A&M Student Gets Fulbright Award

The first Fulbright award to an A&M student has been granted to Glenn H. Jung of Rocky Ford, Colo. The award is a U. S. government grant permitting a student to study abroad for one year with all expenses paid. Dr. Ralph Steen of the history department is the local Fulbright program advisor.

Jung is a graduate student majoring in oceanography and will be the first oceanographer from A&M to carry out a part of study program abroad. While a graduate student he has worked as research assistant, associate in oceanography and as acting assistant professor.

Prior to coming to A&M Jung was a research assistant at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, from which he received S. R. and S. M. degrees in oceanography. He also was a weather officer in the air force from 1944 to 1947.

Jung is a member of the American Meteorological Society and Sigma Xi. He has written articles which were published in the Journal of Meteorology and in the Journal of Marine Research.

He and his family plan to arrive in Oslo, Norway, July 3. The award makes it possible for Jung to study in the country where most of the early theoretical development of oceanography and meteorology took place. Norway also is the home of several world authorities in physical oceanography. Among them are Dr. H. U. Sverdrup and Dr. H. Mosby.

Local Stations Will Hold Charity Day

The 32 members of the Brazos Valley Service Station association, will give 10 per cent of their total sales to charity, Tuesday May 4, said John R. Bachus, president of the group.

The day will be officially designated, Texas Service Station Appreciation Day. The purpose of the day is to help local service organizations in their charitable work, Bachus said.

The idea for the Appreciation Day originated in Fort Worth. It is sponsored by the Texas Service Station association of which the Brazos Valley group is a member.

As the customer enters the station on May 4, he will be given an opportunity to designate which organization he wishes his purchase to be credited.

The 10 per cent will apply to all purchases, including gasoline, oil, washing, lubrication, tires and accessories, Bachus said. If the station is too busy to take the customer's car on that day, the customer may pay for the service and have the work done within the next six days. The purchase will still be credited to the organization of his choice.

All services rendered or ordered between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. will be counted in the total.

"We don't expect to make any money that day; we just hope to break even," Bachus said.

L. H. Courtney is program chairman for the day.

"We hope to have this type of program about four times a year, for the benefit of various charities," Bachus added.

Aggie Painter To Speak in MSC

E. M. (Buck) Schiwetz, '21, nationally known painter of Texas scenes, will give a demonstration lecture in the fountain room of the Memorial Student Center at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 21.

Schiwetz will lecture on his style of work and will demonstrate his techniques in sketching and water color work.

His trip is sponsored by the MSC art gallery committee. Jules Vieux is chairman of the committee and Gary Bourgeois is in charge of the arrangements border towns, Gulf coast scenes and Louisiana bayous seem to be Schiwetz' favorite subjects.

He was recently given the 1954 Non-member Award of the American Water Color Society. He has published a portfolio of his sketches entitled "Twelve from Texas" and a brochure, "Texas Sketchbook."

TISA Convention Votes Integration

A resolution favoring racial integration in Texas colleges was passed by the annual Texas Inter-collegiate Students association convention in Dallas last Saturday.

The vote in favor of the resolution was passed unanimously by the convention.

Panel discussions were held on various problems concerning student government. Students from the various colleges told how the problems are handled at their schools and the groups discussed ways of improving them.

A&M's representatives to the convention were Don Sheffield, Rodney Heath, Charlie Seely, Howard Childers, Don Benefield, Frank Ford, Sonny Tutt, Ide Trotter, Larry Kennedy, and Scotty Parham.

College Awards Given May 12

An all college Honors Day program has been set for May 12 from 10 a. m. to 12.

The program this year will include all the schools of the college and will be held in the new physical education building, said G. W. Schlesselman, chairman of the committee planning the activities.

Speaker for the program will be T. V. Smith, noted philosophy professor. Details of the program have not been completed.

"We haven't had a regular program in the past," said Schlesselman. "We want all the students and faculty members of the college to attend this one."

This program will replace the individual awards and merits convocations of the various schools of the college, he said.

Smith is now the visiting professor at the University of Texas.

New Publication Sets May Issue

The English department magazine will be published sometime in May.

This first volume of the MSS One will contain a story, poem, descriptive narratives, literary criticisms, and reviews of books and essays. It will be 100 pages and in pocket book form.

Editors for this issue are Guy Dawson, Ray Gossett, Charles Donohue, and William Willis.

Engineering Men To Be On Panel

Four members of the School of Engineering have formed a panel for the annual southwest section meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education to be held in Austin April 16-17.

Those on the panel are Lee Thompson, L. S. O'Bannon and Norman Abramson. R. H. Fletcher will introduce the panel.

The subject is "Recognizing Degrees of Student Maturity," and will be developed by questions for panel and audience participation.

Journalist Issue To Come Out in May

The third issue of the Texas A&M Journalist will be published about May 1, said Jerry Wizig, editor. Included in the bulletin will be stories about former journalism students and events of interest to journalism students and newspapermen.

Batt Extra Set Tonight For Election

The Battalion will publish a special extra edition tonight with the class run-off election results.

The extra will be a mimeographed page and will be placed in the dormitory boxes about midnight.

"Since we will not have a paper tomorrow, we felt the students would want to know the results of the election before they left for the holidays," said Harri Baker, co-editor.

The announcement of the appointment of the corps sergeant major will also be in the extra, Baker said.

800 Attend Kiwanis Club Pancake Meal

More than 800 persons attended the pancake supper sponsored by the College Station-Bryan Kiwanis clubs at the Bryan country club Saturday.

This supper is the first of what plans to be an annual affair co-sponsored by the Kiwanis club with the proceeds going to underprivileged children and youth activities.

There was steady line of persons waiting for their share of pancakes the four hours in which the pancakes were served, said Charles LaMotte, chairman of ticket sales of College Station.

The supper went over very smoothly and everyone had plenty to eat, said LaMotte.

It was a very wonderful experience and we learned many new things, said Wayne Stark, head chef of the supper.

People who attended both of College Station and Bryan saw and met new friends and seemed to have a good time, said Stark.

I recall many who came by for second helpings and even a few who had more than that, said Stark.

Mrs. R. M. Sherwood said that the pancakes served at the supper were the best pancakes she had ever eaten.

MSC Making Plans For TV Installation

The television system is almost ready to be installed in the Memorial Student Center.

There will be two 50 foot masts on top of the new physical education building. Each mast will have four antennae which are connected to eight outlets in the MSC.

The total cost of the antennae system is $2,500. Of this equipment, $1,500 has already been

MSC Ban on Fatigues Revoked by Council

Lack of Policing Force Given as Rule Weakness

The Memorial Student Center council voted last night to recommend to the academic council that the clause prohibiting wearing of fatigues in the MSC be deleted from the college regulations.

Students will be expected to select proper clothing. In the last business meeting of the year, the council voted appreciation awards to various persons who contributed greatly to furthering the functions of the MSC. The awards will be presented at the annual MSC banquet on April 20 in the MSC ballroom.

Don Friend resigned his position on the council to enable him to properly carry out his duties as editor of the 1955 Aggeland. Jules Vieux was selected to replace Friend on the council next year.

Council President John Samuels announced the nominating committee selections for committee chairmen nominees. Of those named, Frank Jagers was appointed chairman of the Music Committee; Charlie Jordan, camera committee and Herman Hassell, great issues chairman.

A motion that permission for the Aggie Muster to be held on the MSC grounds was passed with the observation that the Muster is closely tied to what the MSC symbolizes. Samuels said the MSC and the Muster are both memorials to Aggie dead.

Samuels said the Sex Relations program of the council was a complete failure because the committee failed to coordinate the speaking dates with the publicity. The three Rue Pinalle shows held were highly successful, Samuels said, with two of them being financial successes.

Members of the council and directorate were urged to buy their banquet tickets early so that arrangements for the meal can be worked out.

Sergeant Major Choice May Be Made Today

The appointment of the corps sergeant major will probably be made late this afternoon, said Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant.

If the announcement is made, The Battalion will publish his name in its special election extra Wednesday, said Harri Baker, Battalion co-editor.

Four Students To Receive Scholarships

The faculty committee on scholarships has announced the four winners for this year.

Those receiving the awards are Jerry Hosek, Lolan Pullen, Richard Gentry, Jack Spell.

Hosek received the $500 Krueger award. The scholarship is given to a member of the junior class.

Pullen won the $300 Albert D. Banta senior award. This award is also given to a junior.

Requirement for these two scholarships are students who are working. Their scholastic record, evidence of leadership, character and extra-curricula activities are considered.

Gentry was chosen to receive the $200 Lullie Hughey Land award. This award is given to a sophomore majoring in liberal arts and taking military science. He must have outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, and character and special consideration is given to a student who has overcome difficult obstacles.

Spell received the $100 Brazos county A&M Mothers award. This scholarship is given to a junior who has a record of outstanding qualities of leadership and character with preference given to a resident of Brazos county.

Thompson to Be New President Of CS Lions

Herb G. Thompson of the business administration department has been named president of the College Station Lions club for 1954-55.

Elected yesterday at the Lions club weekly meeting in the Memorial Student Center, Thompson will take office officially in July.

McCall; Lion tamer, Leon Gibbs; tall twister, H. E. Weaver; to the board of directors, Don Young and Howard Berry. Present directors who will serve out the rest of their two-year terms next year are R. C. Bell and Fred P. Jaggi.

Along with this year's president, Lucian Morgan, the new president, first vice president and secretary will attend the annual district 2-S-3 meeting April 25 and 26 in the Stephen F. Austin hotel in Austin.

For their speaker at Monday's meeting, the Lions heard Dr. J. V. Irons, director of the state health department laboratories in Austin. Dr. Irons is on the campus for the short course in animal diseases being held in the MSC.

Dr. Irons discussed the activities of his office and stressed the possibility of catching psittacosis (parrot fever) from parakeets and related birds.

MSC To Be Closed For Easter Holiday

The Memorial Student Center will be closed Friday and Saturday, said J. Wayne Stark, director.

The dining room, coffee shop and browsing library will be closed Thursday. The building will be reopened at 11 a. m. Sunday. Monday the dining room, coffee shop and the bowling area will be closed. The regular schedule will be resumed Tuesday.

The Aggeland Inn will be closed from Wednesday to Tuesday.
