Group Plans To Wage Fight On Brucellosis

A state-wide Brucellosis Committee will be formed as a result of action at Texas A. & M. College April 14.

More than 135 persons from all parts of the state approved a resolution to form the committee. The resolution:

"Whereas: the disease of brucellosis in our livestock constitutes a menace to human health and to the economy of the dairy and livestock industry of Texas and

"Whereas: the eradication of this disease is dependent on the development of an effective state plan for its systematic control and eventual eradication and the enactment of legislation to effectuate and finance such a plan, and

"Whereas: these objectives can best be accomplished through the organized and concerted efforts of a group of interested citizens.

"Therefore: be it resolved (1) that the group here assembled go on record as favoring the development of a state-wide program for the control and eradication of this disease; (2) that a representative state-wide Brucellosis Committee be appointed composed of dairy, poultry and livestock producers, farmers, veterinarians, public animal and human health officials, and other interested individuals to develop and promote such a plan; (3) that we pledge our wholehearted cooperation and support to this committee and (4) that we will endeavor, individually and collectively, to secure the cooperation and support of all dairy, poultry, and livestock organizations, individual producers and the public generally, in this effort to control and eradicate this disease. Unanimously adopted at College Station, Texas, this 4th day of April 1954."

A steering committee to facilitate organization of the committee was named by the group. Director G. G. Gibson, Agricultural Extension Service; Dean W. W. Armitstead, School of Veterinary Medicine; Dean C. N. Shepardson, School of Agriculture; Dr. J. C. Miller, head, Animal Husbandry Department; and Dr. I. W. Rupel, head, Dairy Husbandry Department compose the Steering Committee.

Among those present were representatives from more than 40 organizations and associations, along with many private individuals interested in the problem.

The Junior Poultry Judging team, led by Coach C. B. Ryan of the poultry husbandry department left Monday for the Southern Collegiate Poultry Judging contest in Jackson, Miss.

The team's four members are James B. Tyree of Baytown, John D. Williams of Caldwell, Monroe H. Fuchs of Cameron and Jack M. Couch of Ft. Worth. They will compete with ten other Southern land-grant colleges.

Rainstorms Flood Rio Grande Valley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms lashed the flooded Rio Grande Valley again Wednesday.

The hard rains drove scores more from their homes and brought to 4,000 the number estimated driven out since Friday.

Four persons have died because of the flood.

Storm waters spread clear and deep in three great pools in a 10 by 15 mile area bounded by Edinburg, Pharr, Weslaco and Edcouch-Elba at the west end of Texas' "market basket."

This was the area hardest hit by cloudbursts that dumped up to 11 inches of rain Friday. It was the hardest hit by the hard rains Wednesday.

Few of the thousands who fled their homes suffered. They moved in with relatives and friends. There was almost no want; no public feeding since 200 persons were fed last Monday.

Some highways still lay deep under water. On others cars traveled almost axle-deep through water.

The standing pools were deep enough for some to joy-ride over fields and highways in motor boats.

EASTER TIME is never complete without kids, eggs and rabbits. Here the photographer has found all three. They are Carolyn and Lyn Besch, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Besch.

New Catalogs Ready Soon

The new undergraduate catalogs will be available in June, according to the registrar's office.

Sections of the bulletin are now in preparation at the A&M Press. Covers will be white and maroon, similar to the covers of the current catalogues.

The new publications will differ from previous catalogues in that it will cover the school years 1954-55 and 1955-56, excluding summer sessions. Previous issues have been used for one school year only. This change is not expected to increase the size of the bulletin, which will be about 368 pages.

The next bulletin of the Graduate School is also being planned to cover two school years. It will be printed on alternate years with the undergraduate catalog, in 1955-56 and 1956-57.

Roy Gaul Wins Paper Contest Held By ASCE

Roy D. Gaul, senior civil engineering major from Mineral Wells, won the annual student paper contest held in connection with the semi-annual meeting of the Texas section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, in Midland, April 8-10.

Schools represented in the contest were Rice, University of Houston, University of Texas, Southern Methodist university, Texas Tech, and A&M.

John Mackin, senior civil engineering major from Corpus Christi, co-operated with Gaul on the paper. They worked on the project for about six months.

Subject of the paper was developing a new method of determining frictional head loss in pipes. This question arose last semester while Gaul and Mackin were taking a course under Dr. H. J. Miles who is in charge of teaching and research in hydraulic engineering in the civil engineering department.

Gaul won a $25 award presented to him by Dean D. V. Terrell, national president of the ASCE and dean of the school of engineering at Kentucky university. Dean Terrell was also guest speaker at the meeting.

Pay Raise Will Benefit Over 2,300 Employees of A&M

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, on April 16, 1954, Christians everywhere will observe that day, it being Good Friday; and,

WHEREAS, we are in the Lenten Season and we, as Christians, should honor our Lord Jesus on this day, it being the day that our Blessed Saviour died on the Cross for us and the remission of sins of mankind; and,

WHEREAS, the least that we can do on this day is to go to church and bow our heads in prayer in humility for the sacrifice that the Lord Jesus made for us, and by our acts show that we have not forgotten His sacrifice;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ernest Langford, Mayor of the City of College Station, in the State of Texas, do hereby proclaim the hours from 12:00 Noon to 3:00 p.m. on Good Friday, April 16, 1954, to be observed by the people of the City of College Station as hours of prayer and meditation, and urge every citizen in this City to attend the church of his choice during this period of time; and I further urge that all business houses in this City cease their operations and close during this period.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the seal of the City of College Station, in the State of Texas, to be affixed, this 15th day of April, 1954.

(Signed) Ernest Langford, Mayor
(Seal) City of College Station,
College Station, Texas

Representative B. H. Dewey, Jr., in explaining the provisions of Senate Bill 2 that authorizes a $10 per month pay raise for state employees beginning September 1, 1954, points out that employees of the A & M College System who stand to benefit total approximately 2,300. Of this figure about 1,000 are located in College Station and 1,300 outside of Brazos county.

Employees covered by the pay bill and located in College Station are estimated to number 30 in the System offices, 460 in the Main College, and 510 in the A&M Services. Representative Dewey introduced in the House Appropriations Committee an amendment that was finally passed by both houses bringing under coverage of the pay bill about 1,000 employees of the Services who are paid partly from fixed Federal grants or County funds. Approximately 250 of these are located in College Station.

The employee pay raise, Representative Dewey says, was written to cover only non-academic employees. The teaching staff was covered in the regular appropriation bill passed last May. The pay bill, generally, covers only non-academic employees paid from State General Revenue funds. Thus, employees of Auxiliary Enterprises whose funds come from earnings of the activity, such as the Dining Halls, the Laundry, the A&M Press, the Student Center, etc., are not granted pay increases from the State's General Revenue funds. Any salary increases for Auxiliary Enterprise personnel are dependent on general budget appropriations made by the A&M Board of Directors.
