"DANGEROUS CROSSING"

The Aggie varsity baseball team journeys to Fort Worth tomorrow to take on the TCU Horned Frogs in a one-game stand.

Coach Beau Bell's aggregation stands in second place in South-west conference play, leading Southern Methodist by a game and a half and trailing University of Texas' Longhorns by two games.

Either speedball artist Jerry Nelson or left-hander Joe Hardgrove will take on mound duties for the Cadets in Fort Worth.

A&M's season standing went down following a 4-2 loss to Texas Lutheran Wednesday in Seguin. Although the Lutherans didn't hit a ball out of the infield, they scored four runs on six Aggie bobbles. They had only four hits.

The Aggies' next game is against Rice in Houston on April 27.

OUT FOR SEASON—Varsity baseball captain and former starting second baseman, Charley Leissner will be out of action for the rest of this season. He suffered a back injury in practice several weeks ago.

CHS' Merino Entered In Swim Meet Here

Jose Merino, A&M Consolidated High School senior, will be one of the many school-boy swim stars entered in the State high school meet here tomorrow.

Merino just returned from South America where he won the 100 meter freestyle in 59.9, in the South American Olympics. Merino is expected to set a couple of new records in the freestyle events this week-end. John Harrington will also represent the Tigers. He is a backstroke.

Defending champions Lamar of Houston will have Tracy Word, winner of the breaststroke and individual medley in the Houston city meet. Also the Redskins have Chuck Price breaststroke, Allen Muller, freestyle, and Jim Winn and Buddy Hood divers to cop points for them.

Reagan of Houston will field a very strong team and one that could split up the points so that the meet could go any way.

Moon Gets Fast Start

By CHUCK NEIGHBORS

When old-timer (37) Enos Slaughter, veteran center fielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was traded to the world champion Yankees, a young man replaced him.

On his first day of major league competition, this young man came to the plate for the first time and blasted a home run over the wall in St. Louis' Sportsman Park.

The young man who replaced veteran Slaughter is Wallace Wade Moon who was graduated from A&M in the class of 1951. Wally, as he prefers to be called, was a standout baseball player while playing for the Aggies. He burned up the South American league he played in last winter, leading the loop in home runs, RBIs and hitting.

When this reporter read Wally had blasted a home run his first trip to the plate for the Cards, he was reminded of an incident which occurred when

Wally was coaching the Fish diamond squad in the spring of 1952. It was in the ball park at Austin just before a freshman game between the Fish and UT Shortorns. The Fish were at the plate taking their batting practice when suddenly a batter began driving balls which bounced off the rock cliff in center field. About the third time this happened, I looked down and saw it was Wally Moon. With power like that, it's no wonder Wally was picked by the Carl's organization to replace a man as capable as Country Slaughter. The freshman team Wally coached in 1952 had such stalwarts as Brownie Northrup, starting shortstop for the Aggies this year, and pitching ace Joe Hardgrove and Jerry Nelson. The varsity batting leader, catcher Jimmy Williams, was also on the Moon-coached team. Named for the famous University of Alabama back of the Golden Twenties, Wallace Wade, Wallace Moon is truly a son Texas A&M can be proud of.
