of fifth and sixth year non-military students voting in class elections.

The commission felt that graduate, fifth and sixth year students were adequately represented in the student senate, student life committee, and various other non-military offices, Charles (Buddy) Foxworth said.

"It would not be fair for them to vote in elections of classes of which they are not members," he said. Foxworth is chairman of the commission.

Student identification cards will be checked at the polls to insure that no one votes out of his academic classification.

Absentee balloting will be allowed in the election. Absentee ballots can be filed in the student activities office, second floor of Goodwin hall.

The rules for the Tuesday election will apply to absentee balloting.

Run-off ballots are separate ballots, the commission ruled. No one will be selected to fill the vacancies on this ballot brought about by resignations, Foxworth said.

He was referring to the resignations of Hugh Lanktree and Frank Davis, non-military students who were candidates for senior class vice-president and social secretary respectively.

They resigned to "further the interest of more proportionate representation in class offices" after they had been elected to the run-offs.

Before their withdrawal, one non-military student would have been a candidate for each senior class position in the run-off.

Under college regulations the election commission is responsible for conducting all student elections. Rulings made by the commission may be appealed to the student senate.

Voting Boxes To Be in MSC

Most class officer positions are to be decided in the run-off election Tuesday, after the field of candidates was narrowed by the primary election this week.

The ballot boxes, in the Memorial Student Center, will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Here are the candidates, by classes:

Class of '55

Running for senior class president will be Giles Schanen, Conrad Cummings and Don Friend.

Vice president candidates will be Charles Seely and Lawrence Laskoskie. Hugh Lanktree, who was voted the run-off for vice president, withdrew his name Wednesday morning.

In the run-off for secretary are Wallace Eversberg and Dick Crawford.

Dave Ashcroft and Roy Cline are running for social secretary. Frank Davis also withdrew from the social secretary race, after being voted into the run-off.

Treasurer candidates will be John Cozad, Buck Isbell and Dick McCasland. Running for parliamentarian will be Jerry Johnson, Billy Steele and Joe Stovall.

In the run-off for sergeant at arms will be Tommy Durdin, Paul Savage and Clarence Hatcher.

Yell leader candidates will be Glenn Langford, Howard Childers and Sam Akard. The candidate with the most number of votes will be head yell leader; the next man will be senior yell leader.

Class of '56

Running for president of next year's junior class will be Allen Greer, Lloyd Billingsley and Tommy Short.

Vice president candidates will be Glenn Buell, John Liddy and Eugene Stubblefield.

Running for secretary will be B. A. (Scotty) Parham and Richard Tachibana.

In the run-off for social secretary will be Clay McFarland, Bob Lee and Wayne Leverkuhn.

Treasurer candidates will be Robert Whitley, Jack Pearson and Larry Kennedy.

Ed Fries and Pete Scrivano will be in the run-off for sergeant at arms.

Running for junior yell leader will be David Baily, Paul Holladay and John Cunningham. The two with the most votes will be next year's junior yell leaders.

Class of '57

John Peeler and Douglas De Cluitt will be in the run-off for next year's sophomore class president.

Vice president candidates will be Joseph Sanders, Jon Cobb and Irving Ramsover.

Run-off candidates for social secretary will be M. E. Nelson and Durward Thompson.

Running for sergeant at arms will be Howard Butter an Warren Chapman.

Erwin Pavlik and Leon Curtis will be in the run-off for parliamentarian.

MSC Council

In the run-off for junior-senior representative to the Memorial Student Center council will be Dave Ashcroft and James R. Mathis.

Competition between corps students and non-military students brought out a vote of 1,806 for the primary election Tuesday.

The results of the primary caused two non-military students who were voted into the run-off to withdraw their names. The students, Lanktree and Davis, said they withdrew "in an effort to assure all concerned that we are not trying to force a non-military slate on the senior class."

A non-military candidates was voted into the run-off for each senior class position at the primary.

2. All employees of the college and members of their families over 15.

MSC Council Sets Monday Meeting

The Memorial Student Council council will discuss the wearing of fatigues in the MSC at its meeting at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the senate chamber.

Fatigues can be worn in the post office, fountain room and throughout the MSC only in inclement weather, according to cadet corps regulations.

"Several complaints have been received concerning just what the policy of the council is on this matter," said John Samuels, president.

"An a matter of fact, the council has never expressed its opinion in regard to the problem. Discussion and possibly action on the matter is necessary at this meeting," said Samuels.

Other items on the agenda are committee reports on the council-directorate banquet, Rue Pinalle, the sex relation program and the Aggie Muster.

3. All residents of College Station over 15.

4. All A&M Consolidated high school and Lincoln high school students over 15.

The x-ray will be free. It will not be necessary to remove articles of clothing. Persons taking the x-ray will be notified of the results by mail, and all results are confidential.

Hometown Club Shows Aggie Film

High school students of eight southwest Texas towns will see the film "We Are The Aggies" while it is on a three day tour in that area.

Sponsored by the Southwest Texas hometown club, the showings on April 11, 12 and 13 are designed to acquaint high school boys with A&M and to build up interest in the college.

Members of the club will be available during the trip to answer questions that might arise concerning curriculums offered at A&M, the athletic program, military life and other phases of interest.

Scheduled showings include Hondo, Devine, D'Hanis, Uvalde, Crystal City, Carrizo Springs, Pearsall and Cotulla.
